“It seems unnecessary to enumerate all the different alterations and amendments. They will appear, and it is to be hoped the reasons of them also, upon a comparison of this with the Book of Common Prayer of the Church of England. In which it will also appear that this Church is far from intending to depart from the Church of England in any essential point of doctrine, dicipline, or worship; or farther than local circumstances require.” (Preface of the American Prayer Book.)

PREFACE.

AS Keeling's invaluable Liturgiæ Britannicæ is intended to set forth the wording of the various Prayer Books of the Church of England since 1549, so the present work is primarily an attempt to give the wording of the Prayer Book used in the United States together with the Articles of Religion, compared with the Proposed Book of 1786 (which was never adopted), and with the English Prayer Book of 1662 in use when this country was a dependency of the British Crown. In the footnotes I have given such items of information, gathered chiefly from the works of Bishop White, as help to throw light on the reasons for the departures from the English Book made by the revisers of 1789, and also the immediate originals of all those prayers, thanksgivings, and collects which are peculiar to the American Book, except those of the prayer For Malefactors after Condemnation, and the Thanksgiving for the beginning of a Recovery; the sources of these are yet to be discovered. I have taken no notice of variations in punctuation, and merely typographical differences, which exist between the Proposed Book and the English Book, and even between the various editions of the American Prayer Book. Indeed the arrangement adopted for this comparative reprint precluded such notice, which could only be adequately done by reprinting all the books in extenso. In a few cases, however, where these variations seemed to be of sufficient importance, attention has been drawn to them in the footnotes. I have drawn up for the Introduction, a history of the American Prayer Book from which, it is thought, no salient fact has been omitted; and in Appendix II will be found a verbatim reprint of illustrative documents.

The Rev. Frederick Gibson, D. D., has kindly contributed the bibliographical account of the Standard Editions of the American Prayer Book which immediately follows the Introduction, and also a Critical Examination of the Psalter printed as Appendix I. In the preparation of the latter work he has been occupied for some years, during which time he has consulted the principal libraries of England as well as of this country. His well-established reputation for painstaking accuracy is a sufficient assurance beforehand of the value of any work done by him.

At the outset, I desire the reader to remember that, in the preparation of this work, the object kept in view has been to give an impartial statement of facts connected with the Prayer Book, without the expression of opinion as to any conclusion which might or might not be drawn from such facts. And therefore, where it has been necessary consistently with this aim to point out in the footnotes alterations introduced from time to time into the American Prayer Book by editors or editing committees, I do not wish to be understood as thereby giving any opinion as to the desirability or otherwise of such changes in themselves, or as to the legality of the method in which they were made; all such questions I leave to the judgment of the reader.

A word of explanation may be needed with regard to what constitutes the standard text of the American Prayer Book. The first edition was published in 1790; at the next General Convention in 1792, a committee was appointed "to compare the printed edition of the Book of Common Prayer with the original acts of the last General Convention where they may judge it necessary." The result of their work was the setting forth of a corrected book in 1793, which was the first edition officially styled "the Standard." Thereafter as occasion required, the Prayer Book was re-edited by Committees appointed by General Convention, and each time a new standard was authorized which displaced the previous one, and was supposed to represent the true text of the Church's liturgy. Accordingly there have been, since the first edition published in 1790, seven standard editions, viz.: 1793, 1822, 1832, 1838, 1845, 1871 and 1892, the last being not a set of plates, but a single volume duly authenticated. It may perhaps be unnecessary to remind the reader that the American Prayer Book continued without revision for almost a hundred years, and therefore these various Standards, except the last one, are simply so many editions of the same book.

Prior to 1811, one session of General Convention could make (cæteris paribus) any change it saw fit in the Prayer Book. This being the case, if the Convention set forth a book as the only pure text, it became so eo ipso, whether it had been so before or not. But in 1811, before the publication of the second Standard, the eighth article of the Constitution of the Church was so amended that it required the action of two consecutive General Conventions, together with formal notification during the interim to all the dioceses, before any alteration or addition could be made.

The Standard of 1793 is therefore the foundation text of the American Prayer Book. And since it was the last edition in which the General Convention could make alterations at one session, all changes made thereafter from that text, are in this work placed in the footnotes, except such as have been constitutionally ordered by the action of two successive Conventions, or such as are manifest corrections of misprints. Errors of this kind are to be found in all the Standards, not excepting the one of 1793, and have always been corrected when discovered. Some of them originated in the editio princeps of 1790 and in the first Standard, but others have been inherited from the Proposed Book and the editions of the English Book current in this country in the last century, and a few are as old as the sixteenth century. A large number of such errors were corrected in 1845, others in 1871, and an exceedingly large number by the painstaking committee which has just completed its labours.

The Proposed Book, which will be found paralleled with the English Prayer Book, is the revision of the latter made by the first General Convention in 1785 and published, with many changes by its Committee, in 1786. A full account of it is given in the Introduction to the present volume. Although it was not adopted by the Church, it influenced the revision of 1789, and many of its peculiarities passed into the American Prayer Book. Of this book there have been already three reprints. The first was published in London by "J. Debrett, opposite Burlington House, Piccadilly, M,DCC,LXXXIX." The second is to be found in Hall's Reliquæ Liturgiæ, Vol. V. The third, copied from the London reprint of 1789, was put forth in this country in 1873 for polemical purposes by those who with Bishop Cummins left the Church at that time. The present, and fourth reprint, is made from a copy of the original book in the Philadelphia Library.

The text of the English Book reprinted in this volume is that of the Oxford quarto of 1775, probably the last edition of the Prayer Book of the Church of England used in this country. It was the edition by which the Proposed Book was punctuated as we learn from Dr. White (afterward the first Bishop of Pennsylvania) in a letter to Dr. Smith:—"I have rec'd yours of the 28th which I have sent to the press in the manner you approve of, having first reviewed and compared the pointing of it with an Oxford edition of the Prayer Book printed in 1775, and adjusted it accordingly. This I think you cannot but approve of, as the said edition appears to have been made on great deliberation in that Seat of letters. I observed that wherever you had altered the pointing in the proof sheet, you had done it conformably to the same book. I intend to bestow the same pains on all I shall send to the press."¹ The copy of this edition from which the present reprint was made belongs to the historic parish of St. Peters, Philadelphia.

In parallelling these Prayer Books, the arrangement of Keeling's Liturgiæ Britanicæ has been followed as being on the whole the most satisfactory. Accordingly the present text of the American Book as ordered by General Convention to be set forth in 1892, is printed in the first column marked "[Sd. 1892]," and the text in use prior to the recent revision is contained in the second column, which has the heading, "[Ed. 1790, Sds. 1793-1871]." The parts which were added after 1790, viz.: the forms of Ordination, the order for the Consecration of a Church, the Institution of Ministers, and the Articles of Religion, have in the heading at the top of the column, for the first date, the year in which they were respectively authorized.

The Tables of Lessons marked "[1877 (Eng. Bk. 1871)]" are those set forth by the Church of England in 1871, and permitted to be used in this country for three years by the General Convention of 1877. They are reprinted from the official copy sent out by the Secretary of the House of Deputies.

The Proposed Book published in 1786, is contained in the third column marked, "[Prop. Bk. 1786]." The English Prayer Book is printed in the fourth column with the heading, "[Eng. Bk. 1775 (1662)]."

Those portions which are common to the American books before and after the late revision are printed across the page; and similarly those which are common to the Proposed Book and the English Book, attention being drawn to the verbal differences in the footnotes.

This general plan has been departed from where whole offices, or portions of considerable length are found in one liturgy only, and consequently to have printed them in any single column would have caused an unsightly extent of blank space. A careful attention to the names and dates placed at the top of each page will guide the reader and prevent any confusion.

Those offices of the American Book which have nothing corresponding to them in the English Prayer Book, viz.: the offices for the Visitation of Prisoners, Thanksgiving Day, Family Prayers, Consecration of a Church, and Institution of Ministers, have been paralleled with the offices from which they were derived. The Irish Office for the Visitation of Prisoners, set forth by the Synod of Dublin in 1711 is marked, "[Irish Office, 1711]", and is taken from a Prayer Book printed at Dublin by George Grierson in 1730. The original of the office of Thanksgiving Day is found in the Proposed Book. Bishop Gibson's Family Prayers is reprinted from a volume in the possession of the Rt. Rev., the Bishop of Cairo, entitled, "Family Devotion | or, an | Exhortation | to | Morning and Evening | Prayer | in Families | with two | Forms of Prayer | suited to these two seasons, and also fitted for the | Use of one Person in Private. | To which are now added, | Two shorter Forms to be used by Children and | Servants, when they cannot conveniently be present at | the Family Prayers. | First drawn up for the Use of the Inhabitants of | the Parish of Lambeth, and now Revised and Enlarged, | By the Right Reverend Father in God, | Edmund Gibson, D. D., | Late Lord Bishop of London. | Now reprinted at the Recommendation and under the | Direction of the Right Reverend John Lord Bishop of Clogher. | The Twenty-Sixth Edition | Dublin: | Printed for Robert Barton, No. 2. Capel-Street | M,DCC,LXXIX."

The order for the Consecration of a Church drawn up by the English Convocation of 1712 is marked "[Eng. Convocation, 1712]," and is copied from Burn's Ecclesiastical Law, 2d edition, London, 1767. The Office of Induction adopted by the clergy in Connecticut in 1799, and the one set forth by the General Convention of 1804, are marked respectively, "[Conn., 1799]" and "[1804-1808]." They are both reprinted from the original pamphlets preserved in the archives of the diocese of Connecticut.

In a work of this kind, involving the collation of so many books, it is hopeless to guard against all typographical slips. Every care, however, has been taken by repeated revision to secure accuracy, and it is hoped that no misprints will be found of such a character as to mislead the reader. I shall be glad to be informed of any inaccuracies which may be discovered that they may be corrected in case of the issue of a future edition.

It only remains for me to express my thanks to those who, in one way or another, have aided me in the preparation of this volume. In the first place, I desire to thank the Rev. Frederick Gibson, D. D., of Baltimore, for the use of his set of the Standard Prayer Books, and also to gratefully acknowledge the obligations which, in common with all students of the American Prayer Book, I am under to his labours as presented in various articles contributed by him to the Church periodicals. It may be safely said that until the appearance of his unique essay on The American Book of Common Prayer and its Several Standard Editions,¹ little or nothing was known of these books. Even the scholarly Dr. Coit, much as he contributed to the criticism of the Prayer Book, seems to have been acquainted with only one or two of the earlier Standards. To Dr. Gibson belongs the credit of inaugurating the scientific study of the text of the American Prayer Book, and the result of his researches will be of permanent interest and value to the Church. I have also derived much information from him in personal converse, when he has always gladly imparted the knowledge accumulated through years of patient investigation. It is, however, only just to him to say, that I alone am responsible for the present work, his responsibility being limited to the two articles to which his name is attached.

I have also to express my obligations to my diocesan, the Right Rev. the Bishop of Pennsylvania, for his kind permission to examine the archives of the diocese; to the Rt. Rev. Charles R. Hale, D. D., Bishop of Cairo, for the use of his copy of Bishop Gibson's Family Prayers; to the Rev. Henry R. Percival, D. D., Rector of the Church of the Evangelists, Philadelphia, for the information gathered from the many articles and essays which have appeared from his pen during the past twelve years, for the use of his extensive library, and for his many criticisms and suggestions which have added greatly to the value of the work; to the Rev. Samuel Hart, D. D., Secretary of the House of Bishops, for the unfailing kindness with which he answered my many enquiries, and for providing me with the editio princeps of the offices of Ordination, and the original pamphlets with the offices of Induction of 1799 and 1804 from which to make the reprints found in this volume; to the Rev. William R. Huntington, D. D., D. C. L., Rector of Grace Church, New York, for the kind gift of a number of valuable pamphlets bearing upon the recent revision of the Prayer Book: to the Rev. Canon W. R. Churton, D. D., of King's College, Cambridge, England, for some items of information; to the Rev. J. Lewis Parks, D. D., Rector of St. Peter's Church, Philadelphia, who courteously entrusted me with the copy of the Oxford Prayer Book of 1775 belonging to his parish; to the Rev. C. Ellis Stevens, LL. D., D. C. L., Rector of Christ Church, Philadelphia, for permission to use the rare collection of books preserved in the vestry of that Church; to the Rev. Thomas P. Hughes, D. D., Rector of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, New York, for the text of Bishop Colton's prayer for Missions; to James S. Biddle, Esq., of Philadelphia, for his active interest in the work even before its inception and during its whole progress; to Andrew Wheeler, Esq., Jr., of Philadelphia, for kindly consenting to act as Secretary; and to the many Right Reverend Bishops and others of the Clergy and Laity, both in this country and in England, who by their subscriptions rendered possible the publication of the work.

In conclusion I have but to express the hope, that in the following pages something has been contributed to deepen interest in the history of the Book of Common Prayer, and that others may be stirred up to prosecute the work still further, feeling assured that the more the Prayer Book is studied, the more it will be loved, and the more marvellous will appear God's watchful care over the Church in America.

AN HISTORICAL ACCOUNT OF THE
AMERICAN BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER.

THE Book of Common Prayer of the Church of England, as revised in 1661, was the liturgy in use in this country at the time of the Revolution. Immediately after the Declaration of Independence in 1776, it was altered by Rectors and vestries here and there, and in Virginia by the State Convention, in order to adapt it to the changed political conditions.¹

Maryland Conventions, 1783.

But the first concerted action, looking towards an authoritative revision of the Prayer Book, was taken in a meeting of clergymen at Washington College, Chestertown, Maryland, on the 13th of May, 1783. As the Church in this State was still established by law, a memorial and petition to the General Assembly was drawn up praying "that the said clergy might have leave to consult, prepare, and draft a bill," enabling them "to make such alterations in the liturgy and service as might adapt the same to the revolution, and for other purposes of uniformity, concord, and subordination to the State." The memorial was signed by William Smith and Thomas Gates as a Committee.² The petition having been granted, another meeting of the clergy was held at Annapolis, August 13th, 1783, at which there was drawn up A Declaration of Certain Fundamental Rights and Liberties of the Protestant Episcopal³ Church of Maryland, &c. In this document it was declared, "That as it is the right, so it will be the duty, of the said Church, when duly organized, constituted, and represented in a Synod or Convention of the different orders of her Ministry and people, to revise her liturgy, forms of prayer, and public worship, in order to adapt the same to the late revolution, and other local circumstances of America; which it is humbly conceived, may and will be done without any other or farther departure from the venerable order and beautiful forms of worship of the Church from whence we sprung, than may be found expedient in the change of our situation from a daughter to a sister church."¹

Pennsylvania Convention, 1784.

After the meeting at Annapolis, we next have a Convention of the Church in Pennsylvania, which met at Christ Church, Philadelphia, May 24–25, 1784. There were present five clergymen and twenty-two laymen. "This was the first ecclesiastical assembly in any of the States consisting partly of lay members." Among the fundamental principles proposed as instructions by this Convention to a Committee "Empowered to correspond and confer with representatives from the Episcopal Church in other States or any of them, and to assist in forming an Ecclesiastical Government," the following is the third article: "That the doctrines of the Gospel be maintained as now professed by the Church of England; and uniformity of worship continued, as near as may be, to the liturgy of the said Church."²

Convention at Boston, 1784.

A meeting of the clergy of Massachusetts, and Rhode Island was held in Boston, September 8th, 1784, when there were adopted the six fundamental principles set forth by the Pennsylvania Convention. A slight addition was made to two of the articles, but the third touching the doctrine and worship of the Church was accepted word for word as above. A copy of these resolutions was sent to the clergy of Connecticut, New York and Pennsylvania, together with a letter urging the necessity of "adopting some speedy measures to procure an American Episcopate." "We are extremely anxious for the preservation of our Communion and the continuance of an uniformity of doctrine and worship, but we see not how this can be maintained without a common head."⁴ That such was also the view of the Connecticut clergy, will appear from the following extract, probably written about this time by the Rev. Mr. Jarvis in their name: "The clergy in Connecticut consider the Church in which they officiate as collected and formed upon the principles on which the Church was at first founded by her great Head. Therefore what they have to deliberate upon and endeavour to carry into effect, in the first place is, that she be settled in the full enjoyment of the spiritual powers and officers essential to her: viz., a Bishop, from whom alone all the other officers in the Ministry derive their commission. And when this is accomplished, and our Church thus completed in her members, then, 2. The clergy of this State will consider it as their duty, as that is ascertained by Scripture and primitive example, to revise the Liturgy and render as perfect, as they may be able, whatever shall be found needful for a pure and Scriptural worship for all Christians of her communion."¹

Convention at New York, 1784.

In accordance with the arrangement made at a meeting held at New Brunswick, New Jersey, May 11th, there assembled in New York, October 6-7, 1784, a Convention of fifteen clergymen and eleven laymen, from Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, and Maryland. The Rev. Mr. Griffith from Virginia was present by permission but not as a delegate, as the Church in that State was not yet free from civil control. Connecticut, consistently with the principles it had thus far acted upon, sent no lay representative. The clergy there "thought themselves fully adequate to the business of representing the Episcopal Church in their State," and "the laity did not expect or wish to be called in as delegates on such an occasion; but would, with full confidence, trust matters purely ecclesiastical to their clergy."²

Among the fundamental principles adopted with a view to the future unification of the Church, and proposed to the Church in all the States, the following is the fourth article: "That the said Church shall maintain the doctrines of the Gospel as now held by the Church of England, and shall adhere to the liturgy of the said Church, as far as shall be consistent with the American revolution and the Constitution of the respective States."³ The declaration of this principle, writes Mr. Parker, is "disgusting to many of our Communion who neither like the doctrines held by the Church of England nor the liturgy as it now stands."⁴ At this Convention, formal action was taken towards uniting the Church under one legislative body, by inviting the Episcopal Church in each State to send deputies to a General Convention, consisting of clergymen and laity, to be held in Philadelphia the "Tuesday before the feast of Saint Michael and All Angels," 1785.

Concordat of Bishop Seabury with the Scotch Bishops.

At a meeting of ten clergymen in Woodbury, Connecticut, March 25th, 1783, the Rev. Dr. Samuel Seabury had been chosen to go to England to ask for consecration to the Episcopate. Compliance with his request not having been granted by the English Bishops, he proceeded to Scotland, and on the 14th day of November (the xxii Sunday after Trinity) 1784, was consecrated Bishop at Aberdeen by three of the Scotch Bishops. On the following day a Concordat was drawn up between them, of which the following is the fifth article: "As the celebration of the holy Eucharist, or the Administration of the Sacrament of the Body and Blood of Christ, is the principal Bond of Union among Christians, as well as the most Solemn Act of Worship in the Christian Church, the Bishops aforesaid agree in desiring that there may be as little Variance here as possible. And tho' the Scottish Bishops are very far from prescribing to their Brethren in this matter, they cannot help ardently wishing that Bishop Seabury would endeavour all he can consistently with peace and prudence, to make the Celebration of this venerable Mystery conformable to the most primitive Doctrine and practice in that respect: Which is the pattern the Church of Scotland has copied after in her Communion Office, and which it has been the wish of some of the most Eminent Divines of the Church of England, that she also had more closely followed, than she seems to have done since she gave up her first reformed Liturgy used in the Reign of Edward VI., between which and the form used in the Church of Scotland there is no Difference in any point, which the primitive Church reckoned essential to the right Ministration of the holy Eucharist.—In this capital Article therefore of the Eucharistic Service, in which the Scottish Bishops so earnestly wish for as much Unity as possible, Bishop Seabury also agreed to take a serious View of the Communion Office recommended by them, and if found agreeable to the Genuine Standards of Antiquity, to give his Sanction to it, and by Gentle Methods of Argument and persuasion, to endeavour, as they have done, to introduce it by degrees into practice without the Compulsion of Authority on the one side, or the prejudice of former custom on the other side.”¹

Virginia Convention, 1785.

The Church in Virginia having been set free from civil control, a Convention of thirty-six clergymen and upwards of seventy laymen, gathered at Richmond, May 18–23, 1785. It was decided to send deputies to the General Convention, and a letter of instruction “concerning doctrine and worship” was framed for their guidance. In this letter the deputies were told that “from the Holy Scriptures rather than the comments of men, must we learn the terms of salvation. Creeds therefore ought to be simple: And we are not anxious to retain any other than that which is commonly called the Apostles’ Creed. Should a change in the Liturgy be proposed, let it be made with caution: And in that case let the alterations be few, and the style of prayer continue as agreeable as may be to the essential characteristics of our persuasion. We will not now decide what ceremonies ought to be retained. We wish, however, that those which exist may be estimated according to their utility; and that such as may appear fit to be laid aside, may no longer be appendages of our Church.”² A resolution was also passed directing “that until farther order of the Convention, the liturgy of the Church of England be used in the several churches throughout this Commonwealth with such alterations as the American revolution has rendered necessary.”³

Convocation at Middletown, 1785.

On the 2d day of August, 1785, the clergy of Connecticut met at Middletown to receive Bishop Seabury but shortly returned from Scotland. Eleven clergymen were present together with the Rev. Mr. Moore of New York, and the Rev. Mr. Parker of Boston. A Convocation was afterwards held on August 4th and 5th, at which a Committee was appointed to act with the Bishop in making “some alterations in the liturgy needful for the present use of the Church.”⁴ “Having the honour,” writes Mr. Parker to Bishop Seabury some time afterward, "of being named in that Committee, in conjunction with the Rev'd Messrs. Jarvis and Bowdoin, you will recollect, sir, that we spent Friday and Saturday in that week upon this subject, and that most, if not all the proposed alterations were such as we were under obligation to you for, or such as you readily agreed to."¹ The changes in the State prayers were set forth at once in an Injunction dated August 12th, 1785,² but the other alterations were reserved to be reported at a meeting to be held at New Haven in September. A copy of them was transmitted "to the Rev'd Dr. Smith of Maryland, to be communicated to the Convention to be held at Philadelphia, in the month of October."³

Convention at Boston, 1785.

They were also laid before a Convention of four clergymen and ten lay deputies from Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and New Hampshire, which assembled at Boston, September 7th and 8th of the same year. The substitutes for the State prayers were received and adopted by this Convention with the change of a single word, viz., the word "State," in place of which the word "Commonwealth" was used. The other proposed alterations, with two exceptions, were also agreed to and proposed to the churches in the States represented.⁴ "You will see upon perusal of them," says the Rev. Mr. Parker writing to Bishop Seabury, "that those proposed at Middletown are mostly adopted, and some few others proposed. The only material ones we have not agreed to are the omitting of the second Lesson in the Morning Service and the Gospel and Exhortations in the Baptismal Office. The additional alterations in some of the offices are such as were mentioned at Middletown, but which we had not time to enter upon them."⁵ The text of the alterations drawn up at Middletown, other than those set forth in Bishop Seabury's Injunction, is unfortunately lost.⁶ But that they did not differ in their general character from those proposed at Boston would seem to be clear from a letter of the Rev. Mr. Parker to Bishop Seabury, in which he assumes the substantial identity of both sets of alterations, and expressly speaks of them as "these alterations suggested by yourself and adopted by this [i. e., the Boston] Convention."⁷ And writing to Dr. White, he says, "Certain alterations were proposed in the liturgy of the Church by the Bishop of Connecticut and at his request lay before the Convention at Boston for their approbation, and those were made the basis of our proceedings, but when approved were not to be adopted till the other churches had approved of them also, in order if possible to obtain an uniformity. And accordingly we have not yet made any alterations except a substitute for the State prayers."¹

From these propositions for the revision of the Prayer Book, drawn up by New England Churchmen, the Proposed Book of 1786 immediately derived not a few of its most characteristic features. It is here that we first meet with the omission from the Te Deum of the clause, "thou didst not abhor the Virgin's womb" and the substitution of, "thou didst humble thyself to be born of a pure virgin." Here also we meet with the omission of the article on the Descent into Hell from the Apostles' Creed; the disuse of the Athanasian Creed; the permission to omit the Nicene Creed; the omission of the second Lord's Prayer and the Kyries in Morning and Evening Prayer, and likewise of the Lord's Prayer at the beginning of the Communion Service; the saying of Gloria Patri but once; the doing away with the interrogative Creed in Baptism; the permission to omit the Sign of the Cross in Baptism; the change in the formula of Committal in the Burial of the Dead; the omission of the Churching office; the omission of the form of private Absolution; the reducing of the exhortation in the Marriage Service to one sentence; the permission to omit the Collect for the day from one service when Morning Prayer is followed by the Communion; and the permission to read the Communion Service in the desk.² It needs only the most cursory examination of the Proposed Book to convince anyone of the positive influence exercised by these suggestions in shaping the revision of the Prayer Book in the General Convention held a few weeks afterward. Moreover we have the express statement of Dr. William Smith, in a letter to be cited hereafter, acknowledging his indebtedness to the work of the Committee appointed at Middletown and the Boston Convention.

Convocation at New Haven, 1785.

These proposed alterations, although most of them, according to Mr. Parker, were either suggested by Bishop Seabury, or such as he readily agreed to, did not commend themselves to the general body of Church people in Connecticut, and at the Convocation which met at New Haven on the 14th of September, 1785, they do not seem to have been even presented for discussion. The result of this Convocation, so far as the revision of the Prayer Book was concerned, may be given in the words of Bishop Seabury writing to Mr. Parker. "Between the time of our parting at Middletown and the clerical meeting in New Haven, it was found that the Church people in Connecticut were much alarmed at the thought of any considerable alteration being made in the Prayer Book; and upon the whole it was judged that no alterations should be attempted at present, but to wait till a little time shall have cooled down the temper and conciliated the affections of the people to each other."³

² If we are to believe Mr. Parker, as cited above, Bishop Seabury was chiefly responsible for suggesting these alterations. Yet we know that after the action of the General Convention of 1785 he exerted himself to the utmost to have the Apostles' Creed restored to its integrity, and to have the two other Creeds replaced in the Prayer Book.

New York, May, 1784, the first General Convention assembled at Christ Church, Philadelphia, on September 27th, 1785, and continued in session until the seventh of the following month, under the presidency of the Rev. Dr. William White. There were present sixteen clergymen and twenty-six laymen, representing seven States, viz.: New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, and South Carolina. No delegates were sent from the New England States. On the second day a Committee was appointed, of which the Rev. Dr. William Smith of Maryland was Chairman, "to report such alterations in the liturgy, as shall render it consistent with the American revolution and the Constitutions of the respective States: and such further alterations in the liturgy as it may be advisable for the Convention to recommend to the consideration of the Church here represented." As this Committee was also directed to "report a draft of an ecclesiastical Constitution," it divided itself into two sub-divisions, one of which took charge of the revision of the Prayer Book, the other prepared the draft of a Constitution. Dr. Wm. White was assigned to the latter, and so had no hand in the work of liturgical revision.

When the alterations in the Prayer Book were brought by the sub-Committee into the General Committee on the fifth day, "they were not reconsidered; because the ground would have to be gone over again in the Convention." "Even in the Convention there were but few points canvassed with any material difference of opinion."¹ With regard to the Service for the Fourth of July, an office which Dr. Smith had compiled from the State services then in the English Prayer Book, Dr. White objected to its adoption on the ground of the inexpediency of requiring the use of such an office. "To his great surprise, there was but one gentleman, and he a professed friend to American independence, who spoke on the same side of the question; and there were very few, if any, who voted with the two speakers against the measure."² Only on two points does the opinion of him, who was afterward the first Bishop of Pennsylvania, seem to have had any modifying influence in the Convention on the report of the Committee. The one was with regard to the Article on Justification, in place of which he succeeded in having the English Article restored; the other was with regard to the Article on Original Sin, the phraseology of which he induced the Convention to amend.³ So little did he have to do with the revision of the Prayer Book at this time. The facile princeps in this work, both in the Committee and in the Convention, was Dr. William Smith, of Maryland. And the Convention formally recognized the important part he had taken, by extending to him a vote of thanks "for his exemplary diligence and the great assistance he had rendered this Convention as Chairman of their Committee, in perfecting the important business in which they have been engaged," and asked him to preach the sermon at the close of the session. It was also resolved "that the service be then read as proposed for future use." Which last resolution Bishop White speaks of as a 'capital error which helped to confirm the opinion that the proposed alterations were to be introduced with a high hand.'⁴

tion, on this occasion, will set before us the aim had in view by Dr. Smith in the work of revision. Speaking of the changes made in the Prayer Book, he says: "Ardent and of long continuance, have been the wishes of many of the greatest, wisest and best Divines of our Church, for some alterations and improvements of this kind. Among these we have a Whitby, Tillotson, Sanderson, Stillingfleet, Burnet, Beveridge, Wake, Tenison, Hales, and innumerable others of venerable name among the Clergy, and among the Laity a multitude more, at the head of whom may be placed the great Lord Bacon, the father of almost all reformation and improvement in modern philosophy and science.....The greatest and most important alterations and amendments were proposed at the Revolution, that great æra of liberty, when in 1689 commissioners were appointed.....At the commencement of a new æra in the civil and religious condition of mankind in this new world, and upon another great revolution about a hundred years after the former, all these proposed alterations and amendments were in our hands, and we had it in power to adopt or even improve them.....It is our duty, as it hath been our great endeavour in all the alterations proposed, to make the consciences of those easy who believe in the true principles of Christianity in general, and who, could they be made easy on certain points no way essential to Christianity itself, would rather become worshippers, as well as labourers, in that part of Christ's vineyard, in which we profess to worship and to labour, than in any other.....Let us not, therefore, repeat former errors, nor let the advantages now in our hands slip from us."¹

The alterations accepted by the Convention were set forth under two general heads, viz: "Alterations agreed on and confirmed in Convention, for rendering the Liturgy conformable to the principles of the American revolution, and the Constitutions of the several States,"² and "Alterations in the Book of Common Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments, and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church, according to the use of the Church of England, proposed and recommended to the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America."³ It will be observed that the first of these two sets of alterations was "agreed on and confirmed" by the Convention, the second is not said to be adopted, but only "proposed and recommended." An editing Committee, consisting of the Rev. Dr. White, the Rev. Dr. Smith, and the Rev. Dr. Wharton, was appointed "to publish the Book of Common Prayer with the alterations, as well as those now ratified, in order to render the Liturgy consistent with the American revolution and the Constitutions of the respective States, as the alterations and new Offices recommended to this Church; and that the book be accompanied with a proper Preface or Address, setting forth the reason and expediency of the alterations, and that the Committee have the liberty to make verbal and grammatical corrections, but in such manner, as that nothing in form or substance be altered." The Committee was also "authorized to publish with the Book of Common Prayer, such of the reading and singing Psalms, and such a Kalendar of proper lessons for the different Sundays and Holy-days throughout the year, as they may think proper." With these ample powers the Committee set about their work. The occasional letters which passed between them during the winter and spring of 1785-1786 bring before us the ideas of liturgical revision prevalent at the time, and are among the most valuable of the documents illustrative of the history of the Prayer Book in America.¹

The Preface for the new Prayer Book was written by Dr. Smith. The Tables of Lessons and the Easter Tables were prepared by Dr. White. The Psalter the most original feature of the work seems to have been the joint work of all three members of the Committee. In its preparation the Psalms were very freely handled; those portions which for one reason or other were thought to be unsuitable for Christian worship were omitted, and new Psalms were made by the combination of verses gathered out of two or more of the Psalms of David. The result was a series of sixty centos, two of which were assigned to each day of the month, one for the Morning, the other for the Evening service. Some of the verses of this new Psalter were taken from the Prayer Book version, others were from the Authorized Version, and still others were original renderings of the compilers.

The guiding principles of this revision as a whole were those which characterized the work of the Commissioners of 1689. It is exceedingly doubtful however that anyone in the Convention of 1785 was acquainted with the original records² of this attempted revision in the reign of William III.³ The Preface of the Proposed Book probably indicates the chief sources from whence the knowledge Dr. Smith possessed of the "great and good work" of 1689 was derived. Bishop Burnet,⁴ and Dr. William Nicholls⁵ are there credited by name, and a quotation is made from "other certain account," which, although the Preface does not say so, is probably taken from the Puritan Calamy,⁶ who had gathered together all the exceptions made against the Prayer Book. Besides these, we learn from a letter of Dr. Smith's⁷ that Warner⁸ was consulted, who had given an account of the alterations prepared by the royal Commissioners, and may have had access to the original documents, for in one instance at least, in his notes on the Athanasian Creed, he quotes them verbatim.

Other suggestions were gathered from what was known as Benjamin Franklin's Prayer Book,¹ and from the editing Committee's own sense of the fitness of things. Whatever was novel in the Articles "was taken from a book in the possession of the Rev. Dr. Smith. The book was anonymous, and was one of the publications which have abounded in England, projecting changes in the established Articles."² But the document which directly exercised the greatest influence in determining the general character of the Proposed Book, was the series of alterations prepared at Middletown, and afterward proposed by the Boston Convention. The Rev. Mr. Parker of Trinity Church Boston writing to Bishop Seabury before the meeting of the first General Convention, says: "We have voted not to send any delegates to the Convention at Philadelphia, but only to acquaint them with our proceedings; and I flatter myself that no other alterations will be adopted by them than those we proposed at Middletown and have agreed to here. If they are so prudent as to pursue the same steps, the desired object of a general uniformity will thereby be obtained."³ Dr. Smith was desirous of doing whatever would contribute to the unification of the Church, and accordingly exerted himself to have suggestions of the New England Churchmen adopted by the General Convention, as he acknowledged in a letter to Mr. Parker written sometime after the adjournment of General Convention. "I trust that after a serious and candid consideration of what we have done, it will have the approbation of the worthy body, clergy as well as laity, who are to meet you in Convention; or that if there be some things which you may judge could have been done otherwise, or better, we can in future editions come to an easy agreement on this head, as would certainly have been the case had we been so happy as to have had your advice and assistance as we expected at the last Convention. I think there are few alterations which you did not wish. As Chairman of the Grand Committee for revising, etc., I had the Alterations which you had proposed in your last meeting put into my hands the first day of our sitting, and you will see that I paid full attention to them, and that we have agreed with you almost in every matter, except only respecting the Nicene Creed, and our Convention in Maryland which met last week have recommended the restoring of that Creed also."⁴

¹ "I have omitted in this Table all the Holy Days besides Easter; because that being known, the next Table shows the others. In all other respects I shall print the said Table, agreeably to Dr. Franklin's Book which has them in the neatest way of any I have seen." (Letter of Dr. White to Dr. Smith, printed in Hist. Notes and Doc., p. 159.) The book here referred to as "Dr. Franklin's" is entitled, Abridgement of the Book of Common Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church according to the use of the Church of England: together with the Psalter or Psalms of David, printed as they are to be sung or said in churches. The first General Convention besides revising the Prayer Book and framing a Constitution addressed a petition to the Archbishops and Bishops of the Church of England requesting them "to confer the Episcopal character on such persons as shall be recommended by this Church in the several States here represented." In a letter dated February 24th, 1786, the English Bishops expressed their desire to use their best endeavours to comply with the prayer of the address, but asked to be first advised as to the alterations which the Convention proposed to make in the Prayer Book, lest they "should be the instrument of establishing an ecclesiastical system which will be called a branch of the Church of England, but afterwards may possibly appear to have departed from it essentially in doctrine or discipline."¹ The Committee appointed to edit the Proposed Book had sent the printed sheets to England as they came from the press, but through some miscarriage they had not reached the Bishops at the time of their writing. "Hence arose the caution with which the Convention was answered by the right reverend bench."²

The revised Prayer Book was published in April, 1786, and almost immediately was referred to as the "Proposed Book," a name by which it has ever since been known. In the preface it was declared that, "It is far from the intention of this Church to depart from the Church of England, any farther than local circumstances require, or to deviate in anything essential to the true meaning of the thirty-nine Articles." Notwithstanding the many departures from the English Book, there is no reason whatever for doubting the perfect sincerity of this declaration. The omissions made by the Convention were prompted by a desire to remove whatever might seem to be a stumbling block in the way of persons otherwise disposed to enter the Church, and not from a wish to deny any doctrine held by the Church of England. It was thought that certain terms and statements could well be spared with great advantage to the Church, and without her doctrinal position being thereby weakened; to use the words of the General Convention of 1786, the omissions made were "such as were calculated to remove objections which it appeared to us more conducive to union and general content to obviate than to dispute." "I wish to God," writes the Rev. Dr. West, a member of the Convention, "that no construction may be put on any of the late Convention proceedings, by which a departure from what some of the Church of England may deem essential to its doctrines may be inferred!.....The next thing we may probably hear, is that the Convention at Philadelphia have rejected the Nicene and Athanasian Creed! The truth is, they omitted, but did not reject them; and could the motive inducing that body to omit them, have been made as public as the actual omission, I trust no ill-natured reflexions would have been made."³ But however excellent were the intentions of the Convention of 1785, the Proposed Book had no sooner issued from the press than it was at once the object of bitter attack. So many were the objections to the book, and so determined was the opposition stirred up against it, that the Rev. Mr. Provoost writing from New York shortly after its appearance, says, "Such a strong party has been raised against the alterations that I am afraid we should not be able to adopt the book at present without danger of a schism—the ostensible object is that they were made without the sanction of a Bishop, but the Thanksgiving for the Fourth of July in all probability is one principal cause of the opposition. The sale of the books has been very dull—only thirteen have been disposed of.”¹

State Conventions subsequent to the First General Convention.

The first State Convention in which the new Prayer Book came up for consideration was that of Maryland, which met at Annapolis, April 4th, 1786. A majority of the clergy were present, but not many of the laity. Among other things, it was recommended that the Nicene Creed should be restored to the Prayer Book, and printed as an alternative with the Apostles' Creed, and that a prayer for the sanctification of the bread and wine should be inserted before the words of institution.² This last proposition, Dr. Smith tells us, “perfectly reconciled Mr. Smith³ to our service, and will prevent any further division between us and the numbers of clergy coming among us from Bp. S[eabury] and the Scots Church.”⁴ These emendations seem to have fallen in with the views of Dr. White, of Pennsylvania, for writing to Dr. Smith he remarks, “I think the proposed alterations of your Convention will render our service more compleat.”⁵ The Church in New Jersey met in Convention on May 19th, at Perth Amboy, and addressed a Memorial to the General Convention, strongly deprecating many of the proposed alterations and the manner in which they had been made.⁶ The Convention of Pennsylvania, which met at Philadelphia, May 22d, proposed a number of amendments to the Proposed Book, chief among which were the restoration of the Nicene Creed, the introduction into the Prayer of Consecration in the Communion Office, of the same clause as that proposed by the Maryland Convention, and the putting back of the Apostles' Creed in the offices of Baptism.⁷ There is every probability that these amendments were suggested by Dr. White. On the 29th of the same month a Convention met at Richmond, Virginia. Its chief objection to the new Prayer Book was with regard to the rubric which directed the Minister to repel notorious evil livers from the Holy Communion. “The offensive matter was not the precise provisions of the rubric, but that there should be any provision of the kind, or power exercised to the end contemplated.”⁸ It drew up a detailed criticism of the new Articles of Religion, and framed a letter of instruction for the delegates to the next General Convention.⁹ At the same time a Convention of the Church in South Carolina was being held at Charlestown. A committee, which had been appointed a month before, presented a carefully prepared report on the proposed changes in the Prayer Book, in which were embodied a number of propositions for still further alterations.¹⁰ The report was adopted, and ‘the Deputies to the General Convention desired to use their endeavours to have its propositions adopted.' It was evidently from the suggestions of the South Carolina Convention that not a few of the features which distinguished the Prayer Book of 1789, not only from the English Book, but also from the Proposed Book, were derived, e. g., the following omissions: the word "again" from the Apostles' Creed, the versicle "O God make speed to save us," with its response, and the three Evangelical canticles. The Convention of New York, which assembled on June 14th, deferred the consideration of the Proposed Book to a future time.¹ No Convention met in Delaware.

General Convention of 1786.

The Second General Convention assembled in Philadelphia, the 20th of June, 1786, and continued in session until the 26th of the same month. There were in attendance fourteen clerical and twelve lay delegates. The first business was to draft a reply to the letter of the English Bishops. In this answer it was declared that, "We are unanimous and explicit in assuring your Lordships, that we neither have departed, nor propose to depart from the doctrine of your Church. We have retained the same discipline and forms of worship, as far as has been consistent with our civil constitutions; and we have made no alterations or omissions in the Book of Common Prayer but such as that consideration prescribed, and such as were calculated to remove objections which it appeared to us more conducive to union and general content to obviate than to dispute."² No action was attempted at this time with regard to the alterations which had been passed with such apparent unanimity the previous October, and the various memorials from the State Conventions on the subject were "referred to the first General Convention which shall assemble with sufficient powers to determine the same." Before adjourning, the Committee of Correspondence with the English prelates was "empowered to call a General Convention whenever a majority of the said Committee shall think necessary."³ Adjourned Meeting of a Convention at Boston, 1786.

The Convention of the Church in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Hampshire which met at Boston, September, 1785, was kept under adjournment until the following July waiting to see what action would be taken by the Church in Connecticut and in the Southern States with regard to the alterations prepared at Middletown and proposed in Boston. As has been already noted these alterations were not generally acceptable to the Churchmen of Connecticut, and no action was there taken with regard to them. "When our Convention met in July by adjournment," writes the Rev. Mr. Parker of Boston, "we found that we were left by our brethren in Connecticut—that they thought it not advisable to make any alterations. The Convention at the southward, though they acceded to some of our alterations had gone much further,⁴ and did not adopt the substitutes for the State prayers."¹ So far, however, was the Proposed Book from being distasteful to the New England Churchmen, outside of Connecticut, that it would probably have been adopted by this Convention, had there been any likelihood of its general acceptance in the Southern States. This we learn from a letter of Mr. Parker to Dr. White, September 15th, 1786: "Our Convention met here on the 20th of July and seemed disposed to adopt your Alterations in the Book of Common Prayer, but were discouraged from the circumstance of your not being agreed to the use of it in those States which were represented in the Convention by which those alterations were proposed. Indeed the Alterations proposed in our own Convention in September last had been sent to the several Churches in these States and returns received from them purporting their approbation of them and readiness to adopt them. And though yours are in a great measure similar, yet as there are some things in which we disagree, it was thought best, all things considered, to leave it optional with the several Churches to adopt which they like best, or even to continue the use of the old liturgy (the State prayers excepted) until we become complete in our officers and one common liturgy is established by the first Order of the Clergy to whom alone, we are of opinion, this matter appertains." Availing himself of the permission given by this Convention, Mr. Parker introduced into the services of Trinity Church, Boston, on the first Sunday in August the alterations proposed the September before, together with the use of the Psalms of the Proposed Book which he had "reprinted by themselves," and which he thought were "much more suitable for public worship than the collective body of David's Psalms."²

⁴ Chiefly in omitting the Nicene Creed, but Mr. Parker's only objection to this was on the score of its inopportuneness:—"No objection, I think, can be made to the omission of the Nicene Creed but the time. Some passages in it are as obscure and unintelligible as many in the Creed of Saint Athanasius, which I am very glad we are rid of." (Hist. Notes and Doc., p. 295.)

Convocation at Derby, Connecticut, 1786.

On the 22d of September, 1786, Bishop Seabury with his clergy assembled in Convocation at Derby. In his charge, the Bishop animadverted to the Proposed Book. Some of the alterations he thought were "for the worse, most of them not for the better." His chief objection, however, rested upon the fact that it had been set forth without Episcopal authority: "Liturgies are left more to the prudence and judgment of the governors of the Church; and the primitive practice seems to have been that the Bishop did, with the advice no doubt of his Presbyters, provide a Liturgy for the use of his diocese. This ought to have been the case here. Bishops should first have been obtained to preside over those Churches. And to those Bishops, with the Proctors of the Clergy, should have been committed the business of compiling a liturgy for the use of the Church throughout the States."³ The Bishop of Connecticut's estimate of the doctrinal character of the Proposed Book may perhaps be gathered from a letter written to the Rev. Mr. Parker sometime afterward: "I never thought there was any heterodoxy in the Southern Prayer Book, but I do think the true doctrine is left too unguarded, and that the offices are, some of them, lowered to such a degree, that they will, in a great measure lose their influence."⁴ It was at this Convocation¹ that Bishop Seabury set forth a Communion Office, which was taken, with some alterations, from that which was then used in Scotland. He did not formally impose it, but "recommended" it to the congregations in his diocese. It "seems to have been almost, if not quite, universally adopted by the clergy of Connecticut."² At the same time, a new State Prayer, and a suffrage in the Litany were provided.³

*General Convention at Wilmington, 1786.*⁴

Upon the receipt of an answer from the English Bishops to the letter sent by the General Convention of 1786, an adjourned Convention was called, and met at Wilmington, October 10th, 1786. In this second communication, their Lordships expressed their willingness to confer the Episcopate upon such properly accredited persons as should be sent to them, but at the same time exhorted the Convention to "restore to its integrity the Apostles' Creed, in which you have omitted an article, merely as it seems, from misapprehension of the sense in which it is understood by our Church; nor can we help adding, that we hope you will think it but a decent proof of the attachment you profess to the services of our liturgy to give the other two Creeds a place in your Book of Common Prayer, even though the use of them should be left discretionary." It is noteworthy that no particular reference was made to the other peculiarities of the Proposed Book, except the very general remark that, "it was impossible not to observe with concern that if the essential doctrines of our common faith were retained, less respect, however, was paid to our liturgy than its own excellence, and your declared attachment to it, had led us to expect."⁴ As a matter of fact the Proposed Book but reflected the ideas of liturgical revision prevalent at the time, and there is little doubt that the majority of the Georgian prelates would gladly have revised the Prayer Book after much the same fashion had they been free to do so. "The feeble recommendation," as Bishop White styles it, that the Athanasian Creed should be restored was understood to have been made more for form's sake and to preclude the cavils of the Non-Jurors, than for any other reason. "The inclination of the Archbishop on that head was, not to give any trouble, but only to avoid any act or omission, which might have been an implicating of them and their Church."⁵ Too much, also, must not be attributed to ¹ Vide Dr. Jarvis' Voice from Connecticut. Before this time Bishop Seabury in his own ministrations may have made some departures from the English Prayer Book for Dr. Smith tells us that rumors were afloat that the Bishop of Connecticut was "making very great alterations from the English Liturgy, especially in the administration of the blessed Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, striving as Archbishop Land did, to introduce again some of those superstitions of which it had been cleared at the Reformation." This latter work printed in 1795 is noteworthy in having the Athanasian Creed, in omitting the Latin titles of the Psalms, and in substituting the future tense for the imperative mood in passages which might be called damnatory. the influence, in the Wilmington Convention, of the letter of the English Bishops. Maryland and Pennsylvania had both voted that the Nicene Creed should be restored long before the second letter of the Bishops' had been received; and in those days, before the unification of the Church, the wishes of State Conventions were of paramount importance in General Convention. When the letter of their Lordships was first received, it was "a matter of surprise that the only thing which looked like a condition made on the subject of the Common Prayer Book, was the restoring of the clause concerning the Descent into Hell, in the Apostles' Creed."¹ And it was principally owing to the objections of one Bishop, the then Bishop of Bath and Wells, that any point was made even of this.² All the other peculiarities of the Proposed Book, were not considered of such a character as to prevent their conferring the Episcopate.

A Committee was appointed to take the communication of the English Bishops into consideration, and to report thereon. "We sat up the whole of the succeeding night," says Bishop White, "digesting the determinations in the form in which they appear in the Journal. When they were brought into the Convention little difficulty occurred in regard to what was proposed concerning the retaining of the Nicene and the rejecting of the Athanasian Creed. But a warm debate arose on the subject of the Descent into Hell in the Apostles' Creed. Although this was at last carried, agreeably to the proposal of the Committee; yet whoever looks into the Journal will see, that the result was not owing to the having of a majority of votes, but to the nullity of the votes of those churches in which the clergy and laity were divided."³ The action of the Convention was set forth in a document, entitled "An Act of the General Convention of Clerical and Lay Deputies of the Protestant Episcopal Church," etc.⁴ "As the matter now stood, there was evidently no ground on which the English Bishops could have rejected the persons sent, unless they had made the Athanasian Creed an essential; which would not have been warranted by the feeble recommendation of their letter."⁵ Affair of King's Chapel, Boston.

Before proceeding further, mention must be made of the trouble at King's Chapel, Boston. The causes which led to the withdrawal of this building from the control of the Church, throw an interesting light upon the history of the Prayer Book during this period. The Chapel was the oldest and most imposing edifice the Church had in Boston. During the progress of the war of the revolution, "Many of the members of the congregation, had gone to Nova Scotia and elsewhere, from disaffection to the American cause. Their pews were let to persons, sundry

³ The action of the Wilmington Convention seems to have given satisfaction everywhere except in Virginia. In a Convention held at Richmond, May 16-20, 1787, it was resolved "that the deputies to be appointed to attend the next General Convention, be instructed to move the General Convention to expunge the words, 'He descended into hell,' inserted in the Apostles' Creed by the General Convention held at Wilmington, and also whatever relates to the restoration of the Nicene Creed." of whom had never professed themselves of the Church, to the members of which they had no other affinity in principle than what consisted in dissatisfaction with the system then generally preached in Boston. Thus a majority was produced, to whom were sacrificed the rights of the real members of the Episcopal Church. The remembrance of the manoeuvre should be perpetuated," continues Bishop White, "for the guarding against the like in the future."¹ Unitarianism was at the time beginning to make rapid strides through New England. Its spirit was already present in many of the Congregational churches, and soon took firm hold of the congregation of King's Chapel. 'It was because here that spirit met the clear terms of a stated and required liturgy,' observes the late Bishop Brooks, 'that that Church was the first to set itself avowedly upon the basis of the new belief.'² "The liturgy of the Church of England was believed by that Society" one of the Unitarian members of the Chapel tells us, "to be essentially erroneous with regard to the object of prayer," in that they held that Christ ought not to be addressed with prayers of divine worship.³ "They waited with patience till the result of the Convention which was held at New York, October, 1784, was known. When, however, they found it was established as a fundamental principle by that Convention, that the Episcopal Church in America 'shall maintain the doctrines of the Gospel as now held by the Church of England, and shall adhere to the liturgy of the said Church as far as shall be consistent with the American revolution,' etc.—they concluded that no more time was to be lost, and that as there was no expectation that a great and liberal reformation would be made, they had an undoubted right to deliver themselves from what seemed to them unscriptural impositions."⁴ Accordingly on June 19th, 1785, the congregation set forth a revised Prayer Book, based upon that of Dr. Samuel Clarke. The object "in the new liturgy was to leave out all such expressions as wound the conscience of a Unitarian, without introducing any which should displease a Trinitarian."⁵ And the book was intended to be of so comprehensive a nature "that every sect may conscientiously adopt it. It is general and indefinite like the sacred Scriptures, and every sect may reason from it, as from the sacred Scriptures in defence of their peculiar tenets."⁶ "Some reasonable expectations were entertained that the Convention which was to be held in Philadelphia (1785) would expunge all disputable doctrines (and the doctrine of the Trinity is certainly disputable, to say nothing more of it), and whilst they inserted no expression in the liturgy which could wound an Athanasian, that they would leave out all which would hurt the conscience of a Unitarian."⁷

But the action of the first General Convention afforded but little satisfaction to these expectations. In the Proposed Book Christ was as distinctly the object of worship with the Father and the Holy Ghost as in the English Book. Still the people of King's Chapel were loath to suffer the loss of prestige that separation from the Episcopal Church would entail. They hoped that a modus vivendi might be found within the Church for the Unitarians as well as for those who worshipped the Triune God. The Proposed Book was evidently not going to be the established liturgy, and in the Convention which was to meet in June, 1786, more liberal counsels might prevail. Accordingly, Mr. Miller appealed to Dr. White in order to enlist his influence in behalf of the congregation of King's Chapel. In the first place he regretted that the 34th of the Articles of the Church of England reads "That it is not necessary that traditions and ceremonies be in all places one or utterly alike.' Had a more general and enlarged idea been expressed in the Article; it would, in my opinion, have contributed more to the peace and harmony of the Church. For it appears to me that it is not necessary that traditions, ceremonies, doctrines and public prayers be one or utterly alike even in different congregations of the same Church. For were the several congregations which compose a Church permitted to make such alterations and omissions in the liturgy as might appear to them necessary, they might forever continue united as one body, under their Episcopal heads, however various their sentiments might be. The Athanasian, whilst his conscience would not allow him to leave out the petitions to the Son and Holy Ghost, might rest satisfied with having these addresses printed in the liturgy, and might cheerfully and candidly permit the Unitarian to suppress them."¹ He further urged the consideration that the enlarged membership gained to the Episcopal Church by the adoption of this principle would be a powerful offset to the influence of the Roman Church: "The ambitious schemes of that Church or of any other enterprising zealots will most effectually be crushed by the Episcopal Church accomplishing a plan which will be truly great and liberal. For whilst she tenaciously adheres to disputable doctrines many conscientious persons will be prevented from joining her Communion, though they might otherwise be engaged by the general propriety and beauty of her worship. There is also reason to apprehend that other congregations, beside that of which I am a member, will, should they become Unitarians, separate themselves from the Episcopal Church, and form themselves into independent societies. Should Unitarian sentiments spread as rapidly in America as they have the last century in England, revolts from the Episcopal Church may become very frequent, as no causes of an interested nature exist here to prevent a separation."²

These suggestions for increasing the Church's membership, failed to enlist the sympathies of Dr. White. In his letter of reply, he observed, as "it would be a very singular Church, indeed, which should hold up a certain matter of order as the only part of its foundation essential to be retained, so I hope you will, on further consideration, think it quite unnecessary on my part to prove, that the same cannot be said of the Church to which we have belonged. I shall lay the less stress on this subject, as it is a singular opinion, and what I do not think you will long maintain, that persons differing in regard to the object of prayer, may be of the same Church or Communion."³ Whatever hopes the congregation of King's Chapel might still have had were given up after the action of the General Convention at Wilmington, and soon afterward they ceased to have any relation with the Episcopal Church.

The Episcopate obtained from England.

On the 2d of November, 1786, the Rev. Dr. White, and the Rev. Dr. Provoost sailed for England, and on Septuagesima Sunday, the 4th day of February, 1787, were consecrated to the Episcopate in the chapel of Lambeth palace. Shortly after their return, Bishop Seabury addressed a letter of congratulation¹ to each of them in which he took occasion to express his hearty desire for the union of the Church in the various States, and suggested in order to accomplish the end "the most likely method will be to retain the present Book of Common Prayer, accommodating it to the civil Constitution of the United States."² In reply Bishop White expressed his willingness to accede to this proposal should it be found practicable: "As to the liturgy, if it should be thought advisable by the general body of our Church to adhere to the English Book of Common Prayer (the political parts excepted) I shall be one of the first, after the appearance of such a disposition to comply with it most punctually. Further than this, if it should seem the most probable way of maintaining an agreement among ourselves, I shall use my best endeavours to effect it. At the same time I must candidly express my opinion, that the review of the liturgy would tend very much to the ² The Reverend Mr. Leaming, of Connecticut, also addressed a letter of similar purport to Bishop White, which, as it has not before appeared in print, we here give from among the MSS. left by Bishop Kemper :

STRAFORD, May 2d, 1787.

Allow me, my very dear sir, to congratulate you upon your happy success in your Undertaking for the Service of the Church, and your Safe Return to your Native Land.

I am far advanced in Life, and nothing can give me more pleasure, than to see the Church of England (for by that title I wish she may be called) fixed upon a firm Basis, in Unity thro' all the States.

May it not be worth consideration to enquire, what method is most likely to produce this effect? Perhaps, there is no Scheme that promises so fair to accomplish the End desired, as keeping, as near as we can to the old Forms. We know these have been tried for Ages, and have always answered the purpose. Why should we make a new experiment, upon a subject which has had sufficient Trial already?

It seems that Dr. S[mith]—the last man in the world for such Business—has been the Director, in forming the constitution and service of the Chh. for these States, as he intended. He was one of the Com^{tee}, and you know, they must do what he directed, or do nothing.

It appears to me, that it is unhappy for the Church, That, that man ever came into this land: he has done more harm to it, than any other person.

However, let us lay aside all worldly schemes, and take a View of what will be agreeable to our great Master's design, in building up his Kingdom which is not of this world. Provided we do this, we shall see the Chh. in its native purity.

There is no need to enlarge upon this point, as I have sent you with this Letter, my sentiments, in what Method the Chh. of England is to be perpetuated in this land. If I have made any mistake, I shall stand corrected by you.

If your affairs will permit, it would give me unspeakable pleasure to see you at our Convocation, which will be held at Stamford in Whitsunday week.

Remember me kindly to all your Clergy, and to your good Lady, and believe me to be,

JEREMIAH LEAMING.

Bp. White.

satisfaction of most of the members of our Communion, and to its future success and prosperity. The worst evil which I apprehend from a refusal to review is this, that it will give a great advantage to those who wish to carry the alterations into essential points of doctrine. Reviewed it will unquestionably be in some places, and the only way to prevent its being done by men of the above description is the taking it up as a general business."¹ In another letter written to Dr. West, February 24th, 1789, Bishop White touched upon the same subject:—"It is my most earnest wish that the ensuing Convention may be so wise and moderate as to establish a book which shall be sure of a general reception. I see little prospect of this, without a considerable deviation from the Proposed Book towards the old. Much will depend on what is now to be done. And I pray God, that we may be enabled to take such measures as shall have a tendency to build up and not to pull down, to unite and not to divide."²

General Convention of 1789.

The first Convention after the obtaining of the Episcopate from England gathered in Philadelphia, July 30th, 1789. An adjourned meeting was held from September 29th to October 3d in the same city, at which the Constitution was so modified as to give the Bishops the right, sitting as a separate House, to originate measures and also to negative acts of the other House not adhered to by four-fifths of the delegates. Thereupon it was assented to by the deputies from Connecticut, Massachusetts, and New Hampshire, and they took their seats in the General Convention, thus completing the unification of the Church, a consummation, which had been long and anxiously desired. On Saturday, the 3d of October, the Bishops withdrew from the House of Deputies, and on the following Monday sat for the first time as a distinct House.

The chief business of the Convention after its division into two Houses, was the revision of the Book of Common Prayer. The Journal gives us little or no detailed information with regard to the progress of this work, so that we are indebted altogether to Bp. White's Memoirs and to incidental statements in his other works for whatever knowledge we possess. At the very outset there was a grave difference of opinion between the two Houses, which continued throughout the session. The House of Bishops held that the English Book was still the liturgy of the Church, and that it should be taken as the book in which some alterations were contemplated. On the other hand the lower House contended "that there were no forms of prayer, no offices, and no rubrics until they should be formed by the Convention now assembled." "Everyone must perceive," observes Bishop White, "that this abridged the species of negative lodged with the House of Bishops. For if, in any branch of the liturgy, they should be disposed to be tenacious in any point, which should be a deviation from the English Book, the consequence must be, not that the prayer, or whatever else it were, remained as before, but that no such matters were to be inserted. This, in some instances, would have operated to the extent of excluding a whole office of the Church, if the negative of the Bishops had been insisted on."³ Referring, in a letter to Bishop Hobart, to this difference of principle in the work of revision in the Convention of 1789, he says, "In all other respects [i. e., other than the State prayers], I held the former ecclesiastical system to be binding. The Conventions of our Church have always acted in the same principle, except that of October, 1789, whose adopting of a different principle has rendered our liturgy more imperfect (according to my opinion) that it would otherwise have been. On this point I could give you some interesting information."

The particular reasons, so far as known which induced the Convention to make the verbal departures it did from the English Book have been noted in the body of this work, and need not be enumerated here. The Evangelical Canticles, and the word "again" after "he rose" in the Apostles' Creed, which had been in the Proposed Book as well as the English Book, were omitted, as the Convention of South Carolina had suggested. The House of Bishops proposed in an amendment to retain the Athanasian Creed with a rubric permitting its use. On the part of Bishop White this was assented to "on the principle of accommodation, to the many who were reported to desire it, especially in Connecticut, where, it was said, the omitting of it would hazard the reception of the book." It was his intention, however, "never to read the Creed himself, and he declared his mind to that effect." "The amendment was negatived by the other House, and when the subject afterward came up in conference they would not allow of the Creed in any shape; which was thought intolerant by the gentlemen from New England, who with Bishop Seabury, gave it up with great reluctance."

In addition to the offices in the English Book the Convention adopted "A Form of Prayer and Thanksgiving to Almighty God for the Fruits of the Earth, and all the other Blessings of his merciful Providence." This office was taken from the Proposed Book, and had in all probability been drawn up by Dr. William Smith. "Forms of Prayer for use in Families" were also added. These are abridgements of those set forth by Bishop Gibson of London. The latter were among the books provided by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel for distribution by its Missionaries in the Colonies.³ They were therefore in all probability well known and widely used by Church people of the last century. They may not have been original compositions of this prelate, but perhaps were drawn by him from earlier forms, as they bear considerable likeness to a series of prayers prepared by Archbishop Tillotson for the use of William III.⁴ Selections of Psalms to be used instead of the Psalms of the day were prepared by the House of Deputies, and reluctantly assented to by the Bishops.⁵ An office for the Visitation of Prisoners which had been in the Proposed Book, was adopted after some changes in it had been made. Nothing more seems to be known as to

Mr. Murray, Minister at Reading, Pa., writing in 1769 to the Secretary of the Venerable Society, says: "To forward the education and to instruct several of the older poor people, I have occasion for some small tracts such as Lewis's Catechism, 4 doz.; Husbandman's Manual, 3 doz.; Bp. Gibson's Family Prayer, 4 doz.; ditto on the Sacraments, 6 doz.; or any of the most approved, short, plain Treatise on that subject" (Historical Collections, Ed. by Wm. S. Perry, D. the origin of this office, than that it was drawn up by the Synod held at Dublin in 1711, and, was commonly found afterward in Prayer Books printed in Ireland.¹ A number of Occasional Prayers² and Thanksgivings were introduced, and three new prayers added to the office for Visitation of the Sick. Bishop White speaking generally of these prayers, says they were taken from Bishop Jeremy Taylor, and this statement has been repeated by subsequent writers. It is clear that we are indebted to Bishop Taylor for A Prayer which may be said by the Minister in behalf of all present at the Visitation, and A Prayer which may be said in case of sudden surprise and immediate danger, both of which are taken from his Holy Dying. The wording of the Thanksgiving for the beginning of a recovery may have been suggested by A Prayer to be said when the Sick Man takes Physic, in the same book. But a careful search through his works has failed to discover any of the others. No one having any acquaintance with the polished English of this great divine will think it likely that the prayer for Malefactors after Condemnation came from his pen. And the others appear to be but compilations of sentences and clauses taken from various parts of the Prayer Book.

The most notable addition made in the Prayer Book was to the Prayer of Consecration in the Communion Office. The Conventions of Maryland and Pennsylvania, had both asked, as we have seen, for the insertion of a prayer more explicit than the clause in the English Book, expressly beseeching God for the consecration of the Sacrament. It was a matter which "lay very near to the heart of Bishop Seabury."³ Writing to Bishop White on the eve of the Convention of 1789, he expressed the earnest hope that the matter might be taken up, and that God will raise up some able and worthy advocate for this primitive practice, and make you and the Convention the instruments of restoring it to his Church in America. It would do you more honour in the world, and contribute more to the union of the Churches than any other alterations you can make." Bishop Seabury did not overrate the influence of the Bishop of Pennsylvania in thus appealing to him, for had the latter thrown his vote against what is now the most striking departure of the American from the English Prayer Book it would never have had a place therein. On the contrary however, the proposition to add the Prayers of Oblation and Invocation with what follows, received his hearty support, so that its adoption in the House of Bishops was unanimous. In the House of Deputies it was also passed without opposition. "It may perhaps be expected that the great change made, in restoring to the consecration prayer the oblatory words and the invocation of the Holy Spirit, left out in King Edward's reign, must at least have produced an opposition. But no such thing happened to any considerable extent, or at least the author did not hear of any in the other House, further than a disposition to the effect in a few gentlemen, which was counteracted by some pertinent remarks of the president."⁴ One important change was made in the Invocation before being adopted. Instead of the words of the Scotch Offices and of Bishop Seabury's book, which read, "that they may become the Body and Blood of thy most dearly beloved Son," there was substituted, "that we receiving them according to thy Son our Saviour Jesus Christ's holy institution, in remembrance of his death and passion, may be partakers of his most blessed Body and Blood." In all other respects, with the exception of the change of "lively" to "living," the text of the Canon of Bishop Seabury's Office, which he had set forth in 1786 for use in his diocese, was copied. This office was in turn substantially taken from Bishops Forbes and Falconer's edition of the Scotch liturgy, which was published in 1764,¹

The work of the revision in the Convention of 1789 occupied thirteen days. On the last day a committee was appointed to edit the book thus revised, and in August, 1790, the first American Prayer Book was set forth, bearing not the Ratification of a Parliament, but the Ratification of the Bishops, Clergy, and Laity of the Church itself. In the preface, the declaration so often made before, was again repeated, even more explicitly: "This Church is far from intending to depart from the Church of England in any essential point of doctrine, discipline, or worship; or farther than local circumstances require." Everywhere the new book was received without opposition, and at once went into use. In Connecticut where some of its omissions were not regarded altogether with favour, it was nevertheless formally approved and received by a resolution of Convocation at Newtown, September 30th, 1790. At the same time it was agreed "that in the use of the New-Prayer-Book, we be as uniform as possible, and for that purpose that we approach as near the Old Liturgy, as a compliance with the Rubrics of the New will allow."² In a little while however the new Prayer Book had become as dear to the members of the Church everywhere as the old book had ever been.

General Convention of 1792.

In the Convention of 1792 the Forms for conferring Holy Orders were formally set forth. In the ordinations which had been performed by the American Bishops previous to this time, the English Prayer Book had been used, with the omission of the political parts. But few alterations were made by the Convention in these venerable forms, and those which were introduced were prepared by the Bishops. "There was no material difference of opinion, except in regard to the words used by the Bishop at the ordination of Priests, 'Receive ye (sic) the Holy Ghost,' and 'Whose sins thou dost forgive, they are forgiven; and whose sins thou dost retain, they are retained.' Bishop Seabury, who alone was tenacious of this form, consented at last with great reluctance, to allow the alternative of another as it now stands."³ That no departure from the doctrine of the Church of England was intended, is evident from the fact that the old form was still retained, and also from what Bishop White tells us in his Memoirs where he defends both forms, but thinks the second is of "more obvious signification."

General Convention of 1799.

A Form for the Consecration of a Church or Chapel was proposed in 1799 by the House of Bishops and adopted. Bishop White tells us that "it is substantially the same with a service composed by Bishop Andrews in the reign of James the First." One however has only to compare our American office with the service drawn up by the great Bishop of Winchester to see that it was not immediately derived from the latter. Bishop Andrews' order was the basis of the many forms for the Consecration of churches set forth in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries,¹ but so widely did most of them depart from their original that their resemblance to it is very faint. Our service is really a revision of one adopted by Convocation in 1712, which was not however finally confirmed, as one of the heads of business given by George I. in 1715 was "the preparing a form for consecrating Churches and Chapels." This form of 1712 must not be confounded with one prepared by the English Bishops in 1714 and submitted to the Convocation of the following year, and which also failed to obtain formal authorization.² The two offices are alike in general structure, but differ from each other in a number of particulars, in all of which the American service agrees with the earlier order. The form of 1712 was "not printed till 1719, when it appeared in the appendix to John Lewis' Historical Essay upon the Consecration of Churches."³ It was afterwards reprinted by Gibson,⁴ and also by Burn.⁵ The latter, writing in the middle of the last century, says of it, that this office "as it did not receive the royal assent,⁶ was not enjoined, but is now generally used." The General Convention, therefore, in 1799, but adopted a form which was then commonly observed in England for the Consecration of Churches. There was also set forth at this time a Prayer for Convention, probably drawn from the conclusion of the second part of the Homily for Whitsunday.

General Convention of 1801.

Thus far the Prayer Book was without the Articles of Religion. The House of Bishops in 1789 had proposed the "ratification of the Thirty-nine Articles, with an exception in regard to the thirty-sixth and thirty-seventh articles," but the lower House referred the subject to a future Convention. The absence of this familiar feature caused some uneasiness among Church people. "The Articles," says Bishop White, "with the exception of the political parts, the obligation of which had been abrogated by Divine Providence through the instrumentality of the revolution, were still the acknowledged faith of the Church; while on the other hand they could not be edited as such, without changes at least in the manner of exhibiting them, which no individual had a right to regulate. What rendered the situation of the Church the worse in this respect, was that it suited the opinions of some, to declare in consequence of it that she had no Articles, and could have none, until they should be framed by a convention, and established by its authority."¹ This opinion was met in New York by the following resolution adopted by its Convention, Nov. 4th, 1790. "Whereas many respectable members of our Church are alarmed at the Articles of Religion not being inserted in our New Book of Common Prayer:—Resolved, That the Articles of the Church of England, as they now stand, except such parts thereof as affect the political Government of this Country, be held in full force and virtue, until a further provision is made by the General Convention, agreeably to the eighth article of the Constitution of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America."² In the Convention of 1792 the subject was informally discussed by the Bishops. Bishops Prevost and Madison were directly against the having of Articles, while Bishops White and Claggett were in favour of them. Bishop Seabury was in doubt as to their necessity, "although on the other side he acknowledged his inability to answer an argument pressed on him, that without them individual ministers would have to do by their respective will and authority, what had better be done by known law, for the preventing of the delivery of opposite doctrines to their flocks by different preachers."³ In the Convention of 1799, a Committee having the subject in hand, reported a resolution, "That the articles of our faith and religion, as founded on the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments, are sufficiently declared in our Creeds and Liturgy, as set forth in the Book of Common Prayer established for the use of this Church, and that further articles do not appear necessary," which was not agreed to. It was next proposed "that the Convention now proceed to the framing of Articles for this Church," which was adopted. Of the clergy, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, and Virginia voted against the resolution, but all the laity present voted for it, except the delegation from Virginia. A Committee was accordingly appointed, and within three days a draft of seventeen Articles was laid before the Convention.⁴ Their consideration however was postponed to the next Convention. In the meanwhile, the conviction grew "that the doctrines of the Gospel, as they stand in the Thirty-nine Articles of the Church of England, with the exception of such matters as are local, were more likely to give general satisfaction than the same doctrines in any new form that might be devised." And the Convention of New York (Sep. 5th, 1801) instructed its delegates to General Convention "to advocate and vote for the adoption of the Articles of Religion of the Church of England,

² This resolution was probably due to the suggestion of the deputation from Trinity Church, for at a meeting of the Corporation of this parish, November 1st, 1790, the delegates to the State Convention were instructed "to use their utmost endeavours to procure a compliance with the proposal made by the Bishops at the last General Convention, for a ratification of the Thirty-nine Articles of the Church of England, except the 36th and 37th of the said Articles." except such parts as may affect the political government of this country." Accordingly in 1801 the English Articles with the change of the political parts, were unanimously adopted. From the history of the Church during the twenty-five years which followed the revolution, it must appear "that the object kept in view, in all the consultations held, and the determinations formed, was the perpetuating of the Episcopal Church, on the ground of the general principles which she had inherited from the Church of England; and of not departing from them, except so far as either local circumstances required, or some very important cause rendered proper. To those acquainted with the System of the Church of England, it must be evident, that the object here stated was accomplished on the ratification of the Articles."¹

General Conventions of 1804 and 1808.

In the diocesan Convention of Connecticut, held at Stratfield in 1799 it was "Voted that Dr. Smith be desired to prepare an office for inducting and recognizing clergymen into vacant parishes, and present the same for adoption to the next Convention of this diocese."² This office was accordingly drawn up, and first "adopted by the Bishop and Clergy of the Diocese of Connecticut, in Convocation at Derby, November 20th, 1799." It was afterwards adopted by the Convention which met at Lichfield, the first Wednesday of June, 1804: "The Office of Induction," reads the Journal, "as agreed upon by the Bishop and Clergy in Convocation was adopted by this Convention."² Two years before (Oct. 6th, 1802) the Convention of New York adopted the same office with some verbal alterations, and made its use obligatory by canon.³ In the General Convention which met in September, 1804, the New York Office was, with a few changes, adopted by the Church and made one of the offices of the Prayer Book. The most significant of the changes made was in the Letter of Induction. The Connecticut and New York offices made the Bishop the ultimate arbiter and judge in every case in which there was a desire, either on the part of the clergyman or the people, to dissolve the pastoral relation, thus seeming to imply that the Bishop had the power to forbid a priest leaving a cure which he desired to relinquish; but the General Convention so modified the wording of this letter that the Bishop was only to act as arbiter and judge "in case of any difference" between the priest and the congregation as to such dissolution. In the General Convention of 1808, in order to avoid any conflict with the rights of vestries as established by the law of certain States,⁴ its use was made optional instead of obligatory, and the title changed from "An Office of Induction" to "An Office of Institution." It is not known whether it was an original composition of Dr. Smith's, or drawn by him from some earlier form in use in England, or perhaps in Maryland where the Clergy had employed the right of induction and institution, and where he had been Rector of Stepney, and Somerset. Bishop Andrew's *Manner of Induction*⁵ may have suggested the general outline.

General Convention of 1811.

Hitherto the action of one General Convention sufficed to make alterations in the Prayer Book, but in 1811 an addition was made to the eighth article of the Constitution, requiring that "No alteration or addition shall be made in the Book of Common Prayer, or other Offices of the Church, unless the same shall be proposed in one General Convention, and by a resolve thereof made known to the Convention of every Diocese, and adopted at the subsequent Convention." The same provision was in 1829 extended to the Articles of Religion. The Prayer Book as set forth in 1789 with the additions made in 1792, 1799, 1801, 1804 (1808), remained without change until 1886. Corrections of what were thought to be errors were made from time to time by order of the Convention, or by Editing Committees, but these were merely verbal, or in matters of punctuation. Various attempts however were made to inaugurate a revision, or to secure alterations of one kind or other, but in every case the General Convention set its face against such efforts, and they came to naught.

General Convention of 1814.

In the Convention of 1814 it was thought good by both Houses to make a Declaration distinctly setting forth the organic identity of the Church in this country with the Church of England: "The Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States is the same body heretofore known in these States by the name of the Church of England; the change of name, although not of religious principle in doctrine, or in worship, or in discipline, being induced by a characteristic of the Church of England supposing the independence of the Christian Churches, under the different sovereignties, to which respectively their allegiance in civil concerns belongs. But that, when the severance alluded to took place, and ever since, this Church conceived of herself, as professing and acting on the principles of the Church of England, is evident from the organization of our Conventions, and from their subsequent proceedings, as recorded in the Journals; to which accordingly this Convention refer for satisfaction in the premises."

General Convention of 1820.

In the Convention of 1820 the following instructions were adopted by both Houses to be observed in editions of the Book of Common Prayer:—"1. That special attention be paid to the title page and table of contents, so that nothing may be omitted or added. 2. That the Book of Common Prayer be distinguished from the Book of Psalms in metre, the Articles of Religion, and sundry offices set forth by this Church, viz.—'The form and manner of making, ordaining, and consecrating Bishops, Priests and Deacons,' 'The form of consecration of a church or chapel,' 'A prayer to be used at the meetings of Convention,' 'An office of institution of ministers into parishes or Churches'—all of which are of equal authority with the Book of Common Prayer; but which, when bound up with it, ought not to appear as parts thereof."¹

General Convention of 1826.

In 1826 certain provisions for the shortening of the Morning Service, and for modifying the statements of the Confirmation Office were introduced by Bishop Hobart of New York, and proposed to the dioceses by the General Convention for final action in 1829.² These proposed alterations, stirred up no little controversy, and excited the gravest apprehensions.¹ It was felt by many, to use the words of the then Bishop of Virginia, that "that uniformity of worship which has distinguished us as a society, should the proposed alterations be carried into effect, would be destroyed. Instead of uniting in the same devotional exercises as we hitherto have done, every clergyman will have it in his power to select his own lessons, and to read such portions of the Psalms of David as he pleases, by which means the public worship of God in these particulars, will be as various as the constitutions of our minds. The old members of the Church, who have been taught to view the Liturgy through a medium the most sacred, will be grieved. The guards to uniformity being once removed, one innovation will succeed another, until the people will lose that reverence for our incomparable services by which they have been actuated, and the Church receive the most vital injury."² So general was the opposition manifested to these changes in the Prayer Book, that in the next Convention in 1829, they were on Bishop Hobart's own motion, "dismissed from the consideration of the Convention."³

General Convention of 1832.

In 1832 a change was made in the text of the Prayer Book as a correction of an error. This was the omission, from the office for receiving children privately baptized, of the question and answer, "Minister. Wilt thou be baptized in this faith. Ans. That is my desire." The presence of this question and answer in this place was declared by a resolution of the House of Bishops to be a "mistake," which "should be corrected in future editions of the Prayer Book."

Three alterations were proposed by this Convention to the dioceses for final action in 1835, viz.: The change of "the rubric before the selection of Psalms, so as to read, The following Selections of Psalms, or any one or more Psalms, or any portion of the 119th Psalm in the Psalter, may be used instead of the Psalms for the Day, at the discretion of the Minister;" and the omission of the fourth paragraph in the Order how the Psalter is appointed to be read. The second proposed change was "to alter the last rubric before the Communion Service by substituting the word right for the word north." It was also proposed to move the Prayer for Conventions to a place among the Occasional Prayers and to append to it the rubric.⁴

General Convention of 1835.

The above alterations were finally adopted in 1835, except the first. In this Convention both Houses concurred in the opinion "that the Confessions, the Creeds, and the Lord's Prayer in the Liturgy of our Church should be the joint acts of minister and people, and be confirmed by their united declaration of assent in the word 'Amen.'" And a Committee of the House of Bishops further proposed, in a report presented on the 29th of August, that in these parts, and at the end of "the Gloria in Excelsis, the Trisagion, and the last prayer for Ash-Wednesday, the word 'Amen' should be printed in Roman letters, and the Minister unite with the people in saying it; and that in all cases where the word 'Amen' is the response of the people to what the Minister alone says, it should be printed in italics." The report of the Committee was adopted by the Bishops, and sent to the House of Deputies "to be read therein." In this Convention it was proposed to the dioceses "to add to the note on the table of moveable feasts, according to the several days that Easter can possibly fall upon, the words, 'unless the table gives some day in the month of March for it, for, in that case, the day given in the table is the right day.'"

General Convention of 1838.

The next Convention which met in 1838 adopted the above amendments, and enacted the following rules for printing all future editions of the Prayer Book, viz:—"I. The words 'Let us pray' to be always printed in the same type with the prayers. II. The word 'Amen' to be printed in the Roman character, besides in the cases mentioned in the action of the House of Bishops as recorded in the minutes of the proceedings of that House on the 29th of August, 1835, in the following cases, viz.: 1. After the Baptismal act, 'N. I baptise thee,' &c., in each of the baptismal services. 2. After the sentence in the marriage service, commencing, 'With this ring,' &c. 3. After the sentence in the same service, commencing, 'Forasmuch as M. and N.,' &c. 4. After the sentence pronounced by the Bishop, at the laying on of hands in the ordination of Deacons and Priests. It being understood by this Convention, that the word 'Amen,' in the above cases, is not properly a response, but proper to be used only by the party required to say the words to which it is attached. III. The rubric in the Institution Office commencing with the words 'If any objection,' &c., to be printed in three paragraphs, as follows:

'If any objection,' &c., to the word 'service'

'No objection,' &c., to the word 'institution'

'And then shall,' &c., to the end.

"And whereas there is a difference in different editions of the Prayer Book in the mode of printing the word Amen after the words used by the Bishop at the laying on of hands in Confirmation, therefore, Resolved, As the sense of this Convention, that in this case the word 'Amen' should be printed in Italic character, as being properly a response."²

General Conventions of 1841 and 1844.

In the Convention of 1841 it was formally proposed to the dioceses "to erase the words 'Associated Rector,' and also the word 'State' wherever they occur in former editions of the Institution office;" which changes were ratified by the Convention of 1844.

General Conventions of 1853 and 1856.

We come next to the Convention of 1853, when the Rev. Dr. Muhlenberg and others laid before the House of Bishops the celebrated

"Memorial" in favour of the inauguration of measures looking towards a comprehension of the various Protestant bodies. Liturgical relaxation was suggested as one of the means to this end: "It is believed that men can be found among the other bodies of Christians around us, who would gladly receive ordination at your hands, could they obtain it without that entire surrender, which would now be required of them, of all the liberty in public worship to which they have been accustomed."¹ At the same time the House of Deputies requested the Bishops "to take into consideration the propriety of setting forth a form of Prayer for the increase of the Holy Ministry, according to the command of Christ, 'Pray ye the Lord of the harvest that he would send forth labourers into his harvest.'"² A similar resolution was offered by the Rt. Rev. Alonzo Potter of Pennsylvania in the House of Bishops.³ A Committee of Bishops was appointed to take into consideration the matters brought forward by the Memorial and the resolutions, and to report at the next Convention.⁴

In their report in 1856,⁵ they say, that "It is the general voice of our Communion, that in adjusting the length of our public services, more regard should be had to the physical ability of both minister and people; and this is especially important in those parts of our country where the heats of summer are long-continued and debilitating, rendering mental exertion burdensome, and even perilous to health." They however proposed no alteration in the Prayer Book, quite the contrary: "It has been the purpose of the Commission, so far as their present labours go, to leave the Prayer Book untouched," and they "have come to the unanimous conclusion that some of the most material of the improvements which are loudly called for, and which commend themselves to our judgment, might be attained without legislation," and to this end they recommended the adoption of a series of resolutions. They also recommended "that Canon xlv. (1832) be so amended that the concluding sentence [which then read, 'And in performing said service (i. e. of the Pr. Bk.), no other prayers shall be used than those prescribed by the said book'] may read as follows: 'And in performing said service, no other Prayers, Lessons, Anthems or Hymns shall be used than those prescribed by the said book, unless with the consent of the Ecclesiastical authority of the Diocese.' The effect of this amendment would be to enable particular dioceses under the direction of the Ecclesiastical authority of the same, during such seasons as Passion Week, Christmas, and the like to substitute Lessons, Anthems, or Canticles more appropriate to the occasion." In order to meet the requests made in 1853 for a form of prayer for the increase of the Ministry and for other occasions, they also presented for consideration a number of forms of prayer, viz.: 1. A Prayer for Unity,⁶ 2. A Prayer for the increase of the Ministry, 3. A Prayer for Missions and Missionaries, 4. A Prayer for the Young, to be used on occasions of Catechising and the like, 5. A Prayer for a Person about to be exposed to special danger, 6. A Prayer in time of public calamities, dangers, or difficulties, 7. A Thanksgiving for deliverance of a person from any peril, 8. A Prayer for deliverance from public calamities and dangers, 9. A Thanksgiving for the recovery of a sick child.

Whatever expectations had been raised that the 'Memorial Movement' would lead to the revision of the Prayer Book, were brought to an end by the adoption of the three following resolutions, modifications of those suggested by the Commission: "Resolved as the opinion of the Bishops, 1. That the Order of the Morning Prayer, the Litany, and the Communion Service, being separate offices, may, as in former times, be used separately under the advice of the Bishop of the Diocese. 2. That on special occasions, or at extraordinary services not otherwise provided for, ministers may, at their discretion, use such parts of the Book of Common Prayer, and such lesson or lessons of Holy Scripture, as shall in their judgment tend most to edification. 3. That the Bishops of the several Dioceses may provide special services as, in their judgment, shall be required by the peculiar necessities of any class or portion of the population within said Diocese: provided that such services shall not take the place of the services or offices of the Book of Common Prayer in congregations capable of its use."

General Convention of 1859.

The action of the House of Bishops with regard to the 'Memorial Movement' caused no little dissatisfaction among some persons, and in 1859 the House of Deputies passed a resolution in which they declared that the action of the Bishops "had disturbed the minds of many in our Church," and asked the Bishops "to reconsider their preamble and resolution, and to throw the subject matter into such shape as will admit of the joint action of both Houses of Convention." Bishop Otey also offered in the Upper House a resolution asking that the "Memorial," the amendment to the Canon on the Prayer Book, and kindred matters, be referred to a Joint Commission to report to the next Convention. The Bishops, however, refused to do anything which might seem to involve the reconsideration of their former action.²

General Conventions of 1862 and 1865.

In 1862 a memorial was offered again asking for the insertion in the Prayer Book of a prayer for the increase of the Ministry, but the matter was referred to the next Convention.³

In the same Convention, the House of Deputies, upon the motion of the Rev. D. H. Buel of Vermont, resolved "that the following suffrage be proposed to be inserted immediately after the supplication for Bishops, Priests and Deacons: 'That it may please thee to send forth labourers into thy harvest; We beseech thee,'" etc. The proposition however was not concurred in by the House of Bishops, for the reason that it was "inexpedient."⁴

General Conventions of 1868 and 1871.

In 1868 "an additional cycle for the years 1861 to 1899 inclusive," to be inserted in the Prayer Book in "the place of the cycle for the years 1843 to 1861 inclusive " was proposed to the dioceses, and adopted in 1871.¹

A growing desire for shortened services took definite shape in the Convention of 1871 when it was thought to secure the end sought for by the adoption by the Lower House of the following amended form of Canon 20²: "Of the Use of the Book of Common Prayer. Every Minister shall on all occasions of public worship, use the Book of Common Prayer, as the same is or may be established by the authority of the General Convention of this Church, and this rule shall be understood to prohibit all additions to, and omissions from the prescribed order of the said book, except in the cases prescribed by Section XIV. of Canon 13, Title I.: Provided, That on other occasions than Sundays, and the mornings of those week-days for which a special service is ordered, and at all times in mission stations, and other places than parish churches, when the prescribed order of Morning and Evening Prayer cannot be used to edification, other services may be used, compiled only from the Book of Common Prayer; but no such deviation shall be permissible, except on emergencies, without the approbation of the ecclesiastical authority of the diocese." This canon failed to obtain the assent of the Bishops.³

General Conventions of 1874 and 1877.

In 1874 the attempt was made to secure shortened services by an amendment to the Constitution, which would explicitly authorize General Convention to modify the requirements of the Prayer Book by canon. Both Houses proposed the following addition to the Eighth Article, to be inserted after the words "subsequent General Convention:—" "Provided, That the General Convention may by canon arrange and set forth a shortened form of Morning and Evening Prayer to be compiled wholly from the Book of Common Prayer."⁴ Immediately after this it was proposed to add the still further amendment, "Provided, however, That the General Convention shall have power from time to time to amend the Lectionary; but no act for this purpose shall be valid which is not voted for by a majority of the whole number of Bishops entitled to seats in the House of Bishops, and by a majority of all the Dioceses entitled to representation in the House of Deputies."

The second of these two amendments, having reference to the Lectionary, was adopted by the Convention of 1877, but the first providing for shortened services was defeated in the Lower House. It was next proposed, by the House of Deputies, in 1877, to secure the much desired shortened services by the adoption of a rubric "to be inserted immediately after The Order how the rest of Holy Scripture is appointed to be read." This rubric was as follows: "The Order Concerning Divine Service." "On days other than Sunday, Christmas Day, The Epiphany, Ash-Wednesday, Good Friday, Thanksgiving Day, and the Ascension Day, it shall suffice if the Minister begin Morning or Evening Prayer at the General Confession or at the Lord's Prayer, and end with the Collect for Grace or for Aid against Perils, as the case may be, and 2 Cor. xiii, 14; using so much of the Lessons appointed for the day and so much of the Psalter, as he shall judge to be for edification And note that on any day, the Morning Prayer, the Litany, or the Order for the Administration of the Lord's Supper, or Holy Communion may be used as separate Services. Provided, That no one of these Services shall be habitually disused. And note further, that on any day when the Morning or Evening Prayer has been already used, or is to be used, and upon days other than those first aforementioned, it shall suffice, when need may require, if the Minister say before a Sermon or Lecture the Lord's Prayer, and one or more Collects found in this Book."¹ This rubric was not adopted by the Bishops, who aimed to accomplish the same end by amending Canon 22, Title I,² so that it would read: "Every Minister shall, before all Sermons and lectures, and on all other occasions of public worship, use the Book of Common Prayer, as the same is or may be established by the authority of the General Convention of this Church; and in performing such service no other prayers shall be used than those prescribed by the said Book; provided that the Minister may, by permission of the Ordinary, on any days except the Lord's Day and the festivals of our Lord, Ash-Wednesday, Good Friday, and the Day of Annual Thanksgiving, begin the Morning Prayer (or the Evening Prayer) at the General Confession, or at the Lord's Prayer, using both or one of the Lessons followed by a Canticle, and then as ordered, ending after the Collect for Grace (or the Collect against Perils), with the Prayer of St. Chrysostom and 2 Cor. xiii. 14."³ The House of Deputies refused to recede from its position and concur with the Bishops, but finally agreed "That a Joint Committee be appointed (to sit during the recess) on the matter of providing Shortened Services."⁴ The Bishops also resolved "to insert after the suffrage for Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, the following: "That it may please thee, O Lord of the harvest, to send forth labourers into thy harvest; We beseech thee," etc., but the House of Deputies referred the matter to the next Convention.⁵ In accordance with the constitutional provision enacted at this time, the Lectionary set forth by the Church of England in 1871, was permitted to be used for three years, and proper Lessons for Lent and for the Ember and Rogation Days were provided.

General Convention of 1880.

In the report of the Joint Committee on Shortened Services to the Convention of 1880, they recommended the adoption of a canon providing for the desired object. This proposition was not favourably received, and upon the recommendation of a special Joint Committee an entirely new method of liturgical legislation was suggested. This was nothing less than the amending of The Ratification, which stands in the front of the Prayer Book, by the addition of three paragraphs in which provision was made for the shortening of the services on certain occasions.⁶ The expedient commended itself to both Houses, and it was accordingly proposed to the Dioceses for adoption.⁷

In this same Convention of 1880, the Rev. Dr. Wm. R. Huntington of Massachusetts, offered the following resolution: "Resolved, the House of Bishops concurring, That a Joint Committee, to consist of seven Bishops, seven Presbyters, and seven Laymen, be appointed to consider, and report to the next General Convention, whether, in view of the fact that this Church is soon to enter upon the second century of its organized existence in this country, the changed conditions of the national life do not demand certain alterations in the Book of Common Prayer in the direction of liturgical enrichment and increased flexibility of use." This resolution was adopted in the House of Deputies by the following vote: of the clergy there were forty-three dioceses represented, ayes 33; nays 9; divided 1. Of the laity there were thirty-five dioceses represented, ayes 20; nays 11; divided 4. The House of Bishops having concurred in the resolution, the Committee was accordingly appointed. In the House of Bishops this was done by ballot, but in the Lower House by the appointment of the President, the Rev. Dr. Beardsley of Connecticut. The Committee consisted of the Rt. Revs. the Bishops of Connecticut, Easton, Pennsylvania, Western New York, Florida, Albany, and Central New York; the Rev. Dr. Huntington, the Rev. Dr. Dalrymple, the Rev. Dr. Goodwin, the Rev. Dr. Dix, the Rev. Dr. Harwood, the Rev. Dr. Garrison, the Rev. Dr. Harrison; Mr. Fish, Mr. Coppée, Mr. Sheffey, Mr. Wilder, Mr. Andrews, Mr. Smith, Mr. Burgwin. Thus was inaugurated a revision destined to last for twelve years.

General Convention of 1883.

"In accordance with a resolution of General Convention," says the report of the Committee, "which recommends all Committees, appointed to sit during the recess, to meet for the purpose of organizing immediately after the close of the session; the Committee came together on the evening of Wednesday, the twenty-seventh day of October 1880, and was organized by the appointment of the Bishop of Connecticut as Chairman, and of Dr. Huntington of Massachusetts as Secretary. Later it was agreed that the official title of the Committee should be The Joint Committee on the Book of Common Prayer. In addition to the first meeting for organization, three groups of sessions have been held during the recess, one of them in January 1881, another in October 1882, and another in April 1883. All of these were convened in the city of New York, and were very fully attended." "Early in 1881 the work of review was distributed among three Sub-Committees, and at the same time the following resolutions were adopted:—(a) Resolved, That this Committee asserts, at the outset, its conviction that no alteration should be made touching either statements or standards of doctrine. (b) Resolved, That the Committee in all its suggestions and acts, be guided by those principles of liturgical construction and ritual which have guided the compilation and amendments of the Book of Common Prayer, and have made it what it is."¹ The report further states, that the object of the Committee had been "to search for what seemed necessary or desirable in the way of additions among the rich stores of devotional forms which are the common heritage of the Catholic Church, rather than to undertake new compositions of their own. Among the later sources which have thus been drawn upon, they feel bound to mention especially Canon Bright's Ancient Collects,² and The Daily Service of our own lamented Hutton."³ In this connection mention must be made of the Materia Ritualis,¹ a pamphlet prepared by the Rev. Dr. Huntington, and laid before the Committee, and from which many of the more important of the proposed alterations were immediately derived.

The report of the Committee was made public a short time before the meeting of General Convention. It was drawn up in the form of a series of resolutions, embodying about two hundred and fourteen distinct alterations. To this report there was attached a Prayer Book, (referred to as the *Book Annexed*²), in which all the suggested changes were incorporated in their proper places, thus presenting to the eye what would be the appearance of the Common Prayer Book should the alterations be adopted by the Church. The consideration of the report occupied the greater part of the session of the Convention of 1883. No little praise is due to the skill, courtesy and patience with which the Rev. Dr. Huntington guided the House of Deputies through a work the like of which it had not been engaged in for a hundred years, and for which, it may be said without any disrespect, its members were but little prepared by previous training in liturgiology. On the thirteenth day of the session, a Committee of Conference, consisting of those who were members of the Joint Committee on the Enrichment of the Prayer Book, was appointed to reconcile disagreements between the two Houses. On the evening of the last day (Oct. 26), a short time before adjournment, it presented its report. This report proposed the passage of some one hundred and six alterations in the Prayer Book, most of them modifications of those originally presented in the Report of the Joint Committee. Owing to the lateness of the hour, the alterations thus presented by the Committee of Conference were adopted without being read.³ The result of the work of this Convention was that most of the alterations of the Book Annexed were adopted substantially as presented; some were considerably modified; only a very few wholly failed to receive the assent of both Houses.

Of the changes proposed by the Joint Committee, but which were not adopted by the Convention, the following are the most important:—

In the Calendar: The appointment of January 18th for the feast of the Transfiguration.

In Morning Prayer: The substitution of the following for the rubric before the Lord's Prayer. "¶ Then the Minister shall kneel, and say the Lord's Prayer; the People still kneeling, and repeating it with him, both here and wheresoever else it is in this Book appointed to be used, save at the beginning of the Communion Office."

In the Visitation of the Sick: The change of the phraseology of the interrogative Creed, so that it would read, "that he descended into hell," instead of, "that he went down into hell," and, "the forgiveness of sins," instead of, "the remission of sins," and "the resurrection of the body," instead of "the resurrection of the flesh."

In the Burial of the Dead: The substitution of the following for the first rubric, "¶ Here it is to be noted that the Office ensuing is not to be used for any unbaptized adults, any excommunicate persons who die impenitent, or any who die in the commission of a grievous crime, or who, having laid violent hands on themselves have not been found to have been of unsound mind."

Before adjournment an editing Committee was appointed to republish The Book Annexed, incorporating all the alterations adopted by the Convention.¹ Criticisms on the proposed changes in the Prayer Book were now heard from all sides. The subject of liturgiology in general and of Prayer Book revision in particular was dealt with by Episcopal charges, reports, and resolutions of Committees in the Diocesan Conventions, articles in the religious and secular periodicals and even in the daily newspapers, and by pamphlets privately printed and circulated. The Book Annexed as Modified was scrutinized from every possible point of view. The doctrinal significance of its alterations, and their liturgical fitness; the grammatical construction of the new prayers, the felicity of their phrases, and the smoothness of their rhythm, all came in for searching examination. Even so small a matter as the position of a point of punctuation drew forth more than one contribution to the literature which gathered around the Book Annexed. To give even a list of the more important of these publications would fill many pages.

General Convention of 1886.

The next General Convention met in Chicago in 1886. No less than twenty-eight dioceses sent in Memorials, Resolutions, or Petitions on the subject of Prayer Book revision.² Their unanimous judgment was that the Book Annexed as modified ought not to be adopted as it stood. On the second day a Committee of Conference was appointed, consisting of the Bishops of Connecticut, Ohio, Albany, North Carolina, and the Assistant Bishop of New York; the Rev. Dr. Huntington, the Rev. Dr. Egar, the Rev. Dr. Gold, the Rev. Dr. Hale, and the Rev. Dr. Hart; Mr. Sheffey, Mr. Nash, Mr. Shattuck, Mr. Gilbert, and Mr. Packard, Jr. All memorials and Resolutions presented in either House with reference to the subject of liturgical revision were referred to this Committee, which was asked to consider and report what action, if any, ought to be taken by the General Convention in the alterations proposed in 1883. On the tenth day of the session the Committee presented their report, in which they said that they had 'considered the Petitions, Memorials, and Resolutions above mentioned, and were impressed with the remarkable agreement with which the great majority unite in recommending or rejecting the same proposed changes.' The report was arranged under four distinct schedules. Schedule A contained those alterations which the Committee recommended for immediate adoption. Schedule B contained certain alterations proposed in 1883, but now so amended as to become new matter, and therefore to be proposed anew in the present Convention, and finally acted upon in 1889. Schedule C was made up of the alterations with regard to which it was recommended that the Convention take no action, and so to be rejected. Towards the end of their report the Committee added that 'they believe that this Convention has the power to take completed action at this session in establishing a Book of Offices for occasions which have not hitherto been provided for in the Book of Common Prayer. To this end they asked permission to bring in at an early date as a supplement to this report, a Book of Offices for several occasions.' Certain alterations which they proposed to make use of in preparing such a book were gathered together under Schedule D. The report, 'so far as it favoured the setting forth of a Book of Offices,' was dissented from by five members of the Committee, viz.: the Rt. Rev. Bishop Bedell, the Rev. Dr. Gold, the Rev. Dr. Egar, the Rev. Dr. Hale, and Mr. J. W. Gilbert.¹

¹ It accordingly appeared in 1885 with the title, The Book Annexed to the Report of the Joint Committee on the Book of Common Prayer as modified by the action of the General Convention of MD CCC. LXXXIII.

On the eleventh day of the session, the Rev. Dr. Huntington offered a resolution requesting the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution to consider "whether there be any constitutional impediment to the immediate setting forth of a Book of Offices and Prayers for use on occasions for which no provision is made in the Book of Common Prayer."² On the next day he presented in the House of Deputies, as a supplementary report from the Joint Committee, "A Book of Offices and Prayers to be authorized by the Convention of 1886 for use on and after November 1st." This book contained "A Penitential Office for any Day in Lent," "An Office for Harvest Home," "The Beatitudes of the Gospel," "A Short Office for Sundry Occasions," and diverse "Prayers and Thanksgivings."³ On the following day, the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution reported "that they consider the proposition to set forth a Book of Offices and Prayer of such doubtful constitutionality that they deem it to be inexpedient to recommend such permission."⁴ On the fourteenth day the Bishop of Albany presented to the House of Bishops from the Joint Committee, "a Supplementary Report known as 'Schedule B continued,' proposing to include in Schedule B matter previously provided for in the proposed Book of Offices." In the Upper House the Bishop of Long Island moved the indefinite postponement of the whole matter of the Book of Offices, but accepted as a substitute a resolution offered by the Bishop of Chicago, providing for the appointment of a Commission to report to the next Convention "suitable Forms for Days of Fasting and Thanksgiving, appointed by the Civil or the Ecclesiastical Authority, and for other special occasions for which no service or Prayer hath been provided in the Book of Common Prayer, the same if approved to be set forth by the General Convention, as a Book of Offices allowed for use under the authorization by the Ordinary, and not as a part of the Book of Common Prayer."⁵ This resolution was afterward adopted by the Lower House.⁶

The whole of "Schedule A" was carefully considered by the Convention and almost all of its propositions adopted with very great unanimity. "Schedule B" was considered in part, but no action was taken with regard to "Schedule B continued," except to refer it, by a resolution originating in the House of Bishops, to the Joint Committee created as noted above.⁷ By another resolution, first offered in the House of Deputies, "So much of Schedule B as has not been acted upon by both Houses," was referred to the same Committee.⁸ The persons appointed on this Committee were the Bishops of Albany, New Hampshire, the Assistant Bishops of Mississippi and New York, and the Bishop of Pittsburgh; the Rev. Dr. Huntington, the Rev. Dr. Gold, the Rev. Dr. Hart, the Rev. Dr. Egar, and the Rev. Dr. Swope; Mr. Sheffey, Mr. McWorter, Mr. Woolworth, Mr. Gilbert, and Mr. Jackson. The Rev. Dr. Huntington having declined the appointment, the Rev. Dr. Davies was appointed in his place. Summing up the results accomplished by this Convention, we find that of the two hundred and twenty-one alterations proposed to the dioceses by the Convention of 1883, one hundred were ratified and made part of the Prayer Book. Eighteen other alterations, set forth under as many resolutions, were proposed for final action in 1889.

Of the alterations proposed in the Book Annexed by the Convention of 1883, but which were not adopted in 1886, the following are the most noteworthy:—

In the prefatory part of the Prayer Book: The section "Concerning the Service of the Church."¹

In Morning Prayer: Additional Sentences of Scripture; The substitution of another prayer of Absolution for the one which now follows the Declaration of Absolution; Proper anthems for Christmas, Ascension, Whitsunday, and Trinity, to be used instead of the Venite; The original form of the Venite; The Benedictus es, Domine from the book of Daniel, as an alternative for the Benedicite; The De profundis as an alternative Canticle after the Second Lesson; The omission of the prayer for the President when the Litany is said.

In Evening Prayer: An alternative Confession; The substitution of another prayer of Absolution; Four versicles with their responses, chiefly from the English Book; The substitution of the prayer, "Assist us mercifully," etc., for the prayer of St. Chrysostom; An office to be used after Evening Prayer, entitled "The Beatitudes of the Gospel."

¹ This feature was proposed anew in 1886 and adopted in 1889. It was first suggested in the Materia Ritualis, but underwent some changes before being inserted in the Book Annexed of 1883, and was again modified before it was proposed by the Convention of 1886. The revisions of the last paragraph, dealing with Hymns and Anthems, are especially noteworthy. In the Book Annexed of 1883 it stood thus: "Hymns may be sung before and after every Office in this book, and also before and after Sermons; but only such Hymns shall be used in this Church as have been duly set forth and allowed by the authority of the same. Anthems in words either of Holy Scripture or of the Book of Common Prayer may be sung instead of Hymns, except in cases where particular Hymns are by Rubric prescribed." In the Convention of 1883 there were substituted for the last sentence the more restrictive words, "and Anthems only in the words either of Holy Scripture or of the Book of Common Prayer," and in this form the rubric was laid before the dioceses. But in 1886 the Joint Committee did not recommend its adoption, but in its stead proposed the following: "Hymns set forth and allowed by the authority of this Church, and Anthems in the words of Holy Scripture or of the Book of Common Prayer, may be sung before and after any Office in this Book, and also before and after sermons." When this came up for consideration in the House of Deputies it was proposed to amend it by inserting after the word "Church," the words "and none other," which was not agreed to. It was then proposed to substitute the rubric as notified to the dioceses by the Convention of 1883, which was also defeated. It was next moved to add at the end, "and no other hymns or anthems shall be sung on such occasions," and this too was negatived. (See The Churchman, Nov. 6th, 1886, p. 594, and The Living Church, Oct. 26th, 1886, p. 171.) The rubric was then adopted as presented by the Committee, and in 1889 became part of the Prayer Book.

In the Litany: Rubrics requiring the Litany to be said on the Rogation Days, as well as on Sunday, Wednesday, and Friday, and permitting it to be omitted on Christmas, Easter, and Whitsunday; The addition of the words "fire and flood," after the words "lightning and tempest;" A special suffrage for the President of the United States.

In the Occasional Prayers and Thanksgivings: The substitution of the word "chastisements" for "punishments" in the prayer For Fair Weather; Twenty-three new Prayers, viz.: For a Person or Persons on a Journey, For Persons preparing for Confirmation, For Missions,¹ For the Increase of the Ministry, For all who are dependent on the Public Care, Two Prayers for Fruitful Seasons,² In the Vacancy of a Cure of Souls, For the Spirit of Prayer, For the Light of God's Truth, For the Renewing of the Holy Ghost, For Patience under Suffering, For Grace to Speak the Truth in Love, An Intercession for those who labour in the Gospel, An Intercession for those who err from the Faith, An Intercession for those who live in Sin, A Prayer for Mercy and Pardon, A General Intercession, A Morning Prayer. A Morning Prayer, An Evening Prayer. An Evening Prayer, For Aid against Perils, Two New Thanksgivings, viz.: For a Child's Recovery from Sickness,³ For an Escape from Accident.

Three occasional Offices, viz.: "A Penitential Office,"¹ an office for "Harvest Home," being an expanded form of our present Order for Thanksgiving Day, and "A Short Office of Prayer for Sundry Occasions."

In the Propers of the Communion Office: An alternative Collect, Epistle, and Gospel for Christmas;¹ An alternative Collect, Epistle, and Gospel for Easter;¹ Collects for each day of Holy Week, and for the Monday and Tuesday after Easter, and after Pentecost.

In the Order of the Communion: The response "Thanks be to thee, O Lord," after the Gospel; The change of the words, "we and all others" in the Prayer of Consecration, to "whosoever;" The substitution of the words, "reverently consume the same," for "reverently eat and drink the same" in the last rubric; The addition of the following rubrics. "¶ And, Note, That every Communicant should receive the Communion, at the least, three times in the year, of which Easter to be one. ¶ There shall be no Celebration of the Lord's Supper, except there be a convenient number to communicate with the Priest, according to his discretion. ¶ And even though there be not above twenty persons in the Parish of discretion to receive the Communion, yet there shall be no Celebration, except three (or two at the least) communicate with the Priest."

In the Order of Private Baptism: The omission of the following words from the first rubric, "longer than the first or second Sunday after their birth, or other Holy day falling between, unless upon a great and reasonable cause."

In the Order of Confirmation: The addition of questions and answers for the renewal of the baptismal vows; The insertion of a rubric permitting the singing of a hymn between the prayer for the gifts of the Holy Ghost and the Laying on of Hands.

In the Visitation of the Sick: Three new prayers, viz.: For the Aged, In time of great bodily Danger or Distress, and In Prolonged Sickness, also a series of Short Prayers with the Dying.

In the Communion of the Sick: The addition of the Psalm Laudate Dominum and the Kyrie before the Collect.

In the Burial of the Dead: Special Sentences, Psalm, Lesson and Anthem "At the Burial of Infants or Young Children."

In the Forms of Prayer to be used at Sea: The omission of the first rubric, viz.: "¶ The Morning and Evening Service to be used daily at Sea, shall be the same which is appointed in the Book of Common Prayer."

General Convention of 1889.

The Convention of 1889 met in the city of New York. Five dioceses presented memorials praying that the work of Prayer Book revision might not be continued beyond the session. On the second day the report of the Joint Committee appointed in 1886 was presented in both Houses. This report proposed eighty-one alterations extending to almost every office in the Prayer Book. The Committee had also prepared "A Book of Offices to be allowed for use where it shall be authorized by the Ordinary." A minority report signed by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Thompson, the Rev. Dr. Swope, and the Rev. Dr. Gold was also presented. This second report objected "that it was not strictly within the province of this Committee to take up the business of revising the Prayer Book as a whole," and deprecated the continuance of the work of revision as calculated to "excite uneasiness, shake the feeling of confidence and security with which devout people have rested upon the precious formularies of the Prayer Book, and impair the unquestioning loyalty which is the very foundation of the Christian character." It therefore offered, as a substitute for the proposals of the majority report, a resolution "that the revision of the Prayer Book be brought to an end at the present session of the General Convention."¹ The adoption of this resolution would have precluded the consideration of any alterations except those proposed in 1886. In the House of Bishops, twenty voted for the resolution, and twenty-eight against it. In the House of Deputies, of the clerical vote, twenty-one dioceses voted for the resolution, and twenty-four against it; of the lay vote, nineteen dioceses voted for it, and twenty-three against it. By this small majority the resolution was lost and the work of revision continued.²

The Convention ratified all the alterations proposed in 1886. The majority report of the Committee was afterward considered in detail, and forty-eight of its eighty-one propositions for change were adopted and proposed to the dioceses for final action in 1892. A resolution was afterwards adopted appointing three members of each order as a Committee "to prepare and to submit to the next General Convention for its approval, a new edition of the Standard Prayer Book."³ The Rt. Revs. the Bishops of Albany, Iowa, and New York; the Rev. Dr. Huntington, the Rev. Dr. Kedney, and the Rev. Dr. Hart; Mr. Morgan, Mr. Packard, Jr., and Mr. Eliot were appointed on the Committee.⁴ On the eighteenth day of the session, the Joint Committee on Liturgical Revision begged leave 'to recommend that owing to the lateness of the session the consideration of the Book of Offices be postponed to the next General Convention,' which resolution was adopted.⁵

Of the alterations presented in the report of the Committee to this Convention of 1889, but which were not adopted, the following are the most important:—

In Morning Prayer: The versicle and response, "O God make speed to save us. Answ. O Lord make haste to help us;"¹ The original form of the Venite as an alternative for the form now in Morning Prayer; The change of certain clauses of the Te Deum, so that they would read thus: "When thou tookest upon thee to deliver man, thou didst not abhor the Virgin's womb."¹ "Make them to be rewarded with thy Saints in glory everlasting." "O Lord let thy mercy lighten upon us;"¹ The addition to the rubric before Benedicite of the following, "But note, That when the Benedicite is sung, it shall not be necessary to repeat the words, Praise him and magnify him forever, at the end of every verse;" The substitution of the words, "the good estate of the Catholic Church,"¹ for the words, "thy holy Church universal;" in the prayer for all Conditions of Men.

In Evening Prayer: The versicle "O God make speed," etc., with its response.¹

In the Litany: The substitution of the words "From fornication and all other deadly sin,"¹ for the words, "From all inordinate and sinful affections."

In the Occasional Prayers and Thanksgivings: The addition of An Intercession for those who labour in the Gospel, and a Thanksgiving For a Safe Return from Voyage or Travel.

In the Propers of the Communion Office: The alteration of the Collect for St. John Evangelist in order to conform it to the reading of the English Book; A Collect Epistle and Gospel for Funerals; A Collect, Epistle and Gospel for Ecclesiastical Conventions.

In the Order of Communion: The response "Thanks be to thee, O Lord," after the Gospel; The change of the rubric before the Offertory so that it would read, "¶ Then shall follow the Sermon. After which, the Minister, when there is a Communion, shall return to the Lord's Table and say, Let us make our offerings to the Lord with reverence and godly fear. ¶ Then shall he begin the Offertory," etc.; The omission of the word "militant" from the clause "Let us pray for the whole state of Christ's Church militant;" The substitution of the words "And we also bless thy holy Name for all thy servants, who having finished their course,"² etc., from the Scotch Liturgy of 1637, for the words "And we also bless thy holy Name for all thy servants departed this life," etc.; The addition of the following rubric after the Prayers for the Church Militant, "¶ Here the Priest shall pause for a space, in order that such as are so minded may withdraw;" The removal of the prayer "We do not presume," etc., to a place after the Prayer of Consecration; The substitution of the words, "whosoever shall be partakers" for "we and all others who shall be partakers" in the Prayer of Consecration. The addition of the following rubric at the end of the Communion Office, "¶ There shall be no Celebration of the Lord's Supper, except there be some to Communicate with the Priest."

In the Order of Confirmation: The addition of three questions and answers for the renewal of the baptismal vows; The omission of the word "confirming" from the Bishop's question, "Do ye here," etc.; An alternative form for administering Confirmation; viz.: "¶ Or else all of them kneeling before the Bishop, he shall make a Cross on the forehead and lay his hands upon the head of every one severally, saying, I sign thee with the sign of the Cross, and lay mine hands upon thee, In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Confirm, O Lord, this thy Child [or this thy Servant] with thy heavenly grace: that he may continue," etc.

In the Communion of the Sick: The substitution of the word Priest for Minister in the first, second, fourth, and fifth rubrics at the end of this office as it stands in the Standard of 1871.

In the Burial of the Dead: The substitution of the 39th and 90th Psalms in their integrity as in the English Book, instead of the present forms.

The Book of Offices laid before the Convention of 1889, but with regard to which no action was taken, consisted of 1. A Short Office for Sundry Occasions. 2. An Office for the last hour of the Day. 3. An Office of Intercession for Unity. 4. An Office for the Fourth of July and for Special Days of Thanksgiving. 5. An Office for Special Days of Fasting. 6. An Office for Harvest Home. 7. A Penitential Office for Lent. 8. A Commemoration of the Passion. 9. A Litany for Missions. 10. A Litany of the Christian Life. 11. Prayers for Sundry Occasions.

General Convention of 1892.

The Convention of 1892 met in Baltimore. On the second day of the session the alterations in the Prayer Book proposed in 1889 were taken up and continued the order of the day until disposed of. Of the fifty-two propositions proposed forty-three were adopted, most of them with little or no debate. No action was taken upon the Book of Offices the consideration of which had been postponed at the previous Convention, and a proposition of the House of Deputies to appoint a Commission to prepare a Book of Offices, and to report the same in 1895 was negatived by the House of Bishops.¹ The Committee appointed to prepare a Standard Book of Common Prayer presented a report drawn up, it is believed, by the Rev. Dr. Samuel Hart, and the evident result of long and careful study. This report will be found printed in the Journal as an Appendix, and will always be an invaluable and indispensable part of the apparatus criticus for the study of the text of the Prayer Book.² Along with their report the Committee proposed the passage of a canon, (which was adopted,) providing that the Standard Book should be no longer an edition, but one volume "Set forth by the General Convention of this Church in the year 1892, and authenticated by the signatures of the presiding officers and secretaries of the two Houses of General Convention, and by the signatures of the members of the Joint Committee charged with the duty of preparing and submitting to the Convention a Standard Book of Common Prayer of this Church." It was further provided, that "No copy or edition of the Book of Common Prayer shall be made, printed, published, or used as of authority in this Church unless it contain the authorization of the Custodian of the Standard Book of Common Prayer, certifying that he or some person appointed by him has compared the said copy or edition with the said Standard or a certified copy thereof, and that it conforms thereto." Hitherto the imprimatur of the Bishop of the diocese had sufficed to authorize an edition of the Prayer Book.

Since 1811 the eighth article of the Constitution of General Convention providing for the making of alterations in the Prayer Book, has read, "No alteration or addition shall be made in the Book of Common Prayer, or other offices of the Church, or the Articles of Religion,¹ unless the same shall be proposed in our General Convention, and by a resolve thereof made known to the Convention of every diocese, and adopted at the subsequent General Convention."² It was now proposed to the dioceses to amend this by substituting after the words "Articles of Religion," the following: "unless the same shall be first proposed in one General Convention, by the vote of a majority of the whole number of Bishops entitled to seats in the House of Bishops, and by the vote of a majority of all the dioceses entitled to representation in the House of Deputies, and by a resolve of the General Convention made known to the Convention of every diocese, and adopted at the subsequent General Convention in the same manner in which it was proposed." This amendment to the constitution will come up for final action in 1895.

The following are the alterations proposed in 1889 but rejected by the Convention in 1892:—

In the Table of Proper Psalms: The substitution of the 64th for the 69th Psalm among the propers of Good Friday:

In the Litany: The alteration of one of the suffrages so that it would read, "From fire and flood; from earthquake, lightning, and tempest; from plague, pestilence, and famine; from battle and murder, and from sudden death."

In the Occasional Prayers and Thanksgivings: The addition of a prayer For a Person or Persons, on a Journey; The modification of the thanksgiving For a Safe Return from Sea, so as to make it a thanksgiving For a Safe Return from Voyage or Travel.

In the offices of Baptism: The substitution of an interrogative form of the Creed³ for the question, "Dost thou believe all the Articles," etc.

In the Form of Matrimony: A special Collect, Epistle and Gospel.

In the Visitation of the Sick: The addition of A Prayer for Patience under Suffering.

In the Burial Office: Two additional sentences of Scripture, viz., St. Luke xviii. 16, and Rev. vii. 16, 17.

In the Offices of Ordination: The omission of the words, after Morning Prayer is ended, from the first rubric in each office.

¹ The words "or the Articles of Religion" were not added until 1829.

² There is an exception to this rule in the case of the Lectionary which may be amended by one Convention. ³ This form was the same as that proposed in the Book Annexed of 1883 for the Visitation of the Sick. Vide p. xliii.

All the other alterations proposed in 1889 were adopted and made part of the Prayer Book. The work of revision having been thus concluded, the Joint Committee presented in both Houses on the sixth day of the session a copy of the Prayer Book as amended, which was "accepted as the correct text of the Book of Common Prayer of this Church, with the Offices and Articles." And the Committee was "instructed to cause to be printed on vellum a corresponding book, which book, after having been duly authenticated, shall be by them delivered to the Custodian for careful preservation according to the provisions of the canon."¹ Within a few months afterward editions of the Prayer Book bearing the certificate of the Custodian had been published and were in the hands of the people.

Standard Prayer Book of 1892.

It was intended to close this volume with a critical examination of the Standard of 1892, but it has been found that this would require many pages. It may perhaps suffice to note that, besides the alterations and additions made by the General Convention in accordance with the eighth article of the Constitution, the Committee have introduced "a great number of less notable but scarcely less important changes,"² as corrections of errors or improvements. Attention is drawn to the most important of these changes in the footnotes of the pages which follow. It should also be noted that the method followed in the use of red ink is unprecedented in liturgical printing, and, while adopting some of the eccentricities of Collingwood's rubricated edition (Oxford, 1840), introduces others which have been hitherto unknown. It would seem to have been forgotten that Italic type is the modern substitute for rubrication, and therefore when the rubrics are printed in red, Roman letters are used and not Italics. It has also been overlooked that by custom black ink is introduced into the body of a rubricated rubric for quotations from the text, and not for titles. Thus for example, in the rubric after the second Absolution of Morning Prayer, "Lord's Prayer" would be in red ink; but if the rubric read, "Then the Minister shall kneel, and say Our Father," the last two words would be printed in black ink as being a quotation. The criticism of novelty is also applicable to the method of typographical arrangement adopted in a number of places.

It would seem necessary however to consider two points a little in detail. The names of the deutero-canonical books of the Old Testament are printed in Italics in the Tables of Lessons. This is a departure from the use of the Anglican Church for all time, and (as the Committee in its report observes) it does not appear from the Journal of 1883 that such change was directed by even the vote of both Houses of one General Convention. It also would seem that, while it never passed the Lower House at all, it did not even pass the Upper House by a constitutional vote (Art. 8 of the Constitution).³ Moreover had it done so, it is gravely doubtful whether such a change would have been a mere amendment of the Lectionary, but not rather a new method of printing certain pages of the Prayer Book introduced, it would seem, for doctrinal reasons, and as such requiring the action of two consecutive General Conventions with specific notice to the diocesan Conventions in the interim that it was proposed to make such an alteration.

The only other matter to which the reader's attention is directed in this place is the reading of the word hands instead of hand in the rubric before the words, "Defend, O Lord," etc., in the Confirmation service. On this point we simply state the facts. The word is in the singular in the Gelasian Sacramentary¹ from which our rubric probably came. It is in the singular in the first and second Prayer Book of Edward VI., 1549, and 1552; so also in Queen Elizabeth's Book, 1559, and in the Latin Prayer Book of 1560; so in King James's Book, 1603; and in the Prayer Book of the Savoy, 1662. It is in the singular in the Proposed Book, the American Prayer Book of 1790, in the edition of 1791, and in Bishop Claggett's edition of 1815, and in every Prayer Book of the Church of England to-day. The plural, hands, first appeared in the Standard of 1793, a book which, from the Journal it is evident, was issued merely to correct misprints and not to make any changes whatever, as Bishop White also expressly tells us.² As a matter of fact it is a very faulty edition with many original printer's errors, some of which have been corrected from time to time as such, but this misprint has been continued in Prayer Books generally, except in the edition of Bishop Claggett, where as has been already noted it is corrected to hand.

Conclusion.

Over one hundred years have gone by since the first American Prayer Book was set forth by the Convention of 1789. Its history, which we have rapidly reviewed, if it teaches anything, demonstrates the strong hold conservatism has within the Church. And nothing has brought out more clearly this characteristic spirit than the revision just completed. In the Convention of 1833 the Joint Committee on the Prayer Book proposed no less than two hundred and fourteen distinct alterations. Two hundred and twelve alterations were adopted by that Convention and proposed to the dioceses. But when after three years of consideration it came time to take final action on these proposed changes, only ninety-eight were adopted. In 1886 the small number of eighteen alterations were proposed, and adopted in 1889. Forty-nine alterations were proposed by the Convention of 1889, forty-five of which were adopted in 1892. When we come to estimate the results of the work of revision, extending as it did over twelve years, we find the following. Besides the many merely verbal changes, most of them made in accordance with the reading of the English Book, or for the sake of rubrical relaxation, there have been added to the Prayer Book (1) Diverse passages of Scripture in the shape of Sentences, Epistles, Gospels, and one Lesson; (2) Part of the section entitled "Concerning the Service of the Church; (3) New Tables for finding Easter; (4) The feast of the Transfiguration; (5) The words, "Let us humbly confess our sins to Almighty God;" (7) The Evangelical canticles; (8) Four versicles with their responses in Evening Prayer; (9) An additional suffrage in the Litany; (10) Ten new Prayers;³ (11) A Penitential

Office;¹ (12) Three new Collects; (13) The Kyrie, in its ancient form in the Communion Office; (14) The printing of the formula for Baptism sub conditione in the Office of Adult Baptism; (15) The words, "Reverend Father in God, I present," etc., in the office of Confirmation; (16) The words, "Hear the words of the Evangelist," etc., in the same office; (17) And an addition to the exhortation in the office of Matrimony; (18) Proper Psalms for ten Holy Days, heretofore not so distinguished; (19) And ten new selections of Psalms.

But the greater part of these additions are restorations from the present English Book or from the books of 1549 and 1637. The only entirely new features, hitherto unknown to the Book of Common Prayer which this revision has now made part of the Church's liturgy are:— (1) Some new Sentences of Scripture in the Daily Offices, and one in the Communion Office,² and a Lesson of Scripture in the Confirmation Service; (2) Proper Psalms for ten of the Holy Days; (3) Ten new selections of Psalms; (3) the words, "Let us humbly confess," etc.; (4) A new suffrage in the Litany; (5) five prayers, viz., one For Missions, two For Fruitful Seasons, and the first two Additional Prayers in the Burial Office; (6) the words, "Reverend Father," etc., in the office of Confirmation, (7) one Collect, that is, of the Transfiguration; (8) and the response to one versicle, (with which words we may well close this whole history of the American Prayer Book) viz., "For it is thou, Lord, only, that makest us dwell in safety."

² The other new Offertory Sentences are found in the Scotch Book of 1637.

THE STANDARD EDITIONS OF THE AMERICAN BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER.

BY THE REV. FREDERICK GIBSON, D. D., RECTOR OF S. GEORGE'S CHURCH, BALTIMORE, MD.

The American Book of Common Prayer is a revised edition of the English Book of 1662, with many verbal changes, some omissions, and a few additions, but, in all other respects, the American is an exact reproduction of the English Book. If one has any doubts on this subject, it will only be necessary to examine the two Books, to see that they are the same, save in the comparatively few changes that have been made in the later revision. The Preface to our Book openly and officially acknowledges that the American Book is a revision of the English. It affirms that "the attention of this Church was in the first place drawn to those alterations in the Liturgy [of the Church of England] which became necessary in the prayers of our Civil Rulers, in consequence of the Revolution," and then it states that "the different alterations and amendments will appear, and, it is to be hoped, the reasons of them also, upon a comparison of this with the Book of Common Prayer of the Church of England."

The General Convention also, in 1841, recommended the Printing Committee for the correction of typographical errors in the Prayer Book, to consult not only "the former standard editions of the Prayer Book, set forth under the authority of this Church," but also "the edition of the English Prayer Book printed at the University Press, Oxford, by Samuel Collingwood & Co., 1840." This Committee would scarcely have been directed to consult the English Book, if the Convention had not considered that as the source of our own Book. And at this day, the Sealed Books of 1662, and particularly the MS. Book, formerly attached to the Act of Uniformity in 1662, are usually reckoned as the Standard by which language common to both Books should be corrected.

Proposed Edition of the American Prayer Book.

The short-lived "Proposed Book" was printed in Philadelphia, Hall & Sellers, MDCLXXXVI., 8vo, and 4,000 copies of it were ordered to be published. A few of these were handsomely bound in red morocco with gilt ornamentation. It was reprinted in London, England, M,DCC,LXXXIX., 8vo, and from a manuscript note in Bishop Stevens' copy, as mentioned in The Historical Magazine, vol. i., p. 221, we learn that there were only fifty copies of this English Reprint published, and these were probably for the use of the English Bishops, who were then considering the request of the American Church for the "Succession."

The Standard Books.

The General Convention directs, from time to time, by Canon, which particular edition of the Prayer Book shall be the Standard Book, by which all editions shall be corrected, and to which all are to conform. There have been, thus far, seven different "Standard" editions, so named by Canon, and these were published respectively in the years of our Lord, 1793, 1822, 1832, 1838, 1845, 1871, and the last in 1892. To these seven Standard editions, so entitled by Canonical authority, must necessarily be added our editio princeps, in 1790, and thus there have been eight editions, each one of which was for a time the standard book. There are, besides, Standard copies of various Offices, usually bound up, and of equal authority, with the Prayer Book, to wit: The Standard of "The Ordination Offices," a royal quarto volume, New York, Hugh Gaine, 1793, containing only thirty-five printed pages; the Standard of "Articles of Religion," a small octavo pamphlet, New York, T. & J. Swords, 1802; and the Standard of "An Office of Institution," an octavo pamphlet, New York, Swords, 1808. The Standard of "The Prayer for Convention," adopted in 1799, would seem to be the copy printed, by order of the Convention, at the end of the original "Journal of the General Convention of 1799," or it may have been printed after the "Form of Consecration of a Church or Chapel," adopted also in 1799, a Standard edition of which was probably set forth at that time, though there is no order for such in the Journal of that year. It is desirable, also, for reference, to possess copies of the stereotyped editions of the Prayer Book, which were altered into Standards, where there have been such. As a complete collection of these Standards and Pre-Standards (if a word may be coined for use in a special sense), is a great rarity, and the writer, after many years' search, partly through purchase and partly through gift, has fortunately been able to acquire all of them, it is purposed for the information of those less fortunate, to give a short account of them, with some of their peculiarities, and the more important corrections or changes in them.

The First Book, the Editio Princeps of 1790.

Our first American Prayer Book, as set forth by the General Convention in October, 1789, is a small duodecimo volume, published in Philadelphia, in August, 1790, by Hall & Sellers. This firm was the successor of Franklin & Hall, and "The Newest Printing Office" on the board over their door, which remained in that position until 1814, was placed there originally by Benjamin Franklin. The Proposed Book had also been published by Hall & Sellers. This editio princeps of 1790 is a carefully printed book, on good paper, with two columns to a page, and with a line between the columns, and has very few typographical errors in it. As in English Prayer Books of that time, the pages of it are not numbered, except in the Psalms in Metre, where a separate title-page is given, and the pages are marked by Arabic numbers, in all 221 (iii) pages. The Committee appointed by the Convention of 1789 to superintend the printing of this Book, consisted of Bishop White, Rev. Doctors Smith, Magaw, and Blackwell, and Messrs. Hopkinson and Coxe. They were instructed, "besides a full and complete edition of the said book, printed in folio or octavo or in both, to have an edition published, to contain only the parts in general use and the Collects of the day, with references to the Epistles and Gospels." But notwithstanding this instruction, complete editions of this Book in folio or octavo were not published, so far as I can learn.

The chief peculiarities in our First Prayer Book are as follows: In reading under A Table of Fasts, "The Season of Lent," instead of "The Forty Days of Lent;" in printing "He descended into Hell," of the Apostles' Creed—in the Morning and the Evening Prayer, in the Catechism, and in The Visitation of the Sick—in brackets and in italics; and in putting in small capitals the entire phrase "WHICH WE NOW OFFER UNTO THEE," in the Oblation of the Prayer of Consecration. The printing of this last phrase in capital letters was in a direct following of the later Scotch Book since 1755, and of Bishop Seabury's Communion-Office of 1786. In both of these Books, the entire sacred phrases, "THIS IS MY BODY," "THIS IS MY BLOOD," and the important word "DO" in "Do this," were printed in capitals; and in our Book of 1790, though the capitals throughout were omitted, yet each of these phrases began with a capital letter. This capital "T" in "This" and "D" in "Do," of our first and second editions and in the First Standard, were never changed by authority, but a small "t" and "d" have crept into our later Standards from stereotyped editions, in which these letters were changed by a printer's mistake, and which afterwards became Standards, with or without other corrections, the small "t" being thus tacitly introduced in the Standard of 1822 from an edition of 1818, and the small "d" into the Standard of 1832 from an edition of 1831. The capital 'D' in "Do this" has been restored in our last Standard of 1892. "This is my Body—Blood," had also been printed in capital letters in a folio English Prayer Book, London, Norton & Bill, 1627. In like manner, from the Scotch Books we have inherited the position of the reference-letter to the marginal Rubric (e) in the Prayer of Consecration, it being placed before, and not after, the word "This." In the Churching of Women, the Doxology to the Lord's Prayer, which had been added in the English Book in 1661, was omitted in the American. On the other hand, at the beginning of the Office of the Holy Communion, the Doxology was added in our Book. In the Standard of 1892 this Doxology has again been omitted.

In the first Edition of 1790, sundry changes that had been adopted in the Proposed Book, seem unconsciously to have been reproduced. Thus, before the Prayer of Absolution, wherever it occurred, the word Priest, in accordance with the English Book, was carefully preserved, yet this retention was overlooked in the Offices at Sea, and in The Visitation of Prisoners, in both of which, as taken from the Proposed Book, the word Minister was continued in that position, evidently by an oversight, since this was afterwards corrected by authority, in the Standards of 1822 and 1838. The Gloria Patri was omitted after the Easter Canticle, "Christ our Passover," as in the Proposed Book, but has been restored to our Book in 1892.

The word "again" was dropped in the Apostles' Creed after the word "rose," but has been restored in 1892. In the Visitation of the Sick, the ancient Interrogative Creed of the English Church was omitted, and the ordinary Declarative Creed, in an interrogative form, was put in its stead, but this was carefully corrected in the Standard of 1793. The Ordinal, and Articles of Religion, were not at first admitted into our Book, and the prose part of it ended with the Psalter. In the Office for Holy Matrimony, the form, "I M. take thee N.," was adopted, after the English Book of that date, instead of the original form, "I N. take thee N.," as given in the Sealed Books. The earliest Prayer Book in which this change has been noticed is a folio edition, Cambridge, Joseph Bentham, 1757, a copy of which is preserved in Christ Church, Cambridge, Massachusetts. In like manner, in Psalm 68.4, of the Psalter, the later form "JAH" was given, where the Sealed Books have "Yea." This change probably began early in the eighteenth century. The form "Jah" is in different Oxford editions, as early as 1701, 1703, and 1715, and the present full form "JAH" in a folio, Oxford, John Baskett, 1718. There was a slight typographical error in the Preface in the word "places" for "place," in the phrase quoted from the English Preface, "those who are in place of authority," and this was corrected in 1892. A remarkable error, in the insertion of a wrong question and answer at the Receiving of Infants, in the Private Baptism of Children, was continued in our Book till ordered to be omitted by the General Convention of 1832.

Peculiarities Inherited from Old English Editions.

The different editions of the English Prayer Book, as published by the University Press of Oxford or of Cambridge, and by the Queen's Printers at London, Edinburgh, or Dublin, differ somewhat from one another in spelling and typography, even at the present day, and much more during the last century. Thus the Oxford editions, following therein the Sealed Books, in the Gospel for Septuagesima Sunday, generally have "peny" with one n; in the Epistle for Sexagesima, they have "journeying;" and in that for Quinquagesima, "no charity;" but the Cambridge and London editions, usually have "penny," "journeyings," and "not charity." The present Cambridge editions, in Psalm 107.27, in the phrase "wits end," have the apostrophe after the s, while the Oxford and London editions, and our Bibles have it before the s. Now our American Book of 1790 being a revision of the English Book, it would be interesting and important to us, if we could know certainly what particular edition or editions were used in preparing our Book, and of what year or years. There are peculiar readings in the American Book, many of which have continued to the present time, and most of those in the Psalter may be found in London editions by Mark Baskett, near the close of the last century, as may be seen by examining the folio edition of the same, in 1766, still preserved in the Sacristy of Christ Church, Philadelphia and an octavo edition in 1765. If one will examine English Prayer Books of the last century, he will find that they almost all read in the Lord's Prayer, "and the Power," and in the General Thanksgiving Prayer "they may shew," instead of "the Power," and "they shew," as they now read, in accordance with the Manuscript Book and the Sealed Books. This proves that the "and" and the "may" were not changes intentionally made in our Book, but were inherited as typographical errors. The "may" was omitted in our Book in 1871, but the "and" is still retained. The Doxology, and with this wording "The Power," was added to the Lord's Prayer, for the first time, in the original Scotch Book of 1637, and from that it was introduced into the English Book in 1662.

The marginal note to the Prayer for Christ's Church Militant, in the present English Prayer Books, reads, after the Sealed Books, "If there be no alms or oblations, then shall the words [of accepting our alms and oblations] be left out unsaid." In the American Book, after the Proposed Book, in this note, the phrase "[of accepting]" is printed "[to accept]," and the word "out" is omitted before "unsaid." It is possible this was an intentional change, but as that same reading is to be found in a few old English Prayer Books of the last century, particularly in Cambridge editions, as in 1797 and 1813, it is quite likely that the American form is a copy of a misprint.

In the English Book, the terms "Mattins" and "Evensong" had always been in use in connection with the Proper Lessons for Sundays and Holy-days, and with the Proper Psalms. It is possible, however, that their omission in the American Book may have been a typographical error after an old English Book, for Stephens (vol. i., p. ccxx) calls attention to a Cambridge edition of 1816 in which "Morning" and "Evening" had been printed in their stead, and the same has been observed in copies of the Cambridge Press in 1813 and 1815; and besides, the American Book has adopted that same short form of the Cambridge Book, "Morning" and "Evening," where "Mattins" and "Evensong" had been, and not the full title "Morning Prayer," "Evening Prayer," as it is given in the Daily Calendar, in both the English and American Books.

Two Impressions of the First Edition.

There have been at least two impressions of our first edition, and both of these, so far as known, were printed in the year 1790 only. In a copy of the editio princeps of 1790, which may be called a prima impressio, the Second Morning Lesson in the Calendar for November 29 reads, "Acts 10 to v. 31," following in this the Proposed Book of 1786, instead of "to v. 34," as in several other copies of 1790 which have been examined. "To v. 34" is the correct reading in the Second Standard in 1793, and it had been correctly printed also, even in the copy mentioned, in the parallel Lesson for May 29, where again the Proposed Book had read "to v. 31."

A Second Edition of the First Book.

There is a second edition of our First Book, printed in Philadelphia in 1791, by the same publishers, Hall & Sellers. This is also a duodecimo volume, but a little less in size than the first edition, and in somewhat smaller type, but corresponds almost exactly, page for page, to the former edition.

There are, however, some decided typographical and verbal changes in this second edition in 1791. The Lesson in the Calendar for November 29 is corrected. In the beginning of the sixth paragraph of The Preface, the word "aforesaid" is inserted, and the clauses are transposed as follows: "In consequence of the aforesaid revolution, the attention of this Church was, in the first place, drawn to those alterations in the liturgy which became necessary in the prayers of our civil rulers." The edition of 1790 concludes after the Hymns with the words: "End of the PRAYER BOOK," and this had also been the conclusion in the Proposed Book, but the edition of 1791 and the Standard of 1793 both close simply with the usual expression,

“THE END.” No doubt this change was made at the suggestion of Bishop White, for in his Memoirs, and in his Report to the General Convention of 1821, he calls attention to the fact that the Prayer Book proper ends with the Psalter, and not with the Hymns. Certain instructions, also, of the General Convention of 1820 declare: “2. That the Book of Common Prayer be distinguished from the Book of Psalms in Metre, the Articles of Religion, and Sundry Offices set forth by this Church, . . . all which are of equal authority with the Book of Common Prayer, but which, when bound up with it, ought not to appear as parts thereof.”

The entire phrase, “WHICH WE NOW OFFER UNTO THEE,” was printed in this edition of 1791, as in that of 1790, in small capitals, and continued to be so printed in impressions of this edition, even up to the year 1800, and perhaps to a later date. “He descended into Hell” in the Creed, was uniformly printed with brackets, but the italics in this edition of 1791, in that phrase, varied with different impressions. A copy in the Whittingham Library has “He descended into Hell” in italics in the Morning and the Evening Prayer only, and in ordinary type in the Catechism, and in the Visitation of the Sick. Another copy of this second edition has it in italics in the Morning Prayer only. In most of the other copies which have been examined, the italics are in the Evening Prayer only. In Dr. Harison’s copy, now belonging to the General Convention, it is not in italics anywhere, though the brackets are continued, as in all the other copies. A separate edition of The Catechism, octavo, Philadelphia, Z. Poulson, Jr., M DCC XCII., has that phrase in brackets, but not in italics. The Standard of 1793 omitted the brackets as well as the italics.

There are other slight changes from the edition of 1790 in that of 1791, which, since they appear also in the Standard of 1793, would lead one to infer that this edition of 1791, rather than the editio princeps of 1790, was followed in the Standard of 1793. Thus, in Psalm 73.18, “Oh” of 1790, was changed to “O” in 1791 and 1793, and this change continues through the Standard of 1871. In Psalm 38.4, “burden” was altered to “burthen,” and this spelling continued till the Standard of 1845. In the Confession at Sea, “burden” was altered, in like manner, to “burthen,” and this alteration continued till the Standard of 1838. In Psalm 114.7, the commas before and after “thou earth” were omitted in the edition of 1791, probably by an oversight, and they continued to be wanting till the Standard of 1845. In Psalm 56.3, “sometime” was printed “sometimes,” and that change remained till the Standard of 1845. In the Table of Contents, in “The Ministration of Private Baptism of Children, in Houses,” a comma was inserted after “Children,” in the edition of 1791, and the comma continues to the present time. The only special change made in the edition of 1791, so far as has been observed, which was not followed in the Standard of 1793, was in the peculiar transposition of the first clauses of the sixth paragraph of the Preface.

Folio and Quarto “Partial” Editions of the First Book.

Besides the two duodecimo full editions of 1790 and 1791, by Hall & Sellers, in Philadelphia, there are reprints in folio and quarto (and perhaps in octavo also) of “the parts in general use,” as ordered by the General Convention of 1789. It was only within the last few years that the writer has been able either to hear of, or to see, any of these partial editions. They include the Calendar of the Lessons, The Morning and The Evening Prayer, The Litany, The Occasional Prayers and Thanksgivings, The Communion Office, A Form of Prayer and Thanksgiving, The Ten Selections of Psalms, Selections for Holy-Days, and a few of the Hymns. These partial editions were evidently printed with the intention of their being inserted in old English Prayer Books then in use. And we find that they were actually so used in many of the older parishes of our land. From S. John's Parish, Baltimore and Harford Counties, Md., there is a folio copy of an English Prayer Book, Oxford, John Baskett, 1718, in good preservation, now in the Whittingham Library, Baltimore, in which is inserted and bound up a folio edition of "the parts in general use" of our first American Prayer Book, and in common with that first Standard, it has "He descended into Hell" in italics and brackets, and the phrase "WHICH WE NOW OFFER UNTO THEE" in capital letters throughout. Similar old folio English Prayer Books, with this American folio partial edition bound up with them, or pasted in them, are to be found at Christ Church, Boston; Christ Church, Cambridge, Mass.; and S. John's Church, Portsmouth, N. H. An unique copy of this folio partial edition—corresponding exactly in the portions given, in typography and spelling, to the duodecimo editions of 1790 and 1791, in its original blue paper cover, and containing sixty-four printed pages—may be seen in the Rector's library of the late Dr. Edson, at Lowell, Mass. A copy also of the quarto partial edition is preserved in the American Antiquarian Library, at Worcester, Mass., and this copy was given to that library by the famous early printer Isaiah Thomas, who was called by Franklin the Baskerville of America, and he affirmed that it had been printed by the old firm of Thomas & Andrews. These partial editions have no title, publisher, or date on them. In one of the folio English Prayer Books, at Christ Church, Boston, a portion of the full folio American Book of 1795 is inserted, together with a portion of the partial folio, corresponding to the edition of 1790. In both the folio and quarto partial editions, the Lesson for November 29 is correctly printed, "to v. 34."

It is doubtful whether an octavo partial edition was ever published, but an unique copy of "Alterations" in the English Book for the American Book, in octavo, without title, publisher, or date, is in the possession of the writer, and would seem to have been intended as an octavo partial edition, as it answers the requirement of such an edition, and contains about all that the other partial editions contain. This unique book, in its original paste-board binding, is evidently the same document as the "rare pamphlet," referred to by Bishop Perry, in Vol. III of his General Convention Journals, pp. 449-485. It has 60 pages, unnumbered. It was evidently printed in 1790, for it has all the peculiar readings of the first edition, and was probably the first book published, since it has directions for changes not elsewhere given, as for instance, when it says: "In the general confession, the Lord's Prayer, and in all other places for them that, read those who." The directions about the use of the Apostles' Creed are somewhat differently worded from the rubric as given in the full Book, for it says:—"the words in the Apostles' Creed, he descended into hell, may be omitted, and any Churches may substitute the words, he went into the place of departed spirits, which are, &c.

The Second Book, the Standard of 1793.

The Standard of 1793 is an octavo edition, ordered by the General Convention of 1792, and published in New York, by Hugh Gaine, in 1793. This is a most important Standard, for it is the first that was so named by Canon, to wit, Canon III. of 1801, and it was published with an authentication of it in these words, "By the Direction of the General Convention," placed at the foot of its title-page. In the General Convention of 1792, a joint committee was appointed—consisting of Bishops Seabury and White, Rev. Dr. Magaw, and Dr. Benjamin Moore, afterward Bishop of New York, Rev. Mr. Jarvis, afterward Bishop of Connecticut, and Colonel Ogden, John De Hart, Esq., and Dr. Hindman—who were directed "to compare the printed edition of the Book of Common Prayer with the original acts of the last General Convention," and their report was considered "by paragraphs," and, "with amendments," was passed by both houses. A joint committee, composed of Bishop Provoost, Rev. Drs. Moore and Beach, and Dr. Johnson, was also appointed "to superintend the printing a correct edition of the Common Prayer Book." We may, therefore, conclude that this edition represents the matured views of our American revisers. It is printed in clear, large type, but has very many typographical errors. In it the brackets and italics in the Apostles' Creed, in "He descended into hell," are both removed. This change was evidently made by special order of the Convention of 1792, but it seems to have been only a compromise, or "some such composition," as Bishop White calls it, and does not fully meet the original intention of the House of Bishops, which designed the rubric to be merely "explanatory," as we gather from Bishop White, and not permissive of an omission or a substitution, and, therefore, neither brackets nor italics would be required in the text of the Creed. In the Office for the Visitation of the Sick, the ancient interrogative form of the Creed is deliberately restored. The phrase, "which we now offer unto thee," is printed in the same type as the rest of the prayer, both in this Standard Prayer Book, and in the Quarto Standard of the Ordination Offices, published as a separate volume, and for the first time, in 1793. In the Invocation, in the clause "with thy Word and Holy Spirit," the expression "thy Word" is printed with a capital "W," which is continued to the present time. In the rubric of the Confirmation Office, before the prayer "Defend, O Lord," the word "hand," of the First Book, 1790, 1791, and of the English Book, is changed to "Hands," "he shall lay his Hands." The word "shew" is modernized, and spelled everywhere "show." In the Calendar, "Civil and Religious Liberty," opposite July 4, is omitted. The page-title of "Private Baptism of Infants," after the English Book, is changed to "Private Baptism of Children," to make it conform to the title of the office, both here and in the Table of Contents. In the Public Baptism of Infants, the Doxology which had been added to the Lord's Prayer, in our First Book, 1790, 1791, probably by an oversight, is omitted. In the rubric after the Collect for Saint Stephen's Day, the word "unto," of the English Book, and of our First Book, is changed to "until." "Ever one God," in the conclusion of the Collects for Advent III., Christmas, Epiphany VI., Septuagesima, Good Friday, and Easter, is punctuated with a comma before the "ever," where in the First Edition it had been printed "ever, one God," and followed in this particular the Proposed Book and the Oxford edition of 1775, by which Dr. White tells us he had punctuated that book, "as ye said edition appears to have been made on great Deliberation in that Seat of Letters." This matter is somewhat discussed in the "Notes and Queries," Fifth Series, vol. x., pp. 431, 471, 472. The Litany is punctuated, "O God, the Father of Heaven;" both in this Standard and in the Quarto Standard of the Ordinal; and this clause was not changed to its present form, "O God the Father of heaven," till the Standard of 1845. Our First Book, 1790, 1791, including the folio and quarto partial editions, read "O God the Father, of heaven," after that valuable Oxford quarto edition of 1775, copies of which may still be seen at Christ Church and S. Peter's Church, Philadelphia. The First Book of Edward VI; Whitechurch, June; and The Ordinal, 1549, Grafton (New York reprint), had each of them a similar punctuation. The capitalisation—of the beginning of each liturgical clause in the Collects, and in the Confession in the Office of the Holy Communion—which had been carefully preserved in our First Book, is omitted in this Standard of 1793, probably through the publisher's want of familiarity with liturgical printing. This was carefully corrected in the Standard of 1845. In Psalm 107.27, after Oxford and London Prayer Books, and our English Bible, an apostrophe is inserted before the s in the phrase "wit's end." In Psalm 68.27, "Zabulon" is spelled "Zebulon," and this continued till the Standard of 1845. Most of the typographical errors of this Standard have long since been corrected, chiefly in the Standard of 1822. Hugh Gainé, the printer of the Standard of 1793, came to this country in 1750, and died here April 25, 1807, aged eighty one years.

The Third Book, the Standard of 1822.

The Standard of 1822 is an octavo volume, published in Philadelphia by S. Potter & Co., from corrected stereotyped plates of the Common Prayer Book Society of Pennsylvania. This Standard is authorised in advance by the single Canon of the General Convention of 1821. It has the following certificate on its second page:

September 2nd, 1822.

WE certify, that this edition of the Book of Common Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments, &c., is published as the Standard edition of the said Book.

WM. WHITE, FRED'CK BEASLEY,
BIRD WILSON, W. MEREDITH,
Committee of the General Convention.

This edition was very soon after this date published by the Society for the Advancement of Christianity in Pennsylvania, that Society having purchased the plates from the Common Prayer Book Society, in October, 1822. A short report of this Committee was made to the General Convention of 1823, and in it they say that they have certified to this edition, under date of September 2, 1822. This Standard being a correction, by an authorised Committee, of an existing stereotyped edition, mentioned in the Canon of 1821, a comparison of the edition after correction, with an impression before revision, will enable one to see each minute change made by the Committee. The original edition was published in Philadelphia by "S. Potter & Co., for the Common Prayer Book Society of Pennsylvania, W. Fry, Printer, 1818," with a certificate of "Bishop White, Philadelphia, March 3, 1818." But the plates from which it was printed were stereotyped by D. & G. Bruce, New York, and were ordered from them by the Prayer Book Society, in February, 1818. There is also an earlier edition from these same stereotyped plates of D. & G. Bruce, published in New York: Printed and Sold by T. & J. Swords, No. 160 Pearl Street, 1818, with Bishop Hobart's certificate, New York, January 2, 1818. This is the first of the Standard Books which has the pages numbered throughout, and it contains 268 pages to the end of the Psalter, in all 392 pages to the end of the Hymns, with Table, etc.

The First Book Stereotyped in America.

From Lippincott's "American Encyclopædia of Printing" we learn "that to David Bruce, a Scotchman by birth, but for many years a resident of New York, belongs the honour of introducing stereotyping into America." In 1812 he visited England, and acquired by purchase a general knowledge of that art, and in 1813 brought it to this country. He was associated with his brother George, under the firm name of "D & G. Bruce." According to Lippincott, the first work stereotyped in America, a New Testament in bourgeois, was completed by them in 1814. But Munsell, in Thomas's "Printing in America," affirms that the larger "Catechism of the Westminster Assembly," stereotyped and printed by J. Watt & Co., of New York, in June, 1813, claims upon its title-page to have been the first work stereotyped in America. There is a duodecimo edition of the Prayer Book, stereotyped by Bruce, New York, with certificate of July 2, 1816, from the Stereotype Press of the Auxiliary New York Bible and Common Prayer Book Society. There is another duodecimo edition, stereotyped by E. & J. White, New York, with certificate of September 9, 1817. This octavo edition, stereotyped by D. & G. Bruce, New York, with certificates of New York, January 2, 1818, and Philadelphia, March 3, 1818, is, therefore, among the earliest of American stereotyped Prayer Books. In England, the first work printed after the stereotype process was issued from Cambridge, in 1807; whilst the earliest production of the Oxford Press bears date 1809.

Peculiarities in the Pre-Standard of 1822.

Among the many verbal or typographical peculiarities, errors, or changes made in the original edition of 1818, and tacitly inherited by the Standard of 1822, the following may be mentioned. The rubrics, for the first time, were not printed in italics, when not in red ink, and this error was continued till corrected in the Standard of 1845. In the phrase "This is my Body—Blood," the capital "T" in "This"—of the First Book, 1790, 1791, including in it the folio and quarto partial editions, and of the Standard of 1793, with the Quarto Standard of the Ordinal, in 1793—was changed to a small "t" entirely without authority, for this edition should have followed the Standard of 1793, and this error has never since been corrected.

The Roman notation of the Psalms in the Psalter and of the days of the Month, from the earlier Standards, was changed to the Arabic figures. In the Order of Confirmation, in the Collect after the Lord's Prayer, "ever-living" was misprinted "everlasting," as it was also in the Ordinal, in the Prayer for Christ's Church, but this last error was inherited from a misprint in the Quarto Standard of the Ordination Offices of 1793. The reading, "And grant that all they who," of the First and Second Books, and even of the Proposed Book, in the Prayer for Christ's Church, was changed to "all those who," but this change had already been made in the Quarto Standard of the Ordinal, 1793, and also in Hugh Gainé's folio complete edition of 1795. The marginal note to that prayer was, for the first time, placed at the bottom of the page. The old marginal note to "Holy Father," after Sursum corda is the Office of Holy Communion, which had been put in the body of the page in our first Standards, was also removed to the bottom of the page. The peculiar spelling, in the Gospel for Advent I., of the word "cloaths," of our first two Books, and found also in an Oxford edition of 1715, was corrected to "clothes," after the Bible version. The correct Latin heading to Psalm 35 in the Psalter, "Judica, Domine," of the earlier editions, was changed to "Judica me, Domine." In Psalm 100.1 of the Psalter, the word "ye" was inserted, "O be ye joyful," and this was not dropped till several years after our last Standard of 1871. In Psalm 104.11, the word "the" was interpolated in the phrase, "All the beasts of the field." In the Venite, both as a Canticle and as a Psalm, at the 6th verse, a comma was inserted after "let us worship," but this was intentionally omitted in the Standard of 1845. In Psalm 83.9, the old form "Madianites" of the English Book and of our first American Standards (as in Acts vii. 29, "Madian" is used) was changed to "Midianites," but was corrected in 1892.

The Changes Authorised in the Standard of 1822.

The changes made by the Committee in the edition of 1818 for the Standard of 1822 are not many, but some of them are very important. In the Table of Fasts, "The Season of Lent" is corrected to "The Forty Days of Lent," as had been suggested by Bishop White in his report to the General Convention of 1821. The Golden Numbers in the Calendar for March and April are omitted, but were restored again in the edition of 1831, which was afterward made the Standard in 1832. For the first time in the history of our American Books the word "Amen" was occasionally printed in Roman type, when the Minister and the People, or the Minister alone, repeated the preceding words, as after the Lord's Prayer, Confessions, Creeds; the last Prayer for Ash-Wednesday, the formula of Baptism, the Reception and the Signing of the Child, the Confirmation form, "Defend, O Lord," the declaration pronouncing the persons "man and wife," and the first Blessing in the Visitation of the Sick, "The Almighty Lord." The Confirmation form in our American Books had no "Amen" at all, even in italics, until this Standard of 1822, when "Amen" was added, and, which should be noted, was printed in Roman type. In the Public Baptism of Infants, after the Prayer introduced by the words "let us . . . give thanks unto him, and say," "Amen" is printed in Roman character. In the rubric before the Absolution in the Forms of Prayer to be used at Sea, the word Minister is changed to Priest. In Psalm 67.5 of the Psalter, the word "yea" is inserted, to make the Psalm correspond to the Canticle in the Evening Prayer. In Bishop White's Report to the General Convention of 1821, on corrections in Hugh Gainé's Prayer Book, the Standard of 1793, he mentions that the word "ought" in the Gospel for Advent I. should be changed to "ought."

From this it appears that the spelling of the First edition of 1790 of the word "ought" in that Gospel (which had been changed in the Standard of 1793 to "ought"), and also in the Gospel of VI. Trinity, was due to Bishop White. In the Standard of 1822 "naught" is given in the Litany, as well as in Psalm 144.4, and "ought" in both of these Gospels. This spelling is again altered—in the Litany and Psalm, in the Standard of 1845, and in those Gospels, in the Standard of 1871—to "ought" and "nought," that they might conform to the spelling of the Authorised Version of Holy Scripture. Two new Cycles for Easter, from 1824 to 1861 inclusive, prepared by Bishop White, and printed in the General Convention Journal of 1821, are inserted in place of the old Cycles. This was the first standard edition which, besides the Prayer Book proper, the Psalms in Metre, and the Hymns, contained in it The Ordination Offices, established in 1792, but at first only published in a separate form, in the Quarto Standard of 1793; the form of Consecration of a Church or Chapel, established in 1799, and a Prayer of Convention; Articles of Religion, established in 1801; an Office of Institution, established in 1804, and set forth with alterations 1808; and the thirty additional Hymns, set forth also in 1808.

The Fourth Book, the Standard of 1832.

The Fourth Book is a royal duodecimo stereotyped edition, published in New York, by the Protestant Episcopal Press, in 1832, being, with a few very slight changes, from an edition by the same in 1831, with Bishop Benjamin T. Onderdonk's certificate, New York, August 1, 1831. This edition was made the Standard by the General Convention of 1832, and authorised by Canon XLVI. of 1832, and Canon VI. of 1835. The original edition of 1831 was of course supposed to conform to the previous Standard of 1822. Its chief peculiarity was in printing, in capital letters throughout, the sacred words, GOD, the FATHER, the SON, the HOLY GHOST, JESUS, CHRIST, and the LORD, wherever they occur in the Prayer Book. This peculiar feature is continued in the Standard of 1832, but it was not reproduced afterward. "Amen" was printed in Roman type, in addition to the places given in the Standard of 1822, after the Sanctus, the giving of the Ring in Holy Matrimony, and the Ordination Prayer for Priests and Deacons. When it was made the Standard, "Amen" is put in Roman character after Gloria in Excelsis also. The Golden Numbers were restored to the Calendar in March and April. In the prayer for Christ's Church in the Communion Service after the forms of Ordination, "everlasting" was changed to "everliving." In Psalm 76.2, the word "Jury," of all the earlier Standards of the old English Prayer Books, and of the Sealed Books, was changed to "Jewry," the spelling of the Bible, and of the modern English Prayer Books. When it was set forth as the Standard, in the "Comfortable Words" in the Office of Holy Communion, the old spelling "travel" of the Sealed Books is changed to "travail," and an error in the new Cycle for Easter, introduced in 1821 and continued in the Standard of 1822, is corrected, "March 16" being changed to "April 16," for Easter-day, 1843. In the Prayer of Consecration in the Holy Communion, the word "Do," in "Do this," was, for the first time in the American Book, printed with a small "d." In like manner, "New Testament," in the same prayer, was begun with a small "n" and a small "t," and this is continued in the Standard of 1832, and in that of 1838, but it was corrected in the Standard of 1845. It is interesting to know that the original edition of this Standard was prepared in part by Bishop Whittingham, of Maryland, when he was quite a young man, and had only recently been admitted to Priests' Orders. In a copy of this Standard, published in 1838, and now in the Whittingham Library, Baltimore, there is written on the fly-leaf, in Bishop Whittingham's well-known hand: "The plates from which this edition is printed were corrected, as the copy from which they were set up had been prepared, by J. V. Van Ingen and W. R. Whittingham."

Changes Ordered by the General Conventions of 1832 and 1835.

The House of Bishops in the General Convention of 1832 "declared" that in "the Private Baptism of Children, when a child already baptised is to be received into the congregation of Christ's flock, the Question and Answer there given, "Wilt thou be baptised in this faith? That is my desire," was "a typographical error" in previous editions, inherited from our first Book, and "should be omitted in future editions of the Prayer Book." This correction is, therefore, made, for the first time, in this Standard of 1832. The General Convention, in 1835 after due notice to the several Dioceses in 1832, ordered the Prayer at the Meetings of Convention to be removed from the end of the Form for Consecration of a Church or Chapel, and, with an additional rubric to it, to be placed after the Occasional Prayers; and in the third rubric before the Office of the Holy Communion, it ordered the word "north" to be changed to "right," and this is accordingly done in later editions of this Standard, published after the year 1835.

In this Standard of 1832, the old Tate & Brady Psalms are omitted, and in their stead are printed the new "Psalms in Metre, selected from the Psalms of David," which were set forth December 27, 1832. In it are given also the 212 Hymns, set forth in 1789, 1808, and 1826.

The Fifth Book, the Standard of 1838.

The Fifth Book is a duodecimo edition, in large clear type, one column to a page, published in Philadelphia in 1838, from corrected stereotyped plates, prepared originally in 1837 by the Female Protestant Episcopal Prayer Book Society of Pennsylvania. It is authorised in advance by Canon IX. of the General Convention of 1838, and has the following declaration on its second page:

"In pursuance of a Resolution of the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, we, the subscribers, a Committee appointed for the purpose, do hereby set forth this Corrected Standard Prayer Book; being printed from the stereotyped plates of the Female Protestant Episcopal Prayer Book Society of Philadelphia [? Pennsylvania]; and comprising the Common Prayer Book, the Articles, Offices, Psalms in Metre selected from the Psalms of David, and Hymns.

"And we hereby DECLARE this Prayer Book, so corrected, to be THE STANDARD.

"H. U. ONDERDONK,

"Bishop of the Diocese of Pennsylvania.

"G. W. DOANE,

"Bishop of the Diocese of New Jersey.

"BENJAMIN DORR,

"Rector of Christ Church, Philadelphia.

"Philadelphia, Dec. 15, 1838."

A long and very interesting statement concerning this Standard, signed by the Committee, was made in December, 1838, and published in The Protestant Episcopalian, The Banner of the Cross, and other Church publications of that date. In this statement, the Committee say that they "have met nine times," and "have considered all the corrections reported, having also the use of a Prayer Book largely corrected by the Rev. H. M. Mason, D. D., and one by the late J. B. Wallace, Esq. Of the various corrections they have adopted, in the prose portion of the Prayer Book, . . . more than 700 of all sorts; of which only 5 or 6 affect materially the sense, and about 36 relate to matters prescribed by the 'votes, on the subject, of the General Convention.' In the Metrical department . . . they have adopted 1016 corrections, none of which affect the sense materially; . . . The whole number of corrections is 1720; almost all referring to slight omissions or misprints, to capital, roman, or italic letters, to punctuation or figures, or other defects in the plates."

A short Report was also made by them to the General Convention of 1841, and the Committee was thanked by that Convention, "for the faithful, laborious, and successful manner in which the task has been performed."

The Pre-Standard of 1838.

The original plates of this edition were stereotyped by L. Johnson, Philadelphia, and printed by William Stavely, No. 12 Pear Street, Philadelphia, for the Female Prayer-Book Society, with a certificate from Bishop H. U. Onderdonk, Philadelphia, January 20, 1837. A singular misprint in punctuation was inherited by us from the original plates, but is corrected in the Standard of 1892. In the rubric before the Lord's Prayer, in Holy Matrimony, a comma was inserted after the word "Man."

Changes in the Standard of 1838.

In the corrected Standard edition, "A. & M." after S. Simon and S. Jude in the Calendar for October 28th, which had been retained heretofore from the Proposed Book, is dropped. In Psalm 145.3, in the Psalter, the comma between "marvellous" and "worthy" is omitted, since, as it was stated, "marvellous" is here probably an adverb. In the Apostles' Creed a comma is deliberately inserted after "God," in the first line, wherever that Creed is used, but this was omitted again in the next Standard. In the second rubric of Churching of Women, the word "Priest" is changed to "Minister," and in the Visitation of Prisoners, in the rubric before the Absolution, the word "Minister" is changed to "Priest." These last alterations are expressly mentioned in the Statement of the Committee, and the last change is in accordance with a similar alteration in the Office at Sea in the Standard of 1822, made at the recommendation of Bishop White. In the Litany, the second bracket, which had heretofore, from 1790, preceded "Let us Pray," is in this Standard placed after it; but both brackets were omitted in the next Standard, as they had before been dropped in the Quarto Standard of 1793 of the Ordination Offices.

Changes Made by Order of the General Conventions of 1835 and 1838.

In consequence of the action of the General Conventions of 1835 and 1838, an addition was made to the rubric of A Table of Moveable Feasts, in the words: "unless the Table gives some day in the month of March for it; for in that case, the day given by the Table is the right day." In the General Convention of 1838, on motion of Bishop Benjamin T. Onderdonk, of New York, it was "Resolved—As the sense of this Convention, that after the words used by the Bishop at the laying on of Hands in Confirmation the word 'Amen' should be printed in the Italic character, as being properly a response." However, it had been deliberately printed in the Roman character in the Standard of 1822. In consequence of this later action, in the Standard of 1838, this "Amen," for the first time is printed in Italics. It was again printed in Roman character in our next Standard of 1845, without an exception from the General Convention of 1844 which authorised that Standard, and it is so printed in our present Standard.

The Sixth Book, the Standard of 1845.

The Sixth Book is a large octavo edition, stereotyped by H. W. Hewet, New York, and published in New York, in 1845, by the New York Bible and Common Prayer Book Society, and by Messrs. Harper & Brother. It is certified to, on its second page, as the Standard by the Committee of the General Convention of 1844, and this certificate is signed by Bishops Meade, Ives, and Alfred Lee, and by the Reverend Doctors Anthon, Wainwright, Mead, and Coit. This Standard is authorised by Canon VII. of the General Convention of 1847. It is by far the most carefully prepared edition of all our Standards, and for this result the American Church is chiefly indebted to the labours of Dr. Coit, with the assistance of Dr. Wainwright, afterward the Provisional Bishop of New York. This Standard was prepared and corrected from sheets of Dr. Wainwright's illustrated edition of the Prayer Book, bearing Bishop Onderdonk's certificate, New York, December 18, 1843. As Dr. Coit's Report to the General Convention of 1844 is reprinted in the Journal of the General Convention of 1868, on the suggestion of the Rev. Dr. Hodges, now of Baltimore, there will be no need to enter into the many and minute corrections in this Standard, but those interested in the matter are referred to that Report. The original edition of this Standard was stereotyped and printed by H. W. Hewet in 1844, and only 250 copies printed, 200 of which were for use of the Convention. This edition, with a few slight changes made by the General Convention, was published in 1845 as the Standard.

Changes Ordered by the General Convention of 1844 in the Proposed Standard.

In the Proposed Standard, the Committee, in the Table of Contents, had inserted as additional headings, "The Litany," and also the titles of the Offices printed after the Psalter, thus giving XXXVI. heads of reference instead of 29 as before. To this change, the House of Bishops took exception, and after some discussion a joint resolution was passed, which was offered by Bishop Whittingham,—“That the Table of Contents of the Book of Common Prayer, having been prepared, proposed, and ratified, in the same manner as other parts of the said Book, cannot be altered in any other way than as prescribed by Art. VIII. of the Constitution.” Under this action of the Convention, the Table of Contents was restored to its old form, and "The Litany" as a title omitted. However, notwithstanding this action in 1844, the Committee of 1868 on the Prayer Book inserted "The Litany" in the Table of Contents, and the General Convention of 1871, in the Standard adopted that year, accepted this "alteration," before proposed and rejected, without its reference to the Diocesan Conventions. A few other changes were ordered by the General Convention of 1844, in this Standard of 1845, but chiefly such as the substitution of "Selection" for "Psalm" before the number of the Psalms in Metre, and, in the title-page thereof, the putting of "Selections from the Psalms of David in Metre," for "Psalms in Metre." "Sel. 1, Sel. 2," etc., was also ordered to be printed on the outer-top margin of each page in the Selections of Psalms, uniform with "Day 1, Day 2," etc., on the outer top-margin of the Psalter. In this edition for the first time 'Lord' and 'God' used as translations of the Hebrew Jehovah are printed all in capital letters.

The rubrics are again printed in italics as before the Standard of 1822, when Bruce's unauthorised change to Roman letters in 1818 was first introduced. The Titles to the Prayers are given in larger italics, and without the paragraph mark. The Collects are liturgically printed with semicolons, and with capital letters, as in the English Prayer Book. The liturgical clauses in the Confessions, the Creeds, the Lord's Prayer, and the like, begin each with a capital letter. The versicles after the Creed, and the clauses in the Lord's Prayer, are pointed with periods, instead of the semicolons which were inherited from errors in the English Books of the last century. In the first Collect after the Lord's Prayer in the Confirmation Office, "everlasting" is corrected to "everliving," as in our first editions of 1790 and 1793. In the Preface to the Prayer Book, GOD and JESUS CHRIST are in small capitals, after the Standard of 1832, and in part after the Editio Princeps. The Calendar and Introductory Tables are more clearly printed, and have leading lines to direct and assist the eye. A Note from the English Book, explaining the Golden Numbers prefixed to March and April, is added at the side of that page in the Calendar. This Note was proposed in the General Convention of 1838 for insertion in this place, but the proposition does not appear to have been consummated then, or in the next Convention. A new Cycle for Easter, from 1862 to 1880 inclusive, taken from Collingwood's English Prayer Book, is given, without its having been first proposed to the several Dioceses, as was done in 1821, and afterward in 1868. In the Nicene Creed, the comma between "One God" and "the Father Almighty" is omitted. The comma had been there in all our previous Books, as in Mark Baskett's London edition, 1765; the Oxford Quarto, 1775; and in the English Books of 1552, 1559, and 1604.

The number of each page is given at the bottom, and there are (xx.), 511 pages to the end of the Psalter, in all 580 pages to the end of the Office of Institution. In the Selections from the Psalms in Metre, with Hymns and Table, there are 109 pages. An Index to the entire Book is given on a final fly-leaf. The numbers being printed at the bottom of the page, the Days of the Month, "DAY 1, DAY 2," etc., in the Psalter, are put on the outer-top margin of each page. In our First and Second Books these were printed on both the outer and the inner-top margin in Roman numerals, IV. DAY, VI. DAY. In the Apostles' Creed a semicolon was placed after 'buried' and a comma after 'hell,' following the Sealed Books. A semicolon is put after "Sacraments," on the title-page, in imitation of the sheets of Wainwright's Book.

The Seventh Book, the Standard of 1871.

The Seventh Book is a royal octavo edition, stereotyped and printed in England, but published in New York, in 1871, by the New York Bible and Common Prayer Book Society. It is printed in very large black type, and is authenticated on its second page by the Resolution of the General Convention of 1871, "Adopted in the House of Bishops, Oct. 19: A. D. 1871, and signed by B. B. SMITH, Presiding Bishop, HENRY C. POTTER, Secretary." "Adopted in the House of Deputies, Oct. 24: A. D. 1871, and signed by JAMES CRAIK, President, WILLIAM STEVENS PERRY, Secretary."

This edition is printed from new stereotyped plates, which were prepared under the direction of a Joint Committee appointed by the General Convention of 1868. These plates correspond page for page, to the last Standard. The Rev. W. J. Webbe was appointed Secretary of the Committee, and in their Report to the General Convention in 1871, they express "their great obligations to their Secretary, the Rev. W. T. Webbe, for the industry with which he has discovered the numerous typographical errors; and also for his laborious comparison of the Standard of 1844 with the Sealed Book." They state further that the new plates are "substantially in conformity with the alterations suggested by the Secretary." The Committee signing the Report are Bishops Eastburn, Randall, and Gregg, and Rev. Drs. Haight and Howe. A Report was made to the Convention of 1871, under three heads. I. Typographical inaccuracies; II. List of alterations; and III. Corrigenda in the copy laid before the Convention; and this Report is printed in the Journal, to which those interested can refer. Among the "inaccuracies" corrected are the insertions of the word "the" before "Saints" in the Gospel for the Sunday next before Easter, "and many bodies of the Saints which slept arose;" and the word "also" after "they" in the Lesson at the Burial of the Dead, "As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy." In the Public Baptism of Infants, and in the Baptism of those of Riper Years, after the prayer beginning, "Almighty and Everlasting God," and introduced with the words "let us faithfully and devoutly give thanks unto him and say," the "Amen" in Roman character, though ordered by the General Convention of 1844, is considered an inaccuracy, and italics are substituted therefor. The "Amen" in Roman type was used in the Public Baptism of Infants first in the Standard of 1822, and in the Baptism of those of Riper Years first in the Standard of 1838. This "Amen" has again been changed to Roman type in the Standard of 1892. In Psalm 79.1 of the Psalter, "God," before put in lower-case type, is printed in capital letters, GQD, because the phrase, "O God," being an opening vocative clause, typography would call for this change; but in the Standard of 1892 it is again printed in (broad-faced) lower-case type, since the original word here is Elohim, and not JEHOVAH.

Among the "Alterations" may be mentioned the following. In the Table of Contents, the Litany is inserted. The Amen is added after the Gloria Patri in the Morning and the Evening Prayer (as it was intended it should be in the previous Standard), and after the Anthem in the Institution Office. In the General Thanksgiving, the second "may" is stricken out, and the clause now reads "and that we show forth," as in the present English Prayer Book, and as it was originally written in the folio Book of 1636, which was corrected for the Book of 1662, and as it is in the Sealed Books, and in the Manuscript Book. The word "Whitsun-day," wherever it occurs, is so printed as to carry out the analogy of Whitsun-week, and not as in the Standard of 1845, "Whit-Sunday," or as in all the earlier Standards and the last Standard of 1892, "Whitsunday." In the Heading at the end of the Office at Sea, "the" is changed to "their" before "Dead," "At the Burial of their Dead at Sea." It is thus printed in the English Book, and in our first editions of 1790 and 1791, and the change to "the" was probably a typographical error in the Standard of 1793. An additional cycle for finding Easter for the years 1881 to 1899, inclusive, which was duly proposed in the General Convention of 1868, was adopted in 1871, and inserted in this Standard, and the cycle for the years 1843 to 1861 inclusive, was omitted. In the Gospel for the First Sunday in Advent the word "strewed," first introduced into the Standard of 1838, after the edition of 1837, is changed to "strawed," in accordance with our earlier Standards and our authorised Bible.

In Psalm 135.6 of the Psalter, the word "and" was inserted before the words "in the sea," in imitation of the present English Prayer Books and the Sealed Books. In our first American Book the "and" was omitted, as in Baskett's London editions, 1765, 1766, and in the Oxford quarto, 1775, and so it continued to be wanting in all our Standards till 1871. Dr. Coit informs us in his Report in 1844, that "the 'and' is not in the Hebrew, Septuagint, or Vulgate." It is retained in the Standard of 1892, although omitted in the earlier Great Bibles.

The Eighth and Last Book, the Standard of 1892.

The Eighth and Last Book is essentially different from all the preceding Standards, in that it is not a corrected edition of previous Standards, but is a certified copy of the American Book of Common Prayer, as it has been revised, in sundry alterations and additions, during twelve years, by General Convention. This last Standard is not a specified edition, but it is a particular volume, of large folio size, printed by the De Vinne Press, of New York, on vellum, with double lines in red on the borders of the page, and with the rubrics in red, and authenticated by the signatures of the presiding officers and secretaries of the two Houses of General Convention, and by the signatures of the members of the joint Committee who were charged with the duty of preparing and submitting to the Convention a Standard Book.

RESOLVED, That a Committee be appointed to publish the Book of Common Prayer with the alterations, as well those now ratified in order to render the Liturgy consistent with the American revolution and the constitutions of the respective states, as the alterations and new offices recommended to this Church; and that the Book be accompanied with a proper Preface or Address, setting forth the reason and expediency of the alterations; and that the committee have the liberty to make verbal and grammatical corrections; but in such manner, as that nothing in form or substance be altered.

Agreeably to the above Resolve, the BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER, as proposed by the Convention, is now published by their Committee.

PREFACE.

[Ed. 1790, Sds. 1793-1871]

THE PREFACE.¹

IT is a most invaluable part of that blessed liberty wherewith CHRIST hath made us free, that in his worship different forms and usages may without offence be allowed, provided the substance of the faith be kept entire; and that, in every Church, what cannot be clearly determined to belong to Doctrine must be referred to Discipline; and therefore, by common consent and authority, may be altered, abridged, enlarged, amended, or otherwise disposed of, as may seem most convenient for the edification of the people, "according to the various exigencies of times and occasions."

The CHURCH OF ENGLAND, to which the Protestant Episcopal Church in these States is indebted, under GOD, for her first foundation and a long continuance of nursing care and protection, hath, in the Preface of her Book of Common Prayer, laid it down as a Rule, that "The particular Forms of Divine Worship, and the Rites and Ceremonies appointed to be used therein, being things in their own nature indifferent and alterable, and so acknowledged, it is but reasonable that upon weighty and important considerations, according to the various exigencies of times and occasions, such changes and alterations should be made therein, as to those who are in place of authority² should, from time to time, seem either necessary or expedient."

² "place of authority" was misprinted "places of authority" from 1790 to 1871, but corrected in Sd, 1892.

[Prop. Bk. 1786]

THE PREFACE.

IT is a most invaluable part of that blessed "liberty wherewith CHRIST hath made us free"—that, in his worship, different forms and usages may without offence be allowed, provided the substance of the faith be kept entire; and that, in every church, what cannot be clearly determined to belong to doctrine must be referred to discipline; and, therefore, by common consent and authority may be altered, abridged, enlarged, amended, or otherwise disposed of, as may seem most convenient for the edification of the people, "according to the various exigencies of times and occasions."

The CHURCH OF ENGLAND, to which the Protestant Episcopal Church in these States is indebted, under GOD, for her first foundation and a long continuance of nursing care and protection, hath in the preface of her book of common prayer laid it down as a rule, that—"The particular forms of divine worship, and the rites and ceremonies appointed to be used therein, being things in their own nature indifferent and alterable, and so acknowledged, it is but reasonable that upon weighty and important considerations, according to the various exigencies of times and occasions, such changes and alterations should be made therein, as to those who are in place of authority should, from time to time, seem either necessary or expedient."

This is not only the doctrine of the Church of England, and other Protestant Churches, but likewise of the Church of Rome; which hath declared, by the *Council of Trent—"That the Church always

THE PREFACE.

IT hath been the wisdom of the Church of England, ever since the first compiling of her Publick Liturgy, to keep the mean between the two extremes, of too much stiffness in refusing, and of too much easiness in admitting any variation from it. For, as on the one side common experience sheweth, that where a change hath been made of things advisedly established (no evident necessity so requiring) sundry inconveniences have thereupon ensued; and those many times more and greater than the evils, that were intended to be remedied by such change: So on the other side, the particular Forms of Divine worship, and the Rites and Ceremonies appointed to be used therein, being things in their own nature indifferent, and alterable, and so acknowledged; it is but reasonable, that upon weighty and important considerations, according to the various exigency of times and occasions, such changes and alterations should be made therein, as to those that are in place of Authority should from time to time seem either necessary or expedient. Accordingly we find, that in the Reigns of several Princes of blessed memory since the Reformation, the Church, upon just and weighty considerations her thereunto moving, hath yielded to make such alterations in some particulars, as in their respective times were thought convenient: Yet so, as that the main Body and Essentials of it (as well in the chiefest materials, as in the frame and order thereof) have still continued the same unto this day, and do yet stand firm and unshaken, notwithstanding all the vain attempts and impetuous assaults made against it, by such men as are given to change, and have always discovered a

[Ed. 1790, Sds. 1793-1871]

The same Church hath not only in her Preface, but likewise in her Articles and Homilies, declared the necessity and expediency of occasional alterations and amendments in her Forms of Public Worship; and we find accordingly, that, seeking to "keep the happy mean between too much stiffness in refusing, and too much easiness in admitting variations in things once advisedly established, she hath, in the reign of several Princes, since the first compiling of her Liturgy in the time of Edward the Sixth, upon just and weighty considerations her thereunto moving, yielded to make such alterations in some particulars, as in their respective times were thought convenient; yet so as that the main body and essential parts of the same (as well in the chiefest materials, as in the frame and order thereof) have still been continued firm and unshaken."¹ had a power of making such constitutions and alterations in the dispensation of the Sacraments, provided their substance be preserved entire, as, with regard to the variety of circumstances and places, she should judge to be most expedient for the salvation of the receivers, or the veneration of the Sacraments themselves."

The Church of England has, not only in her preface, but likewise in her articles† and homilies,‡ declared the necessity and expediency of occasional alterations and amendments in her forms of public worship; and we find accordingly, that seeking to "keep the happy mean between too much stiffness in refusing and too much easiness in admitting variations in things once

Trident. And agreeably to this, their Breviary and Missal have been frequently reviewed; the Breviary heretofore three times in the short space of sixteen years only.

† "It is not necessary that traditions and ceremonies be in all places one, or utterly alike, for at all times they have been divers, and may be changed according to the diversity of countries, times, and manners; so that nothing be ordained against God's word; [And therefore] every particular or national Church hath authority to ordain, change, and abolish ceremonies or rites of the Church, ordained only by man's authority; so that all things be done to edifying." Art. 34.

‡ "God's Church ought not, neither can it be so tied to any orders now made, or hereafter to be made and devised, by the authority of man; but that it may, for just causes, alter, change, or mitigate—yea recede wholly from, and also break them"—&c. And again—"The Church is not bound to observe any order, law or decree made by man to prescribe a form of RELIGION; but hath full power and authority from God to change and alter the same, when need shall require." greater regard to their own private fancies and interests, than to that duty they owe to the publick.

By what undue means, and for what mischievous purposes the use of the Liturgy (though enjoined by the Laws of the Land, and those Laws never yet repealed) came, during the late unhappy confusions, to be discontinued, is too well known to the world, and we are not willing here to remember. But when, upon His Majesty's happy Restoration, it seemed probable, that, amongst other things, the use of the Liturgy would also return of course (the same having never been legally abolished) unless some timely means were used to prevent it; those men who under the late usurped powers had made it a great part of their business to render the people disaffected thereunto, saw themselves in point of reputation and interest concerned (unless they would freely acknowledge themselves to have erred, which such men are very hardly brought to do) with their utmost endeavours to hinder the restitution thereof. In order whereunto divers Pamphlets were published against the Book of Common Prayer, the old objections mustered up, with the addition of some new ones, more than formerly had been made, to make the number swell. In fine, great importunities were used to His Sacred Majesty, that the said Book might be revised, and such Alterations therein, and additions thereunto made, as should be thought requisite for the ease of tender Consciencs: whereunto His Majesty, out of his pious inclination to give satisfaction (so far as could be reasonably expected) to all his subjects of what persuasion soever, did graciously condescend.

In which review we have endeavoured to observe the like

[Ed. 1790, Sds. 1793-1871]

Her general aim in these different Reviews and Alterations hath been, as she farther¹ declares in her said Preface, "to do that which, according to her best understanding, might most tend to the preservation of peace and unity in the Church; the procuring of reverence, and the exciting of piety and devotion in the worship of God; and, finally, the cutting off occasion, from them that seek occasion, of cavil or quarrel against her Liturgy."

¹ Changed in the Sd. of 1822 to "further," as in the Ed. of 1790 and the Prop. Bk.

advisedly established, she hath, in the reign of several *princes, since the first compiling of her liturgy in the time of Edward the Sixth, upon just and weighty considerations her thereunto moving, yielded to make such alterations in some particulars, as in their respective times were thought convenient: Yet so as the main body and essential parts of the same (as well in the chiefest materials, as in the frame and order thereof) have still been continued firm and unshaken.”—

“Her general aim in these different reviews and alterations hath been (as she further declares in her said preface) to do that which, according to her best understanding, might most tend to the preservation of peace and unity in the Church; the procuring of reverence, and the exciting of piety and devotion in the worship of God; and (finally) the cutting off occasion, from them that seek occasion, of cavil or quarrel against her liturgy.” And the necessity and expediency of the several variations made from time to time (whether by alteration, addition, or otherwise) she states chiefly under the following heads: viz.

1st. For the better direction of them that are to officiate in any part of divine service; which is chiefly done in the CALENDARS and RUBRICKS.

2d. For the more proper expressing of some words or phrases of ancient usage in terms more suitable to the language of the present times; and the clearer explanation of some other words moderation, as we find to have been used in the like case in former times. And therefore of the sundry alterations proposed unto us, we have rejected all such as were either of dangerous consequence (as secretly striking at some established doctrine, or laudable practice of the Church of England, or indeed of the whole Catholick Church of Christ) or else of no consequence at all, but utterly frivolous and vain. But such alterations as were tendered to us (by what persons, under what pretences, or to what purpose soever tendered) as seemed to us in any degree requisite or expedient, we have willingly, and of our own accord assented unto: not enforced so to do by any strength of Argument, convincing us of the necessity of making the said Alterations: for we are fully persuaded in our judgments (and we here profess it to the world) that the Book, as it stood before established by Law, doth not contain in it any thing contrary to the Word of God, or to sound Doctrine, or which a godly man may not with a good Conscience use and submit unto, or which is not fairly defensible against any that shall oppose the same; if it shall be allowed such just and favourable construction as in common equity ought to be allowed to all human Writings, especially such as are set forth by authority, and even to the very best translations of the holy Scripture itself.

Our general aim therefore in this undertaking was, not to gratify this or that party in any their unreasonable demands; but to do that, which to our best understandings we conceived might most tend to the preservation of Peace and Unity in the Church; the procuring of Reverence, and exciting of Piety and Devotion in the publick Wor-and phrases that were of a doubtful signification, or otherwise liable to misconstruction; or

3d. For a more perfect RENDERING (or translation) of such portions of holy scripture as are inserted into the liturgy (and made a part of the daily service); with the addition of some OFFICES, PRAYERS AND THANKSGIVINGS, fitted to special occasions.

If, therefore, from the reasons above set forth (namely, the change of times and circumstances, and the fluctuation of our language itself), so many different reviews, alterations, and amendments were found necessary in the first hundred and twelve years after the reformation; it could not be expected, but (the same causes and reasons still operating) some subsequent reviews, alterations and amendments would not only be found necessary, but be earnestly desired by many true members of the Church, in the course of at least one hundred and twenty years more. And we accordingly find that in less than thirty years after the last review in 1661 (viz. on the 13th of September 1689) a commission for a further review of the liturgy and canons, &c. was issued out to a number of bishops and other divines; "than whom (it hath been truly acknowledged) the Church of England was never, at any one time, blessed with either wiser or better, since it was a Church."

The chief matters proposed for a review at that time, and which have been since repeatedly proposed and stated under the decent and modest form of queries, are included under the following heads.

1st. Whether the public service on Sunday mornings be not of too great length, and tends rather to diminish than encrease devotion, ship of God; and the cutting off occasion from them that seek occasion of cavil or quarrel against the Liturgy of the Church. And as to the several variations from the former Book, whether by Alteration, Addition or otherwise, it shall suffice to give this general Account, That most of the Alterations were made, either first, for the better direction of them that are to officiate in any part of Divine Service; which is chiefly done in the Calendars and Rubricks: Or secondly, for the more proper expressing of some words or phrases of ancient usage in terms more suitable to the language of the present times, and the clearer explanation of some other words and phrases, that were either of doubtful signification, or otherwise liable to misconstruction: Or thirdly, for a more perfect rendering of such portions of holy Scripture, as are inserted into the Liturgy; which, in the Epistles and Gospels especially, and in sundry other places, are now ordered to be read according to the last Translation: and that it was thought convenient, that some Prayers and Thanksgivings, fitted to special occasions, should be added in their due places; particularly for those at Sea, together with an office for the Baptism of such as are of Riper Years: which, although not so necessary when the former Book was compiled, yet by the growth of Anabaptism, through the licentiousness of the late times crept in amongst us, is now become necessary, and may be always useful for the baptizing of Natives in our Plantations, and others converted to the Faith. If any man, who shall desire a more particular account of the several Alterations in any part of the Liturgy, shall take the pains to compare the present Book with the former; we especially among the lukewarm and negligent ?

2d. Whether it might not be conveniently contracted, by omitting all unnecessary repetitions of the same prayers or subject matter; and whether a better adjustment of the necessary parts of the three different services, usually read every Sunday morning in the Church, would not render the whole frame of the service more uniform, animated and compleat ?

3d. Whether the old and new translations of the psalms ought not to be compared, in order to render both more agreeable to each other and to their divine original; so as to have but one translation, and that as compleat as possible ?

4th. Whether all the PSALMS of David are applicable to the state and condition of christian societies, and ought to be read promiscuously as they now are; and whether some other method of reading them might not be appointed, including a choice of psalms and hymns, as well for ordinary use, as for the festivals and fasts, and other special occasions of public worship ?

5th. Whether the subject matter of our psalmody or singing psalms should not be extended beyond those of David, which include but a few heads of christian worship, and whether much excellent matter might not be taken from the New Testament, as well as some parts of the Old Testament, especially the prophets; so as to introduce a greater variety of anthems and hymns, suited to the different festivals and other occasions of daily worship, private as well as public ?

6th. Whether, in particular, a psalm or anthem should not be adapted to and sung at the celebration of the Eucharist, as was the primitive practice, and that doubt not but the reason of the change may easily appear.

And having thus endeavoured to discharge our duties in this weighty Affair, as in the sight of God, and to approve our sincerity therein (so far as lay in us) to the consciences of all men; although we know it impossible (in such variety of apprehensions, humours and interests, as are in the world) to please all; nor can expect that men of factious, peevish, and perverse spirits should be satisfied with any thing that can be done in this kind by any other than themselves: yet we have good hope, that what is here presented, and hath been by the Convocation of both Provinces with great diligence examined and approved, will be also well accepted and approved by all sober, peaceable, and truly conscientious Sons of the Church of England.

CONCERNING THE SERVICE OF THE CHURCH.

THERE was never any thing by the wit of man so well devised, or so sure established, which in continuance of time hath not been corrupted: As, among other things, it may plainly appear by the Common Prayers in the Church, commonly called Divine Service. The first original and ground whereof if a man would search out by the ancient Fathers, he shall find, that the same was not ordained but of a good purpose, and for a great advancement of godliness. For they so ordered the matter, that all the whole Bible, (or the greatest part thereof) should be read over once every year; intending thereby, that the Clergy, and especially such as were Ministers in the congregation, recommended in our first liturgy?

7th. Whether all the lessons which are appointed to be read in the ordinary course are well chosen; and whether many of them may not be subject to one or more of the following objections, viz.—
1. Either inexpedient to be read in mixt assemblies; or 2. Containing genealogies and passages either obscure, or of little benefit to be read, in our congregations; or 3. Improperly divided; sometimes abrupt and unconnected in their beginning, as having respect to something that hath gone before; and sometimes either too short or too long, and apocryphal lessons included among the number?

8th. Whether our epistles and gospels are all of them well selected; and whether after so many other portions of scripture they are necessary, especially unless the first design of inserting them, viz. as introductory to the communion, should be more regarded, and the communion be again made a daily part of the service of the Church?

9th. Whether our collects, which in the main are excellent, are always suited to the epistles and gospels; and whether too many of them are not of one sort, consisting of the same kind of substance? and whether there is any occasion of using the collect for the day twice in the same service?

10th. Whether the Athanasian creed may not, consistently with piety, faith and charity, be either wholly omitted, or left indifferent in itself?

11th. Whether our catechism may not require illustration in some points and enlargement in others; so that it may not only be rendered fit for children, but a help to those who become candidates for confirmation? And whether all the other offices, viz.,

should (by often reading, and meditation in God's word) be stirred up to godliness themselves, and be more able to exhort others by wholesome Doctrine, and to confute them that were adversaries to the truth; and further, that the people (by daily hearing of holy Scripture read in the Church) might continually profit more and more in the knowledge of God, and be the more inflamed with the love of his true religion.

But these many years passed, this godly and decent order of the ancient Fathers hath been so altered, broken, and neglected, by planting in uncertain Stories, and Legends, with multitude of Responses, Verses, vain Repetitions, Commemorations, and Synodals; that commonly when any book of the Bible was begun, after three or four chapters were read out, all the rest were unread. And in this sort the book of Isaiah was begun in Advent, and the book of Genesis in Septuagesima; but they were only begun, and never read through: after like sort were other books of holy Scripture used. And moreover, whereas St. Paul would have such language spoken to the people in the Church, as they might understand, and have profit by hearing the same; the Service in this Church of England these many years hath been read in Latin to the people, which they understand not; so that they have heard with their ears only, and their heart, spirit, and mind, have not been edified thereby. And furthermore, notwithstanding that the ancient Fathers have divided the Psalms into seven portions, whereof every one was called a Nocturn: now of late time a few of them have been daily said, and the rest utterly omitted. Moreover, the number the litany, the communion office, the offices of confirmation, matrimony, visitation of the sick, churching of women, and more especially those of baptism, burial and communion, do not call for a review and amendment in sundry particulars?

12th. Whether the calendars and rubrics do not demand a review and better adjustment; and whether any words and phrases in our common prayer, which are now less intelligible or common, or any way changed in their present acceptation from their original sense, should be retained? And whether others should not be substituted which are more modern, intelligible, and less liable to any misapprehension or construction²?

13th. Whether the articles of religion may not deserve a review; and the subscription to them and the common prayer be contrived after some other manner, less exceptionable than at present?

These are the principal matters which have been long held up for public consideration, as still requiring a review in the book of common prayer; and altho' in the judgement of the Church, there be nothing in it "contrary to the word of God, or to sound doctrine, or which a godly man may not submit unto, or which is not fairly defensible, if allowed such just and favourable construction as in common equity ought to be allowed to all human compositions;" yet, upon the principles already laid down, (namely "the promoting of peace and unity in the Church, the exciting of piety and devotion, and the removing, as far as possible, of all occasion of cavil or quarrel against the liturgy,") the pious and excellent divines who were commissioned in 1689, proceeded to the execution and hardness of the rules called the Pie, and the manifold changings of the Service, was the cause, that to turn the book only was so hard and intricate a matter, that many times there was more business to find out what should be read, than to read it when it was found out.

These inconveniences therefore considered, here is set forth such an Order, where by the same shall be redressed. And for a readiness in this matter, here is drawn out a Calendar for that purpose, which is plain and easy to be understood; wherein (so much as may be) the reading of holy Scripture is so set forth, that all things shall be done in order, without breaking one piece from another. For this cause be cut off Anthems, Responds, Invitatories, and such like things as did break the continual course of the reading of the Scripture.

Yet, because there is no remedy, but that of necessity there must be some Rules; therefore certain Rules are here set forth; which, as they are few in number, so they are plain and easy to be understood. So that here you have an Order for prayer, and for the reading of the holy Scripture, much agreeable to the mind and purpose of the old Fathers, and a great deal more profitable and commodious, than that which of late was used. It is more profitable, because here are left out many things, whereof some are untrue, some uncertain, some vain and superstitious; and nothing is ordained to be read, but the very pure Word of God, the holy Scriptures, or that which is agreeable to the same; and that in such a Language and Order as is most easy and plain for the understanding both of the readers and hearers. It is also more commodious, both for the shortness thereof, and for

of the great work assigned them. They had before them all the exceptions which had, since the act of uniformity, been at any time made against any parts of the church service, which are chiefly set forth in the foregoing queries. They had likewise many propositions and advices, which had been offered at several times by some of the most eminent Bishops and Divines upon the different heads in question. Matters were well considered, freely and calmly debated; and all was digested into one entire *correction of every thing that

It will, without doubt, be agreeable to the members of our church, and those who esteem our liturgy and public service, to have at least a general account of the alterations and amendments which were desired and designed by such great and good men as Archbishop Tillotson and others, whose names are in the following account taken from Bishop Burnet, who was also in the commission, and from Dr. Nichols.*

“They began with reviewing the liturgy; and first they examined the calendar; in which, in the room of the apocryphal lessons, they ordered certain chapters of canonical scripture to be read, that were more for the peoples edification. The Athanasian creed being disliked by many persons on account of the damnatory clause, it was left, at the minister’s choice to use or change it for the Apostles creed. New collects were drawn up more agreeable to the epistles and gospels, for the whole course of the year, and with a force and beauty of expression capable of affecting and raising the mind in the strongest manner. The first draught was by Dr. PATRICK, who was esteemed to have a peculiar talent for composing prayers. Dr. BURNET added to them yet further force and spirit. Dr. STILLINGFLEET then examined every word in them with the exactest judgment. Dr. TILLOTSON gave them the last hand, by the free and masterly touches of his flowing eloquence. Dr. KIDDER, who was well versed in the oriental languages, made a new translation of the psalms, more conformable to the original. Dr. TENNISON, having collected the words the plainness of the order, and for that the rules be few and easy.

And whereas heretofore there hath been great diversity in saying and singing in Churches within this Realm; some following Salisbury Use, some Hereford Use, and some the Use of Bangor, some of York, some of Lincoln; now from henceforth all the whole Realm shall have but one Use.

And forasmuch as nothing can be so plainly set forth, but doubts may arise in the use and practice of the same; to appease all such diversity (if any arise) and for the resolution of all doubts, concerning the manner how to understand, do, and execute, the things contained in this Book; the parties that so doubt, or diversly take any thing, shall always resort to the Bishop of the diocese, who by his discretion shall take order for the quieting and appeasing of the same; so that the same order be not contrary to any thing contained in this Book. And if the Bishop of the diocese be in doubt, then he may send for the resolution thereof to the Archbishop.

THOUGH it be appointed, that all things shall be read and sung in the Church in the English Tongue, to the end that the congregation may be thereby edified; yet it is not meant, but that when men say Morning and Evening Prayer privately, they may say the same in any language that they themselves do understand.

And all Priests and Deacons are to say daily the Morning and Evening Prayer either privately or openly, not being let by sickness, or some other urgent cause.

seemed liable to any just objection. But this great and good work miscarried at that time, and the civil authority in Great Britain hath not since thought it proper to revive it by any new commission.

But when, in the course of divine providence, these American States became independent with respect to civil government, their ecclesiastical independence was necessarily included; and the different religious denominations of christians in these states were left at full and equal liberty to model and organize their respective Churches and forms of worship and discipline, in such manner as they might judge most convenient for their future prosperity, consistently with the constitution and laws of their country.

The attention of this Church was, in the first place, drawn to those alterations in the liturgy and expressions throughout the liturgy, which had been excepted against, proposed others in their room, which were more clear and plain. Other things were likewise proposed, as that the cross in baptism might be either used or omitted at the choice of the parents; and it is further added from other certain accounts, "that if any refused or scrupled to receive the Lord's Supper kneeling, it may be administered to them in their pews; that a rubrick be made, declaring the intention of the Lent fasts to consist only in extraordinary acts of devotion, not in distinction of meats; that the absolution may be read by a deacon; the word priest to be changed into minister; the Gloria Patri not to be repeated at the end of every psalm, but of all appointed for morning and evening—that the words in the Te Deum, Thine honourable, true and only Son, be changed into thine only begotten Son; that the Benedicite be changed into the 128th psalm, and other psalms appointed for the Benedictus and Nunc Dimittis; that if any desire to have godfathers and godmothers omitted, their children may be presented in their own names," &c.

the same in the Parish-church or Chapel where he ministereth, and shall cause a bell to be tolled thereunto a convenient time before he begin, that the people may come to hear God's Word, and to pray with him.

Of CEREMONIES, why some be abolished, and some retained.

OF such Ceremonies as be used in the Church, and have had their beginning by the institution of man, some at the first were of godly intent and purpose devised, and yet at length turned to vanity and superstition: some entered into the Church by indiscreet devotion, and such a zeal as was without knowledge; and for because they were winked at in the beginning, they grew daily to more and more abuses, which not only for their unprofitableness, but also because they have much blinded the people, and obscured the glory of God, are worthy to be cut away, and clean rejected: other there be, which although they have been devised by man, yet it is thought good to reserve them still, as well for a decent order in the Church, (for the which they were first devised) as because they pertain to edification, whereunto all things done in the Church (as the Apostle teacheth) ought to be referred.

And although the keeping or omitting of a ceremony, in itself considered, is but a small thing; yet the wilful and contemptuous transgression and breaking of a common Order and Discipline is no small offence before God, Let all things be done among you, saith Saint Paul, in a seemly and due Order: the appointment of the which Order pertaineth not to private men; therefore no man ought to take in hand, nor presume to our Civil Rulers, in consequence of the Revolution. And the principal care herein was to make them conformable to what ought to be the proper end of all such prayers, namely, that "Rulers may have grace, wisdom, and understanding to execute justice, and to maintain truth"; and that the People "may lead quiet and peaceable lives, in all godliness and honesty."

But while these alterations were in review before the CONVENTION,¹ they could not but, with gratitude to God, embrace the happy occasion which was offered to them (uninfluenced and unrestrained by any worldly authority whatsoever) to take a further review of the Public Service, and to establish such other alterations and amendments therein as might be deemed expedient.

which became necessary in the prayers for our civil rulers, in consequence of the revolution; and the principal care herein was to make them conformable to what ought to be the proper end of all such prayers, namely, that "rulers may have grace, wisdom and understanding to execute justice and to maintain truth; and that the people may lead quiet and peaceable lives, in all godliness and honesty."

But while these alterations were in review before the late CONVENTION, they could not but, with gratitude to God, embrace the happy occasion which was offered to them (uninfluenced and unrestrained by any worldly authority whatsoever) to take a further review of the public service, and to propose to the church at large such other alterations and amendments therein as might be deemed expedient; whether consisting of those which have been heretofore so long desired by many, or those which the late change of our circumstances might require, in our religious as well as civil capacity.

By comparing the following book, as now offered to the Church, with this preface and the notes annexed, it will appear that most of the amendments or alterations which had the sanction of the great Divines of 1689, have been adopted, with such others as are thought reasonable and expedient.

The service is arranged so as to stand as nearly as possible in the order in which it is to be read. A selection is made both of the reading and singing psalms, commonly so called. Wherever the Bible-translation of the former appeared preferable to the old translation, it hath been adopted; and in consequence of the new selection, a new division and considerable abridgement of the daily portions to be appoint or alter any publick or common order in Christ's Church, except he be lawfully called and authorized thereunto.

And whereas in this our time, the minds of men are so diverse, that some think it a great matter of conscience to depart from a piece of the least of their ceremonies, they be so addicted to their old customs; and again on the other side, some be so new-fangled, that they would innovate all things, and so despise the old, that nothing can like them, but that is new: it was thought expedient, not so much to have respect how to please and satisfy either of these parties, as how to please God, and profit them both. And yet lest any man should be offended, whom good reason might satisfy, here be certain causes rendered, why some of the accustomed ceremonies be put away, and some retained and kept still.

Some are put away, because the great excess and multitude of them hath so increased in these latter days, that the burden of them was intolerable; whereof Saint Augustine in his time complained, that they were grown to such a number, that the estate of Christian people was in worse case concerning that matter, than were the Jews. And he counselled that such yoke and burthen should be taken away, as time would serve quietly to do it. But what would Saint Augustine have said, if he had seen the Ceremonies of late days used among us; whereunto the multitude used in his time was not to be compared? This our excessive multitude of Ceremonies was so great, and many of them so dark, that they did more confound and darken, than declare and set forth Christ's benefits unto us. And besides this, Christ's Gospel is not a Ceremonial law, (as much read became necessary; and as the "Glory be to the Father," &c. is once said or sung before the reading of the psalms in Morning and Evening prayer, it was conceived that, in order to avoid repetition, the solemnity would be increased by allowing the minister to conclude the portion of the psalms which is at any time read, with that excellent doxology somewhat shortened, "Glory to God on high," &c. especially when it can be properly sung. With respect to the psalmody or singing psalms, for the greater ease of choosing such as are suited to particular subjects and occasions, they are disposed under the several metres and the few general heads to which they can be referred; and a collection of hymns are added, upon those evangelical subjects and other heads of christian worship, to which the psalms of David are less adapted, or do not generally extend.

It seems unnecessary to enumerate particularly all the different alterations and amendments which are proposed. They will readily appear, and it is hoped the reason of them also, upon a comparison of this with the former book. The Calendar and Rubricks have been altered where it appeared necessary, and the same reasons which occasioned a table of first lessons for Sundays and other Holy-days, seemed to require the making of a table of second lessons also, which is accordingly done. Those for the morning are intended to suit the several seasons, without any material repetition of the epistles and gospels for the same seasons; and those for the evening are selected in the order of the sacred books. Besides this, the table of first lessons has been reviewed; and some new chapters are intro-of Moses' law was,) but it is a Religion to serve God, not in bondage of the figure or shadow, but in the freedom of the Spirit; being content only with those Ceremonies which do serve to a decent Order and godly Discipline, and such as be apt to stir up the dull mind of man to the remembrance of his duty to God, by some notable and special signification, whereby he might be edified. Furthermore, the most weighty cause of the abolishment of certain Ceremonies was, that they were so far abused, partly by the superstitious blindness of the rude and unlearned, and partly by the unsatiable avarice of such as sought more their own lucre, than the Glory of God, that the abuses could not well be taken away, the thing remaining still.

But now as concerning those Persons, which peradventure will be offended, for that some of the old Ceremonies are retained still: If they consider that without some ceremonies it is not possible to keep any Order, or quiet Discipline in the Church, they shall easily perceive just cause to reform their judgments. And if they think much, that any of the old do remain, and would rather have all devised anew: then such men granting some Ceremonies convenient to be had, surely where the old may be well used, there they cannot reasonably reprove the old only for their age, without bewraying of their own folly. For in such a case they ought rather to have reverence unto them for their Antiquity, if they will declare themselves to be more studious of Unity and Concord than of Innovations and New-fangleness, which (as much as may be with true setting forth of Christ's Religion) is always to be eschewed. Furthermore, such duced on the supposition of their being more edifying; and some transpositions of lessons have been made, the better to suit the seasons.

And whereas it hath been the practice of the church of England to set apart certain days of thanksgiving to Almighty God for signal mercies vouchsafed to that church and nation, it hath here also been considered as conducive to godliness that there should be two annual solemn days of prayer and thanksgiving to Almighty God set apart; viz. the fourth DAY OF JULY, commemorative of the blessings of civil and religious liberty in the land wherein we live; and the first Thursday of November for the fruits of the earth: in order that we may be thereby stirred up to a more particular remembrance of the signal mercies of God towards us; the neglect of which might otherwise be the occasion of licentiousness, civil miseries and punishments.

The case of such unhappy persons as may be imprisoned for debt or crimes claimed the attention of this church; which hath accordingly adopted into her liturgy the form for the visitation of prisons¹ in use in the church of Ireland.

In the creed commonly called the Apostles creed, one clause* is omitted, as being of uncertain meaning; and the articles of re- shall have no just cause with the Ceremonies reserved to be offended. For as those be taken away which were most abused, and did burden men's Consciences without any cause; so the other that remain, are retained for a Discipline and Order, which (upon just causes) may be altered and changed, and therefore are not to be esteemed equal with God's law. And moreover, they be neither dark nor dumb Ceremonies, but are so set forth, that every man may understand what they do mean, and to what use they do serve. So that it is not like that they in time to come should be abused as other have been. And in these our doings we condemn no other nations, nor prescribe any thing but to our own people only: For we think it convenient that every country should use such Ceremonies as they shall think best to the setting forth of God's Honour and Glory, and to the reducing of the people to a most perfect and godly living, without error and superstition; and that they should put away other things, which from time to time they perceive to be most abused, as in men's ordinances it often chanceth diversely in divers countries.

* The clause meant is, "Christ's descent into hell," which as Bishop Burnet, Bishop Pearson, and other writers inform us, is found in no creed, nor mentioned by any writer, until about the beginning of the 5th century; and in the first creeds that have this clause or article, that of Christ's burial not being mentioned in them, it follows that they understood the descent into hell only of his burial or descent into the grave, as the word is otherwise translated in the Bible. The Nicene creed hath only the burial, and the Athanasian only the descent into hell.

In which it will also appear that this Church is far from intending to depart from the Church of England in any essential point of doctrine, discipline, or worship; or farther¹ than local circumstances require.

And now, this important work being brought to a conclusion, it is hoped the whole will be received and examined by every true Member of our Church, and every sincere Christian, with a meek, candid, and charitable frame of mind; without prejudice or prepossessions; seriously considering what Christianity is, and what the truths of the Gospel are; and earnestly beseeching Almighty God to accompany with his blessing every endeavour for promulgating them to mankind in the clearest, plainest, most affecting and majestic manner, for the sake of Jesus Christ, our blessed Lord and Saviour.

ligion have been reduced in number; yet it is humbly conceived that the doctrines of the Church of England are preserved entire, as being judged perfectly agreeable to the gospel.

It is far from the intention of this Church to depart from the Church of England any farther than local circumstances require, or to deviate in any thing essential to the true meaning of the thirty-nine articles; although the number of them be abridged by some variations in the mode of expression, and the omission of such articles as were more evidently adapted to the times when they were first framed and to the political constitution of England.

CONCERNING THE SERVICE OF THE CHURCH.

THE Order for Morning Prayer, the Litany, and the Order for the Administration of the Lord's Supper or Holy Communion, are distinct Services, and may be used either separately or together; Provided, that no one of these Services be habitually disused.

The Litany may be used either in place of the Prayers that follow the Prayer for the President of the United States in the Order for Morning Prayer, or in place of the Prayers that follow the Collect for Aid against Perils in the Order for Evening Prayer.

On any day when Morning and Evening Prayer shall have been said or are to be said in Church, the Minister may, at any other Service for which no form is provided, use such devotions as he shall at his discretion select from this Book, subject to the direction of the Ordinary.

For Days of Fasting and Thanksgiving, appointed by the Civil or by the Ecclesiastical Authority, and for other special occasions for which no Service or Prayer hath been provided in this Book, the Bishop may set forth such Form or Forms as he shall think fit, in which case none other shall be used.

THE ORDER
HOW THE PSALTER IS APPOINTED TO BE READ.

THE Psalter shall be read through once every month, as it is there appointed, both for Morning and for Evening Prayer. And when a month hath one-and-thirty days, it is ordered that the same Psalms shall be read on the last day of the said month which are appointed for the day before.

¶ The ORDER

And, whereas, January, March, May, July, August, October, and

December, have One and Thirty Days a-piece; it is ordered that the same Psalms shall be read the last Day of the said Months which were read the Day before; so that the Psalter may begin again the First Day of the next Month ensuing.

And whereas the CXIX Psalm is divided into XXII Portions, and is over long to be read at one time; it is so ordered, that at one time shall not be read above four or five of the said Portions.

The Minister shall, on the days for which they are appointed, use the Proper Psalms, as set forth in the Table of Proper Psalms. But Note, That, on other days, instead of reading from the Psalter as divided for Daily Morning and Evening Prayer, he may read one of the Selections set out by this Church.

The Minister, instead of reading from the Psalter as divided for Daily Morning and Evening Prayer, may read one of the Selections set out by this Church.¹

And, on Days of Fasting and Thanksgiving, appointed either by the Civil or by the Ecclesiastical Authority, the Minister may appoint such Psalms as he shall think fit in his discretion, unless any shall have been appointed by the Ecclesiastical Authority, in a Service set out for the Occasion; which, in that case, shall be used, and no other.

And, whereas the 119 Psalm is divided into 22 Portions, and is over-long to be read at one time; It is so ordered, that at one time shall not be read above four or five of the said Portions.

And at the end of every Psalm, and of every such part of the 119th Psalm, shall be repeated this Hymn,

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

Note, that the Psalter followeth the division of the Hebrews, and the translation of the great English Bible, set forth and used in the time of King Henry the Eighth, and Edward the Sixth.

If in any Church, upon a Sunday or Holy-day, both Morning and Evening Prayer be not said, the Minister may read the Lessons appointed either for Morning or for Evening Prayer.

At Evening Prayer on Sunday, the Minister may read the Lesson from the Gospels appointed for that day of the month, in place of the Second Lesson for the Sunday.

Upon any Day for which no Proper Lessons are provided, the Lessons appointed in the Calendar for any Day in the same week may be read in place of the Lessons for the Day.

‡The Sd. of 1892 has FIRST LESSON and SECOND LESSON, the Arabic character and lower case are here used from want of space.

§The typographical arrangement of these two Tables has been slightly changed in order to parallel them with the other Table.

* In American Books issued since 1883 the names of the Deutero-Canonical Books are in this table and in the tables which follow, printed in Italics. This however is contrary to the method of printing heretofore observed by all English and American Books, and although a resolution directing such a distinction was laid before the House of Deputies in 1883, yet it does not appear from the Journal to have been adopted. Vide Journal of the Convention of 1883, pp. 227, 228, and Report of the Committee of 1892, Appendix XIV of the Journal of 1892, p. 692.

* In the Tables of Lessons of 1877, the numbers of the Chapters are indicated by Roman numerals, but the Arabic character is here used for the sake of gaining space. For the same reason the columns with the day of the month and the Domical Letter have been omitted from the Tables of 1877, the Prop. Bk. and the Eng. Bk. The column with the names of the Holy-days has also been omitted from 1877 and the Prop. Bk. But in the former case it is the same as in the Ed. of 1790 and the Sds. of 1793 to 1871; for although the Tables of 1877 were those set forth by the Church of England in 1871, yet in the copy ordered to be printed by the General Convention the black-letter days were omitted from the

† In the Ed. 1790 (1791) we have throughout these tables of daily Lessons, "1 Less." and "2 Less." as in Prop. Bk.

Calendar, and the wording of the names of the other days conformed to the reading of our American Book. The Calendar in the Prop. Bk. also agrees with the Ed. of 1790 and the Sds. of 1793 to 1871, except that in some cases the names are abbreviated, and at July 4th it has Civil and Religious Liberty.

NOTE, That (a) Exodus 6 is to be read only to ver. 14.

* The Golden numbers in the Calendar for March and April are found in all the American Books except the Sd. of 1822 [Vide Bp. White's Memoirs 3d ed. p. 294]. The note explanatory of them, however, was not inserted until the Sd. of 1846. In the Sd. of 1892 this note has been moved to a place before "A Table to find the Dominical or Sunday Letter."

Note on the Dominical Letter for the 29th day of February:

No Dominical Letter is assigned to the 29th day of February in the American Prayer Book of 1790, nor in the Proposed Book of 1786, nor in the MS. or Sealed Books of the Church of England. In the Standard of 1793 a letter (d) was for the first time set against this day, and was continued in the subsequent Standards. In the Lectionary of 1883, in the Book Annexed of the same year, and in the Book Annexed as Modified this letter was omitted and a blank left opposite the 29th day, as in English Prayer Books. This omission in the Lectionary, although a correction, does not seem to have been made by any express action of the General Convention, and therefore in the Standard of 1892 the letter d is found restored. If the ancient ecclesiastical method of computation is followed and the day between the 23d and 25th of February regarded as the place of intercalation in a leap year, c and not d is the letter for the 29th day. For this intercalary day (the 24th) is leaped over by moving the Sixth Day before the Calends of March with its letter forward one day, or rather by counting this day twice (from which the year is called Bissextile) so that the blank opposite the 29th day in the column of letters is filled up thus:—

24	f	6 Cal.
25	f	6 Cal.
26	g	5 Cal.
27	A	4 Cal.
28	b	3 Cal.
29	c	Prid. Cal.

Saint Matthias.

It is thought, however, by some, that the setting down of a twenty-ninth day to February by the revisers of 1661 (previous to that time but twenty-eight days were noted) amounted to a legislative act making this date the

And here is to be noted, that such Ornaments of the Church, and of the Ministers thereof, at all times of their Ministration, shall be retained, and be in use, as were in this Church of England, by the Authority of Parliament, in the Second Year of the Reign of King Edward the Sixth.

intercalary day, although there is no express word to that effect in the book of 1662. See Butcher's The Ecclesiastical Calendar; its Theory and Construction, Dublin, 1877, pp. 22-29, and Brady's Clavis Calendaria, London, 1812, Vol. I. pp. 13-26. The retention, however, in the Prayer Book of the term Bissextile Year, and the fact that the revisers of 1661 gave no Letter to the 29th day would seem to militate against this view. And Dr. Nicholl, after considering all the arguments adduced in its support, concludes that the old method of intercalation, established by the statute law of England as well as by the ancient canon law, still continues in force. See his Commentary on the Book of Common Prayer, London, 1712. With Dr. Nicholl agrees the learned Dr. Samuel Seabury in his scholarly work, The Theory and Use of the Church Calendar, New York, 1872, pp. 53-61. The last part of the rubric for determining the Dominical letter as it stands in the English Book, and as it stood in the American Book prior to the recent revision, reads "Note, that in all Bissextile or Leap Years, the Letter found as above will be the Sunday Letter from the intercalated day exclusive, to the end of the year." So that following the ecclesiastical method of computation, which makes the 24th day the intercalated day, the Dominical Letter in 1880 was d down to and including the fourth Sunday of February; but the fifth Sunday coming after the intercalation, its letter was c. The new rubric in the Sd. of 1892 reads: "Note, That in all Bissextile or Leap years, the Letter under the number marked with an asterisk is the Sunday Letter for the Months of January and February," etc. This, if taken strictly, would seem to imply that the intercalation does not take place between the 23d and the 25th, and that even when February has five Sundays, they all have the same letter. Whether General Convention by this change of phraseology consciously intended to set aside the ecclesiastical rule of intercalation, and to make the 29th of February the intercalary day is a question. But if such change was intended, why retain any longer the term "Bissextile Year"?

Bp. White referring to the sentences of Scripture placed by the revisers of 1789 at the beginning of Morning and Evening Prayer in addition to those in the English Book, says: "The two (sic) texts placed in front of the other initiatory sentences were designed to give solemnity to the opening of the service; and yet, I do not know whether they may not have had an unfavourable consequence not foreseen. The compilers evidently designed to begin with penitence and confession; but we have lived to witness an increasing propensity to begin with a psalm, without any special reference to those subjects. Such a thing never happened, within my knowledge, before the said date: but whether it was the result of introducing the two texts, otherwise so very proper, I will not determine. Perhaps it would have been better to have placed them after the other texts."—(Letter to Bp. Brownell, printed in Bp. Perry's History of the American Episcopal Church, Vol. II., p. 115.)

ALMIGHTY and most merciful Father; We have erred, and strayed from thy ways like lost sheep. We have followed too much the devices and desires of our own hearts. ALMIGHTY God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who desireth not the death of a sinner, but rather that he may turn from his wickedness and live, hath given power, and commandment, to his Ministers, to declare and pronounce to his people, being penitent, the Absolution and Remission of their sins. Wherefore let us beseech him to grant us true repentance, and his Holy Spirit, that those things may please him which we do at this present; and that the rest of our life hereafter may be pure and holy; so that at the last we may come to his eternal joy, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

¹ "The introducing in this place of the second Absolution, the same as in the Communion Service, has been objected to on a ground not foreseen. My view of the subject, and I suppose that of others, was as follows. The words of the first Absolution fall short of the precatory form which prevailed in the Primitive Church, and indeed, seems below its name: for altho' it affirms a certain authority in the speaker, he is not made to exercise the authority on those before him, however possessed of the necessary requisites. The other form in the Communion Service (sic, but probably a slip for "Visitation Service") properly discarded from ours, is in a tone not warranted by ancient usage. The unforeseen objection has been grounded on a wish to restrict the precatory form to the time and to the recipients of the Communion. I fear that this countenances the delusion of recourse to the holy ordinance as a periodical sponge. Perhaps a similar abuse may be incidental to Mr. Wheatley's notion of the Minister's reading of the Absolution in the Service. The correct doctrine, as apparent to me, is, that the truth in the form applies at any time, and by whomsoever said, the proper conditions being found, and that the only difference between its being declared by a proper Minister, or by another person, is, that the former is acting under a commission, a circumstance the most likely to wing what he says with comfort."—(*Letter of Bp. first because 'good estate' may be considered in a worldly sense, or if taken in any other is but an awkward or antiquated expression; and secondly, the word 'Catholic,' although intelligible enough to many, yet it is not approved of by many others, on account of the vulgar application of it to one particular church." A few days later (Oct. 30) he again wrote to Dr. White: "In the prayer for 'All Sorts and Conditions' please to make the correction proposed by the Baltimore Convention, as in my said letter from thence, and read thus, 'more especially we pray for thy holy Church universal, that it may be so guided.' This will agree with the prayer for the Church in the Litany, instead of which this is to be used, and rids us of the exceptionable word to many, viz., 'Catholic,' and also the awkward words 'good estate of the Church,' by which some will say we mean good glebes and salaries or estate merely temporal."—These letters are printed in Perry's Historical Notes, Vol. III of the Reprint of the Early Journals.

Cantate Domino. Psal. xxviii.

O SING unto the Lord a new song;¹ for he hath done marvellous things.

With his own right hand, and with his holy arm, hath he gotten himself the victory.

The Lord declared his salvation ; his righteousness hath he openly showed in the sight of the heathen.

He hath remembered his mercy and truth toward the house of Israel ; and all the ends of the world have seen the salvation of our God.

Show yourselves joyful unto the Lord, all ye lands ; sing, rejoice, and give thanks.

Praise the Lord upon the harp ; sing to the harp with a psalm of thanksgiving.

With trumpets also and shawms, O show yourselves joyful before the Lord the King.

Let the sea make a noise, and all that therein is ; the round world, and they that dwell therein.

Let the floods clap their hands, and let the hills be joyful together before the Lord ; for he cometh to judge the earth.

With righteousness shall he judge the world, and the people with equity.

[Eng Bk. 1775 (1662)]

¶ Upon these Feasts; Christmas-day, the Epiphany, Saint Matthias, Easter-day, Ascension-day, Whitsunday, Saint John Baptist, Saint James, Saint Bartholomew, Saint Matthew, Saint Simon and Saint Jude, Saint Andrew, and upon Trinity-Sunday, shall be sung or said at Morning Prayer, instead of the Apostles' Creed, this Confession of our Christian Faith, commonly called The Creed of Saint Athanasius, by the Minister and People, standing.

Quicumque vult.

WHOSOEVER will be saved: before all things it is necessary that he hold the Catholick Faith.

Which Faith except every one do keep whole and undefiled: without doubt he shall perish everlastingly.

And the Catholick Faith is this: That we worship one God in Trinity, and Trinity in Unity;

Neither confounding the Persons: nor dividing the Substance.

For there is one Person of the Father, another of the Son: and another of the Holy Ghost.

But the Godhead of the Father, of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, is all one: the Glory equal, the Majesty co-eternal.

Such as the Father is, such is the Son: and such is the Holy Ghost.

The Father uncreate, the Son uncreate: and the Holy Ghost uncreate.

The Father incomprehensible, the Son incomprehensible: and the Holy Ghost incomprehensible.

The Father eternal, the Son eternal: and the Holy Ghost eternal;

And yet they are not three eternals: but one eternal.

As also there are not three incomprehensibles, nor three uncreated: but one uncreated, and one incomprehensible.

So likewise the Father is Almighty, the Son Almighty: and the Holy Ghost Almighty.

And yet they are not three Almightyes: but one Almighty.

So the Father is God, the Son is God: and the Holy Ghost is God.

And yet they are not three Gods: but one God.

So likewise the Father is Lord, the Son Lord: and the Holy Ghost Lord.

And yet not three Lords: but one Lord.

For like as we are compelled by the Christian verity: to acknowledge every Person by himself to be God and Lord;

So are we forbidden by the Catholick Religion: to say, There be three Gods, or three Lords.

The Father is made of none: neither created, nor begotten.

The Son is of the Father alone: not made, nor created, but begotten.

The Holy Ghost is of the Father and of the Son: neither made, nor created, nor begotten, but proceeding.

So there is one Father, not three Fathers; one Son, not three Sons: one Holy Ghost, not three Holy Ghosts.

And in this Trinity none is afore, or after other: none is greater, or less than another;

But the whole three Persons are co-eternal together: and co-equal.

¹ So in the Oxford edition of 1775, but the MS. and Sealed Books have for the running caption, AT MORNING PRAYER.

[Eng Bk. 1775 (1662)]

So that in all things, as is aforesaid: the Unity in Trinity, and the Trinity in Unity is to be worshipped.

He therefore that will be saved: must thus think of the Trinity.

Furthermore, it is necessary to everlasting salvation: that he also believe rightly the Incarnation of our Lord Jesus Christ.

For the right Faith is, that we believe and confess: that our Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of God, is God and Man;

God, of the Substance of the Father, begotten before the worlds: and Man, of the Substance of his Mother, born in the world;

Perfect God, and perfect Man: of a reasonable soul and human flesh subsisting;

Equal to the Father, as touching his Godhead: and inferior to the Father, as touching his Manhood.

Who although he be God and Man: yet he is not two, but one Christ;

One; not by conversion of the Godhead into flesh: but by taking of the Manhood into God;

One altogether; not by confusion of Substance: but by unity of Person.

For as the reasonable soul and flesh is one man: so God and Man is one Christ;

Who suffered for our salvation: descended into hell, rose again the third day from the dead.

He ascended into heaven, he sitteth on the right hand of the Father, God Almighty: from whence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

At whose coming all men shall rise again with their bodies: and shall give account for their own works.

And they that have done good shall go into life everlasting: and they that have done evil into everlasting fire.

This is the Catholick Faith: which except a man believe faithfully, he cannot be saved.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost.

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

The Convention of 1785 omitted the Athanasian Creed, and therefore it is not found in the Proposed Book. The English Bishops in their letter to the Convention, held in Philadelphia in 1786, expressed the hope that this Creed might be given a place in the American Prayer Book, but did not make its restoration an absolute requisition. As a matter of fact its omission was not altogether regarded with disfavour in England. The Archbishop of Canterbury, speaking to Bishop White afterwards, said: "Some wish that you had retained the Athanasian Creed, but I cannot say that I am uneasy on the subject; for you have retained the doctrine of it in your Liturgy; and as to the Creed itself, I suppose you thought it not suited to the use of a congregation" (Memoirs of the Church, p 134). At the Convention held at Wilmington, in 1786, the article, "He descended into hell" was restored to the Apostles' Creed, and the Nicene Creed put back in the Prayer Book. The Convention, however, did not recede from its previous action with regard to the Quicumque vult. In 1789 Bishop Seabury desired the retention of this Creed, but Bishop White urged the instance of the 'Greek Church, confessedly tenacious of the doctrine of the Nicene Creed, and yet not possessed of the Athanasian in any liturgy, or even an acknowledgment of it in any confession of faith, as is attested by the Rev. John Smith, who wrote An Account of the Greek Church.' Bishop White, however, consented to the proposal of Bishop Seabury to insert the Creed with a rubric permitting its use. But this proposition of the House of Bishops was negatived by the other House.

For Fruitful Seasons.

¶ To be used on Rogation-Sunday and the Rogation-days.

ALMIGHTY God, who hast blessed the earth that it should be fruitful and bring forth whatsoever is needful for the life of man, and hast commanded us to work with quietness, and eat our own bread; Bless the labours of the husbandman, and grant such seasonable weather that we may gather in the fruits of the earth, and ever rejoice in thy goodness, to the praise of thy holy Name; through Jesus Christ our Lord. *Amen.*¹

O GRACIOUS Father, who openest thine hand and fillest all things living with plenteousness; We beseech thee of thine infinite goodness to hear us, who now make our prayers and supplications unto thee. Remember not our sins, but thy promises of mercy. Vouchsafe to bless the lands and multiply the harvests of the world. Let thy breath go forth that it may renew the face of the earth. Show thy loving-kindness, that our land may give her increase; and so fill us with good things that the poor and needy may give thanks unto thy Name; through Christ our Lord. *Amen.*² as thou hast thought fit to visit us for our sins with great sickness and mortality, in the midst of thy judgment, O Lord, remember mercy. Have pity upon us miserable sinners, and withdraw from us the grievous sickness with which we are afflicted. May this thy fatherly correction have its due influence upon us, by leading us to consider how frail and uncertain our life is; that we may apply our hearts unto that heavenly wisdom which in the end will bring us to everlasting life, through Jesus Christ our Lord. *Amen.*¹

For a sick Person.

O FATHER of mercies, and God of all comfort, our only help in time of need; look down from heaven, we humbly beseech thee, behold, visit, and relieve thy sick servant, for whom our prayers are desired. Look upon him with the eyes of thy mercy; comfort him with a sense of thy goodness; preserve him from the temptations of the enemy; give him patience under his affliction; and, in thy good time, restore him to health, and enable him to lead the residue of his life in thy fear, and to thy glory: Or else give him grace so to take thy visitation, that, after this painful life ended, he may dwell with thee in life everlasting, through Jesus Christ our Lord. *Amen.*²

For a sick Child.

ALMIGHTY God, and merciful Father, to whom alone belong the issues of life and death; look down from heaven, we humbly beseech thee, with the eyes of mercy, upon the sick child for whom our prayers are desired. Deliver him, O Lord, in thy good appointed time, from his bodily pain, and visit him with thy salvation; that if it should be thy good pleasure to prolong his days here on earth, he may live to thee, and be an instrument of thy glory, by serving thee faithfully, and doing good in his generation: Or else receive him into those heavenly habitations, where the souls of those who sleep in the Lord Jesus enjoy perpetual rest and felicity. Grant this, O Lord, for the love of thy Son, our Saviour, Jesus Christ. *Amen.*³

Visit them, O Lord, with thy mercy and salvation; convince them of the miserable condition they are in, by their sins and wickedness; and let thy powerful grace produce in them such a godly sorrow, and sincere repentance, as thou wilt be pleased to accept. Give them a strong and lively faith in thy Son, our blessed Saviour, and make it effectual to the salvation of their souls. O Lord, in judgment remember mercy; and whatever sufferings they are to endure in this world, yet deliver them, O God, from the bitter pains of eternal death. BRETHREN, in the Primitive Church there was a godly discipline, that, at the beginning of Lent, such persons as stood convicted of notorious sin were put to open penance, and punished in this world, that their souls might be saved in the day of the Lord; and that others, admonished by their example, might be the more afraid to offend.

Instead whereof, (until the said discipline may be restored again, which is much to be wished,) it is thought good, that at this time (in the presence of you all) should be read the general sentences of God's cursing against impenitent sinners, gathered out of the seven and twentieth Chapter of Deuteronomy, and other places of Scripture; and that ye should answer to every Sentence, Amen: To the intent that, being admonished of the great indignation of God against sinners, ye may the rather be moved to earnest and true repentance; and may walk more warily in these dangerous days; fleeing from such vices, for which ye affirm with your own mouths the curse of God to be due.

Minister.

NOW seeing that all they are accursed (as the prophet David beareth witness) who do err and go astray from the commandments of God; let us (remembering the dreadful judgement hanging over our heads, and always ready to fall upon us) return unto our Lord God, with all contrition and meekness of heart; bewailing and lamenting our sinful life, acknowledging and confessing our offences, and seeking to bring forth worthy fruits of penance. For now is the axe put unto the root of the trees, so that every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God: he shall pour down rain upon the sinners, snares, fire and brimstone, storm and tempest; this shall be their portion to drink. For lo, the Lord is come out of his place to visit the wickedness of such as dwell upon the earth. But who may abide the day of his coming? Who shall be able to endure when he appeareth? His fan is in his hand, and he will purge his floor, and gather his wheat into the barn; but he will burn the chaff with unquenchable fire. The day of the Lord cometh as a thief in the night: and when men shall say, Peace, and all things are safe, then shall sudden destruction come upon them, as sorrow cometh upon a woman travailing with child, and they shall not escape. Then shall appear the wrath of God in the day of vengeance, which obstinate sinners, through the stubbornness of their heart, have heaped unto themselves; which despised the goodness, patience, and long-sufferance of God, when he calleth them continually to repentance. Then shall they call upon me, (saith the Lord,) but I will not hear; they shall seek me early, but they shall not find me; and that, because they hated knowledge, and received not the fear of the Lord, but abhorred my counsel, and despised my correction. Then shall it be too late to knock when the door shall be shut; and too late to cry for mercy when it is the time of justice. O terrible voice of most just judgement, which shall be pronounced upon them, when it shall be said unto them, Go, ye cursed, into the fire everlasting, which is prepared for the devil and his angels. Therefore, brethren, take we heed betime, while the day of salvation lasteth; for the night cometh, when none can work. But let us, while we have the light, believe in the light, and walk as children of the light; that we be not cast into utter darkness, where is weeping and gnashing of teeth. Let us not abuse the goodness of God, who calleth us mercifully to amendment, and of his endless pity promiseth us forgiveness of that which is past, if with a perfect and true heart we return unto him. For though our sins be as red as scarlet, they shall be made white as snow; and though they be like purple, yet they shall be made white as wool. Turn ye (saith the Lord) from all your wickedness, and your sin shall not be your destruction: Cast away from you all your ungodliness that ye have done: Make you new hearts, and a new spirit: Wherefore will ye die, O ye house of Israel, seeing that I have no pleasure in the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God? Turn ye then, and ye shall live. Although we have sinned, yet have we an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous; and he is the propitiation for our sins. For he was wounded for our offences, and smitten for our wickedness. Let us therefore return unto him, who is the merciful receiver of all true penitent sinners; assuring ourselves that he is ready to receive us, and most willing to pardon us, if we come unto him with faithful repentance; if we submit ourselves unto him, and from henceforth walk in his ways; if we will take his easy yoke, and light burden upon us, to follow him in lowliness, patience, and charity, and be ordered by the governance of his Holy Spirit; seeking always his glory, and serving him duly in our vocation with thanksgiving: This if we do, Christ will deliver us from the curse of the law, and from the extreme malediction which shall light upon them that shall be set on the left hand; and he will set us on his right hand, and give us the gracious benediction of his Father, commanding us to take possession of his glorious kingdom: Unto which he vouchsafe to bring us all, for his infinite mercy. Amen.¹

CHRIST being raised from the dead, dieth no more: death hath no more dominion over him.

For in that he died, he died unto sin once: but in that he liveth, he liveth unto God.

Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin: but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord. Rom. vi. 9.

CHRIST is risen from the dead: and become the first fruits of them that slept.

For since by man came death: by man came also the resurrection of the dead.

For as in Adam all die: even so in Christ shall all be made alive. 1 Cor. xv. 20.⁴

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost.

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

¶ And if any of these² be an open and notorious evil liver, or have done any wrong to his neighbours by word or deed, so that the Congregation be thereby offended; the Curate, having knowledge thereof, shall call him and advertise him, that in any wise he presume not to come to Lord's Table, until he hath openly declared himself to have truly repented and amended his former naughty life, that the Congregation may thereby be satisfied, which before were offended; and that he hath recompensed the parties, to whom he hath done wrong; or at least

And if one of the parties, so at variance, be content to forgive from the bottom of his heart all that the other hath trespassed against him, and to make amends for that wherein he himself had offended; and the other party will not be persuaded to a godly unity, but remain still in his forwardness and malice; the Minister in that case ought to admit the penitent person to the Holy Communion, and not him that is obstinate. Provided, that every Minister so repelling any, as is herein specified, shall be obliged to give an account of the same to the Ordinary, within fourteen days after, at the farthest.*

[Ed. 1790, Sds. 1793-1871]

¶ Here shall follow the proper Preface, according to the time, if there be any specially appointed; or else immediately shall be said or sung by the Priest,

Therefore with Angels and Archangels, and with all the company of heaven, we laud and magnify thy glorious Name; evermore praising thee, and saying,

HOLY, HOLY, ¶ Priest and People.
HOLY, Lord God of hosts, Heaven and earth are full of thy glory: Glory be to thee, O Lord Most High. Amen.

¶ by the Priest and People,
THEREFORE with Angels and Archangels, and with all the company of heaven, we laud and magnify thy glorious Name; evermore praising thee, and saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of Hosts, heaven and earth are full of thy glory: Glory be to thee, O Lord Most High. Amen.

PROPER PREFACES.

Upon Christmas-Day, and seven Days after.

BECAUSE thou didst give Jesus Christ, thine only Son, to be born as at this time for us; who, by the operation of the Holy Ghost, was made very man, of the substance of the Virgin Mary his mother; and that without spot of sin, to make us clean from all sin: Therefore with Angels, etc.

Upon Easter-Day, and seven Days after.

BUT chiefly are we bound to praise thee for the glorious resurrection of thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord; For he is the very Paschal Lamb, which was offered for us, and hath taken away the sin of the world; who by his death hath destroyed death, and by his rising to life again hath restored to us everlasting life: Therefore with Angels, etc.

Upon Ascension Day, and seven Days after.

THROUGH thy most dearly beloved Son Jesus Christ our Lord; who, after his most glorious Resurrection, manifestly appeared to all his Apostles, and in their sight ascended up into heaven, to prepare a place for us; that where he is, thither we might also ascend, and reign with him in glory: Therefore with Angels, etc.

Upon Whitsunday, and six Days after.

THROUGH Jesus Christ our Lord; according to whose most true promise, the Holy Ghost came down as at this time from heaven, with a sudden great sound, as it had been a mighty wind, in the likeness of fiery tongues, lighting up the Apostles, to teach them, and to lead them to all truth; giving them both the gift of divers languages, and also boldness with fervent zeal constantly to preach the Gospel unto all nations; whereby we have been brought out of darkness and error into the clear light and true knowledge of thee, and of thy Son Jesus Christ: Therefore with Angels, &c.

Upon the Feast of Trinity only, may be said,

WHO art one God, one Lord; not one only person, but three persons in one substance: For that which we believe of the glory of the Father, the same we believe of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, without any difference or inequality: Therefore with Angels, &c.

FOR the precious death and merits of thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord, and for the sending to us of the Holy Ghost the Comforter; who are one with thee in thy eternal Godhead: Therefore with Angels, &c.

¶ Then shall the Priest, kneeling down at the Lord's Table, say, in the name of all those who shall receive the Communion, this Prayer following.

WE do not presume to come to this thy Table, O merciful Lord, trusting in our own righteousness, but in thy manifold and great mercies. We are not worthy so much as to gather up the crumbs under thy Table. But thou art the same Lord, whose property is always to have mercy: Grant us therefore, gracious Lord, so to eat the flesh of thy dear Son Jesus Christ, and to drink his blood, that our sinful bodies may be made clean by his body, and our souls washed through his most precious blood, and that we may evermore dwell in him, and he in us. ¶ When the Priest, standing before the Table, hath so ordered the Bread and Wine, that he may with the more readiness and decency break the Bread before the People, and take the Cup into his Hands, he shall say the Prayer of Consecration, as followeth.

ALL glory be to thee Almighty God, our heavenly Father, for that thou, of thy tender mercy, didst give thine only Son Jesus Christ to suffer death upon the cross for our redemption; who made there (by his one oblation of himself once offered) a full, perfect, and sufficient sacrifice, oblation, and satisfaction, for the sins of the whole world; and did institute, and in his holy gospel command us to continue, a perpetual memory of that his precious death and sacrifice, until his coming again:

DEARLY beloved, on ——— day next, I purpose, through God's assistance, to administer to all such as shall be religiously and devoutly disposed, the most comfortable Sacrament of the Body and Blood of Christ; to be by them received in remembrance of his meritorious Cross and Passion; whereby alone we obtain remission of our sins, and are made partakers of the kingdom of Heaven. Wherefore it is our duty to render most humble and hearty thanks to Almighty God, our heavenly Father, for that he hath given his Son our Saviour Jesus Christ, not only to die for us, but also to be our spiritual food and sustenance in that holy Sacrament. Which being so divine and comfortable a thing to them who receive it worthily, and so dangerous to those who will presume to receive it unworthily; my duty is to exhort you, in the mean season to consider the dignity of that holy Mystery, and the great peril of the unworthy receiving thereof; and so to search and examine your own consciences, (and that not lightly, and after the manner of dissemblers with God; but so) that ye may come holy and clean to such a heavenly feast, in the marriage-garment required by God in holy Scripture, and be received as worthy partakers of that holy Table.

The way and means thereto is, First, to examine your lives and conversations by the rule of God's commandments; and whereinsoever ye shall perceive yourselves to have offended, either by will, word, or deed, there to bewail your own sinfulness, and to confess yourselves to Almighty God, with full purpose of amendment of life. And if ye shall perceive your offences to be such as are not only against God, but also against your neighbours; then ye shall reconcile yourselves unto them; being ready to make restitution and satisfaction, according to the uttermost of your powers, for all injuries and wrongs done by you to any other; and being likewise ready to forgive others who have offended you, as ye would have forgiveness of your offences at God's hand: For otherwise the receiving of the holy Communion doth nothing else but increase your condemnation. Therefore, if any of you be a blasphemer of God, an hinderer or slanderer of his Word, an adulterer, or be in malice, or envy, or in any other grievous crime; repent ye¹ of your sins, or else come not to that holy Table.

And because it is requisite that no man should come to the Holy Communion, but with a full trust in God's mercy, and with a quiet conscience; therefore, if there be any of you, who by this means cannot quiet his own conscience herein, but requireth further comfort or counsel; let him come to me, or to some other Minister of God's word, and open his grief;⁶

DEARLY beloved brethren, on ——— I intend by God's grace, to celebrate the Lord's Supper; unto which, in God's behalf, I bid you all who are here present; and beseech you, for the Lord Jesus Christ's sake, that ye will not refuse to come thereto, being so lovingly called and bidden by God himself. Ye know how grievous and unkind a thing it is, when a man hath prepared a rich feast, decked his table with all kind¹ of provision, so that there lacketh nothing but the guests to sit down; and yet they who are called (without any cause) most unthankfully refuse to come. Which of you in such a case would not be moved? Who would not think a great injury and wrong done unto him? Wherefore, most dearly beloved in Christ, take ye good heed, lest ye, withdrawing yourselves from this holy Supper, provoke God's indignation against you. It is an easy matter for a man to say, I will not communicate, because I am otherwise hindered with worldly business. But such excuses are not so easily accepted and allowed before God. If any man say, I am a grievous sinner, and therefore am afraid to come; wherefore then do ye not repent and amend? When God calleth you, are ye not ashamed to say ye will not come? When ye should return to God, will ye excuse yourselves, and say ye are not ready? Consider earnestly with yourselves how little such feigned excuses will avail before God. They² who refused the feast in the Gospel, because they had bought a farm, or would try their yokes of oxen, or because they were married, were not so excused, but counted unworthy of the heavenly feast. Wherefore, according to mine Office, I bid you in the Name of God, I call you in Christ's behalf, I exhort you, as ye love your own salvation, that ye will be partakers of this Holy Communion. And as the Son of God did vouchsafe to yield up his soul by death upon the cross for your salvation; so it is your duty to receive the Communion in remembrance of the sacrifice of his death, as he himself hath commanded: Which if ye shall neglect to do, consider with yourselves how great is your ingratitude to God, and how sore punishment hangeth over your heads for the same; when ye willfully abstain from the Lord's Table, and separate from your brethren, who come to feed on the banquet of that most heavenly food. These things if ye earnestly consider, ye will by God's grace return to a better mind; for the obtaining whereof we shall not cease to make our humble petitions unto Almighty God, our heavenly Father.

Wherefore, after this promise made by Christ, you must also faithfully for your part, promise and answer to the following questions:

¶ Then shall the Priest speak unto the Godfathers and Godmothers on this wise.

DEARLY beloved, ye have brought this Child here to be baptized, ye have prayed that our Lord Jesus Christ would vouchsafe to receive him, to release him of his sins, to sanctify him with the holy Ghost, to give him the kingdom of heaven, and everlasting life. Ye have heard also that our Lord Jesus Christ hath promised in his Gospel to grant all these things that ye have prayed for: which promise he, for his part, will most surely keep and perform. Wherefore, after this promise made by Christ, this Infant must also faithfully, for his part, promise by you that are his sureties, (until he come of age to take it upon himself;) that he will renounce the devil and all his works, and constantly believe God's holy Word, and obediently keep his commandments.

I demand therefore,

DOST thou, in the name of this Child, renounce the devil and all his works, the vain pomp and glory of the world, with all covetous desires of the same, and the carnal desires of the flesh, so that thou wilt not follow, nor be led by them?

² in [Ed. 1790, Sds. 1793-1838]; corrected in Sd. 1845 in accordance with MS. and Sealed Books. Cf. Baptism of Adults.

³ By the Standard of 1845 the word "Wherefore" introduces a new paragraph, which arrangement has been continued ever since; quite contrary, however, to the MS. and Sealed Books, and to all previous American Standards.

[Ed. 1790, Sds. 1793-1871]

Answ. I renounce them all; and, by God's help, will endeavour not to follow, nor be led by them.

Minist. Dost thou believe all the Articles of the Christian Faith, as contained in the Apostles' Creed?

Answ. I do.

Minist. Wilt thou be baptized in this Faith?

Answ. That is my desire.

Minist. Wilt thou then obediently keep God's holy will and commandments, and walk in the same all the days of thy life?

Answ. I will, by God's help.

¶ Then shall the Minister say,

○ MERCIFUL God, grant that the old Adam in this Child may be so buried, that the new man may be raised up in him. Amen.

Grant that all sinful affections may die in him, and that all things belonging to the Spirit may live and grow in him. Amen.

Grant that he may have power and strength to have victory, and to triumph, against the devil, the world, and the flesh. Amen.

Grant that whosoever is here dedicated to thee by our office and Ministry, may also be endued with heavenly virtues, and everlastingly rewarded through thy mercy, O blessed Lord God, who dost live, and govern all things, world without end. Amen.

[Prop. Bk. 1786]

Dost thou believe all the Articles of the Christian Faith, as contained in the Apostles Creed; and wilt thou endeavour to have this Child instructed accordingly?

Answ. I do believe them; and by God's help will endeavour so to do.

Minister. Wilt thou endeavour to have him brought up in the fear of God, and to obey his holy Will and Commandments?

Answ. I will, by God's assistance.

¶ Then shall the Priest¹ say,

O MERCIFUL God, grant that the old Adam in this Child may be so buried, that the new man may be raised up in him. Amen.

Grant that all carnal affections may die in him, and that all things belonging to the Spirit may live and grow in him. Amen.

[Eng. Bk. 1775 (1662)]

Answer. I renounce them all.

Minister.

DOST thou believe in God the Father Almighty, maker of heaven and earth?

And in Jesus Christ his only-begotten Son our Lord? And that he was conceived by the Holy Ghost; born of the Virgin Mary; that he suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead, and buried; that he went down into hell, and also did rise again the third day; that he ascended into heaven, and sitteth at the right hand of God the Father Almighty; and from thence shall come again at the end of the world, to judge the quick and the dead?

And dost thou believe in the Holy Ghost; the holy Catholick Church; the Communion of Saints; the Remission of sins; the Resurrection of the flesh; and everlasting life after death?

Answer. All this I stedfastly believe.

Minister.

WILT thou be baptized in this faith?

Answer. That is my desire.

Minister.

Wilt thou then obediently keep God's holy will and commandments, and walk in the same all the days of thy life?

Answer. I will.

For which cause Saint Peter the Apostle, when upon his first preaching of the Gospel many were pricked at the heart, and said to him and the rest of the Apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do? replied and said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost: For the promise is to you and your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call. And with many other words exhorted he them, saying, Save yourselves from this untoward generation. EARLY beloved, we are gathered together here in the sight of God, and in the face of this company, to join together this Man and this Woman in holy Matrimony; which is an honourable estate, instituted of God in the time of man's innocency, signifying unto us the mystical union that is betwixt Christ and his Church: which holy estate Christ adorned and beautified with his presence and first miracle that he wrought in Cana of Galilee, and is commended of St. Paul to be honourable among all men: and therefore it is not by any to be entered into unadvisedly or lightly; but reverently, discreetly, advisedly, soberly, and in the fear of God. Into this holy estate these two persons present come now to be joined. If any man can show just cause, why they may not lawfully be joined together, let him now speak, or else hereafter for ever hold his peace.

DEARLY beloved, we are gathered together here in the sight of God, to join together this Man and this Woman in holy Matrimony: Therefore, if any man can shew any just cause, why they may not lawfully be joined together, let him now speak, or else hereafter for ever hold his peace.

[Eng. Bk. 1775 (1662)]

DEARLY beloved, we are gathered together here in the sight of God, and in the face of this congregation, to join together this Man and this Woman in holy Matrimony; which is an honourable estate, instituted of God in the time of man's innocency, signifying unto us the mystical union that is betwixt Christ and his Church; which holy estate Christ adorned and beautified with his presence, and first miracle that he wrought, in Cana of Galilee; and is commended of St. Paul to be honourable among all men: and therefore is not by any to be enterprised, nor taken in hand, unadvisedly, lightly, or wantonly, to satisfy men's carnal lusts and appetites, like brute beasts that have no understanding; but reverently, discreetly, advisedly, soberly, and in the fear of God; duly considering the causes for which Matrimony was ordained.

First, It was ordained for the procreation of children, to be brought up in the fear and nurture of the Lord, and to the praise of his holy Name.

Secondly, It was ordained for a remedy against sin, and to avoid fornication; that such persons as have not the gift of continency might marry, and keep themselves undefiled members of Christ's body.

Thirdly, It was ordained for the mutual society, help, and comfort, that the one ought to have of the other, both in prosperity and adversity. Into which holy estate these two persons present come now to be joined. Therefore if any man can shew any just cause, why they may not lawfully be joined together, let him now speak, or else hereafter for ever hold his peace.

O MERCIFUL Lord, and heavenly Father, by whose gracious gift mankind is increased ; We beseech thee, assist with thy blessing these two persons, that they may both be fruitful in procreation of children, and also live together so long in godly love and honesty, that they may see their children christianly and virtuously brought up, to thy praise and honour ; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

O GOD, who by thy mighty power hast made all things of nothing ; who also (after other things set in order) didst appoint, that out of man (created after thine own image and similitude) woman should take her beginning ; and, knitting them together, didst teach that it should never be lawful to put asunder those whom thou by Matrimony hadst made one : O God, who hast consecrated the state of Matrimony to such an excellent mystery, that in it is signified and represented the spiritual marriage and unity betwixt Christ and his Church ; Look mercifully upon these thy servants, that both this man may love his wife, according to thy Word, (as Christ did love his spouse the Church, who gave himself for it, loving and cherishing it even as his own flesh,) and also that this woman may be loving and amiable, faithful and obedient to her husband ; and in all quietness, sobriety, and peace, be a follower of holy and godly matrons. O Lord, bless them both, and grant them to inherit thy everlasting kingdom ; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest say,

ALMIGHTY God, who at the beginning did create our first parents, Adam and Eve, and did sanctify and join them together in marriage : Pour upon you the riches of his grace, sanctify and bless you ; that ye may please him both in body and soul, and live together in holy love unto your lives end. Amen.

¶ After which, if there be no Sermon declaring the duties of Man and Wife, the Minister shall read as followeth.

ALL ye that are married, or that intend to take the holy estate of Matrimony upon you, hear what the holy Scripture doth say as touching the duty of husbands towards their wives, and wives towards their husbands.

[Eng. Bk. 1775 (1662)]

Saint Paul, in his Epistle to the Ephesians, the fifth Chapter, doth give this commandment to all married men; Husbands love your wives, even as Christ also loved the Church, and gave himself for it, that he might sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water, by the Word; that he might present it to himself a glorious Church, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy, and without blemish. So ought men to love their wives as their own bodies. He that loveth his wife loveth himself: for no man ever yet hated his own flesh, but nourisheth and cherisheth it, even as the Lord the Church: for we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones. For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined unto his wife; and they two shall be one flesh. This is a great mystery; but I speak concerning Christ and the Church. Nevertheless, let every one of you in particular so love his wife, even as himself. Ephes. v. 25.

Likewise the same Saint Paul, writing to the Colossians, speaketh thus to all men that are married; Husbands, love your wives, and be not bitter against them. Col. iii. 19.

Hear also what Saint Peter, the Apostle of Christ, who was himself a married man, saith unto them that are married; Ye husbands, dwell with your wives according to knowledge; giving honour unto the wife, as unto the weaker vessel, and as being heirs together of the grace of life, that your prayers be not hindered. 1 S. Pet. iii. 7.

Hitherto ye have heard the duty of the husband toward the wife. Now likewise, ye wives, hear and learn your duties toward your husbands, even as it is plainly set forth in holy Scripture.

Saint Paul, in the aforementioned Epistle to the Ephesians, teacheth you thus; Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as unto the Lord. For the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the Church: and he is the Saviour of the body. Therefore as the Church is subject unto Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands in every thing. And again he saith, Let the wife see that she reverence her husband. Ephes. v. 22.

And in his Epistle to the Colossians, Saint Paul giveth you this short lesson; Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as it is fit in the Lord. Col. iii. 18.

Saint Peter also doth instruct you very well, thus saying; Ye wives, be in subjection to your own husbands; that, if any obey not the Word, they also may without the Word be won by the conversation of the wives; while they behold your chaste conversation coupled with fear. Whose adorning, let it not be that outward adorning of plaiting the hair, and of wearing of gold, or of putting on of apparel; but let it be the hidden man of the heart, in that which is not corruptible; even the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price. For after this manner in the old time the holy women also, who trusted in God, adorned themselves, being in subjection unto their own husbands; even as Sarah obeyed Abraham, calling him lord; whose daughters ye are as long as ye do well, and are not afraid with any amazement. 1 S. Pet. iii. 1.

¶ It is convenient that the new-married persons should receive the holy Communion at the time of their Marriage, or at the first opportunity after their Marriage.

And for what cause soever this sickness is¹ sent unto you; whether it be to try your patience for the example of others, and that your faith may be found, in the day of the Lord, laudable, glorious, and honourable, to the increase of glory and endless felicity; or else it be sent unto you to correct and amend in you whatsoever doth offend the eyes of your heavenly Father; know you certainly, that if you truly repent you of your sins, and bear your sickness patiently, trusting in God's mercy for his dear Son Jesus Christ's sake, and render unto him humble thanks for his Fatherly visitation, submitting yourself wholly unto his will, it shall turn to your profit, and help you forward in the right way that leadeth unto everlasting life.

If ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as with sons; For what son is he whom the Father³ chasteneth not? But if ye be without chastisement, whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards, and not sons. Furthermore, we have had fathers of our flesh, which corrected us, and we gave them reverence: Shall we not much rather be in subjection unto the Father of spirits, and live? For they verily for a few days chastened us after their own pleasure; but he for our profit, that we might be partakers of his holiness. These words, good brother, are written in holy Scripture for our comfort and instruction; that we should patiently, and with thanksgiving, bear our heavenly Father's correction, whensoever, by any manner of adversity, it shall please his gracious goodness to visit us. And there should be no greater comfort to Christian persons, than to be made like unto Christ, by suffering patiently adversities, troubles, and sicknesses. For he himself went not up to joy, but first he suffered pain; He entered not into his glory before he was crucified. So truly our way to eternal joy is to suffer here with Christ; and our door to enter into eternal life is gladly to die with Christ; that we may rise again from death, and dwell with him in everlasting life. And he shall redeem Israel from all his sins.

O SAVIOUR of the world, who by thy Cross and precious Blood hast redeemed us; Save us, and help us, we humbly beseech thee, O Lord.

[Prop. Bk. 1786]

Be thou my strong hold, whereunto I may always resort: thou hast promised to help me, for thou art my house of defence, and my castle.

Deliver me, O my God, out of the hand of the ungodly: out of hand of the unrighteous and cruel man.

For thou, O Lord God, art the thing that I long for: thou art my hope, even from my youth.

Through thee have I been holden up ever since I was born: thou art he that took me out of my mother's womb; my praise shall always be of thee.

I am become as it were a monster unto many: but my sure trust is in thee.

O let my mouth be filled with thy praise: that I may sing of thy glory and honour all the day long.

Cast me not away in the time of age: forsake me not when my strength faileth me.

For mine enemies speak against me, and they that lay wait for my soul take their counsel together, saying: God hath forsaken him; persecute him, and take him, for there is none to deliver him.

Go not far from me, O God: my God, haste thee to help me.

Let them be confounded and perish that are against my soul: let them be covered with shame and dishonour that seek to do me evil.

As for me, I will patiently abide always: and will praise thee more and more.

My mouth shall daily speak of thy righteousness and salvation: for I know no end thereof.

I will go forth in the strength of the Lord God: and will make mention of thy righteousness only.

Thou, O God, hast taught me from my youth up until now: therefore will I tell of thy wondrous works.

Forsake me not, O God, in mine old age, when I am gray-headed: until I have shewed thy strength unto this generation, and thy power to all them that are yet for to come.

Thy righteousness, O God, is very high: and great things are they that thou hast done; O God, who is like unto thee?

Glory be to the Father, etc.....As it was in the beginning, etc.

whose soul is full of trouble.

O merciful God, who hast written thy holy Word for our learning, that we, through patience and comfort of thy holy Scriptures, might have hope; give him a right understanding of himself, and of thy threats and promises; that he may neither cast away his confidence in thee, nor place it any where but in thee. Give him strength against all his temptations, and heal all his distempers. Break not the bruised reed, nor quench the smoking flax. Shut not up thy tender mercies in displeasure; but make him to hear of joy and gladness, that the bones which thou hast broken may rejoice. Deliver him from fear of the enemy, and lift up the light of thy countenance upon him, and give him peace, through the merits and mediation of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A Prayer which may be said by the Minister in behalf of all present at the Visitation.

O GOD, whose days are without end, and whose mercies cannot be numbered; Make us, we beseech thee, deeply sensible of the shortness and uncertainty of human life; and let thy Holy Spirit lead us through this vale of misery, in holiness and righteousness, all the days of our lives: That, when we shall have served thee in our generation, we may be gathered unto our fathers, having the testimony of a good conscience; in the communion of the Catholic Church; in the confidence of a certain faith; in the comfort of a reasonable, religious, and holy hope; in favour with thee our God, and in perfect charity with the world: All which we ask through Jesus Christ our Lord. *Amen.*¹

A Prayer which may be said in case of sudden surprise and immediate danger.

O MOST gracious Father, we fly unto thee for mercy in behalf of this thy servant, here lying under the sudden visitation of thine hand. If it be thy will, preserve his life, that there may be place for repentance; But if thou hast otherwise appointed, let thy mercy supply to him the want of the usual opportunity for the trimming of his lamp. Stir up in him such sorrow for sin, and such fervent love to thee, as may in a short time do the work of many days: That among the praises which thy Saints and holy Angels shall sing to the honour of thy mercy through eternal ages, it may be to thy unspeakable glory, that thou hast redeemed the soul of this thy servant from eternal death, and made him partaker of the everlasting life, which is through Jesus Christ our Lord. *Amen.*²

A Thanksgiving for the beginning of a Recovery.

GREAT and mighty God, who bringest down to the grave, and bringest up again; we bless thy wonderful goodness, for having turned our heaviness into joy and our mourning into gladness, by restoring this our brother to some degree of his former health. Blessed be thy Name that thou didst not forsake him in his sickness; but didst visit him with comforts from above; didst support him in patience and submission to thy will; and, at last, didst send him seasonable relief. Perfect, we beseech thee, this thy mercy towards him; and prosper the means which shall be made use of for his cure: That being restored to health of body, vigour of mind, and cheerfulness of spirit, he may be able to go to thine House, to offer thee an oblation with great gladness; and to bless thy holy Name for all thy goodness towards him; through Jesus Christ our Saviour: To whom, with thee and the Holy Spirit, be all honour and glory, world without end. Amen.

nor our former follies provoke thy eternal anger, nor the calamities of this world vex us into tediousness of spirit and impatience: but let thy Holy Spirit lead us through this vale of misery with safety and peace with holiness and religion, with spiritual comforts and joy in the Holy Ghost; that when we have served thee in our generations, we may be gathered unto our fathers, having the testimony of a holy conscience, in the communion of the Catholic Church, in the confidence of a certain faith and the comforts of a reasonable, religious, and holy hope, and perfect charity with thee our God and all the world, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any creature, may be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord. Amen." (Jeremy Taylor's Holy Dying, chap. v. sect. 7.)

² "A Prayer to be said in the case of a sudden surprise by Death, as by a mortal wound, or evil accidents in childbirth, when the forms and solemnities of preparation cannot be used.

"O MOST gracious Father, Lord of heaven and earth, Judge of the living and the dead, behold thy servants running to thee for pity and mercy in behalf of ourselves and this thy servant whom thou hast smitten with thy hasty rod, and a swift angel; if it be thy will, preserve his life, that there may be place for his repentance and restitution. O spare him a little, that he may recover his strength before he go hence and be no more seen. But if thou hast otherwise decreed, let the miracles of thy compassion and thy wonderful mercy supply to him the want of the usual measures of time, and the periods of repentance, and the trimming of his lamp; and let the greatness of the calamity be accepted by thee as an instrument to procure pardon for those defects and degrees of unreadiness which may have caused this accident upon thy servant. Lord stir up in him a great and effectual contrition; that the greatness of the sorrow and hatred against sin, and the zeal of his love to thee, may in a short time do the work of many days. And thou who regardest the heart and the measures of the mind more than the delay and the measures of time let it be thy pleasure to rescue the soul of thy servant from all the evils he hath deserved, and all the evils that he fears: that in the glorifications of eternity, and the songs which to eternal ages thy saints and holy angels shall sing to the honour of thy mighty name and invaluable mercies, it may be reckoned among thy glories that thou has redeemed this soul from the dangers of an eternal death, and made him partaker of the Gift of God, eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen." (Ibid.)

THE COMMUNION OF THE SICK.

¶ Forasmuch as all mortal men are subject to many sudden perils, diseases, and sicknesses, and ever uncertain what time they shall depart out of this life; therefore, to the intent they may be always in readiness to die, whensoever it shall please Almighty God to call them, the Ministers shall diligently from time to time (but especially in the time of pestilence, or other infectious sickness) exhort their Parishioners to the often receiving of the Holy Communion of the Body and Blood of our Saviour Christ, when it shall be publicly administered in the Church; that so doing, they may, in case of sudden visitation, have the less cause to be disquieted for lack of the same. But if the sick Person be not able to come to the Church, and yet is desirous to receive the Communion in his house; then he must give timely notice to the Minister, signifying also how many there are to communicate with him, (which shall be two at the least;) and all things necessary being prepared, the Minister shall there celebrate the Holy Communion, beginning with the Collect, Epistle, and Gospel, here following:

FORASMUCH as it hath pleased Almighty God of his great mercy to take unto himself the soul of our dear brother here departed, we therefore commit his body to the ground; earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust; in sure and certain hope of the Resurrection to eternal life, through our Lord Jesus Christ; who shall change our vile body, that it may be like unto his glorious body, according to the mighty working, whereby he is able to subdue all things to himself.

OMERCIFUL God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who is the resurrection and the life; in whom whosoever believeth shall live, though he die; and whosoever liveth, and believeth in him, shall not die eternally; who also hath taught us, by his holy Apostle Saint Paul, not to be sorry, as men without hope, for those who sleep in him; we humbly beseech thee, O Father, to raise us from the death of sin unto the life of righteousness; that, when we shall depart this life, we may rest in him; and that, at the general resurrection in the last day, we may be found acceptable in thy sight; and receive that blessing, which thy well-beloved Son shall then pronounce to all who love and fear thee, saying, Come, ye blessed children of my Father, receive the kingdom prepared for you from the beginning of the world. ALMIGHTY God, with whom do live the spirits of them that depart hence in the Lord; and with whom the souls of the faithful, after they are delivered from the burden of the flesh, are in joy and felicity; We give thee hearty thanks, for that it hath pleased thee to deliver this our brother out of the miseries of this sinful world; beseeching thee, that it may please thee, of thy gracious goodness, shortly to accomplish the number of thine elect, and to hasten thy kingdom; that we, with all those that are departed in the true faith of thy holy Name, may have our perfect consummation and bliss, both in body and soul, in thy eternal and everlasting glory; through Jesus Christ our Lord. The Collect.

O MERCIFUL God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who is the resurrection and the life; in whom whosoever believeth shall live, though he die; and whosoever liveth, and believeth in him, shall not die eternally; who also hath taught us (by his holy Apostle Saint Paul) not to be sorry, as men without hope, for them that² sleep in him; We meekly³ beseech thee, O Father, to raise us from the death of sin unto the life of righteousness; that, when we shall depart this life, we may rest in him, as our hope is this our brother doth;⁴ and that, at the general Resurrection in the last day, we may be found acceptable in thy sight; and receive that blessing, which thy well-beloved Son shall then pronounce to all that⁵ love and fear thee, saying, Come, ye blessed children of my Father, receive the kingdom prepared for you from the beginning of the world: Grant this, we beseech thee, O merciful Father, through Jesus Christ, our Mediator and Redeemer. O LORD Jesus Christ, who by thy death didst take away the sting of death; Grant unto us thy servants so to follow in faith where thou hast led the way, that we may at length fall asleep peacefully in thee, and awake up after thy likeness; through thy mercy, who livest with the Father and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end. *Amen.*²

ALMIGHTY and everliving God, we yield unto thee most high praise and hearty thanks, for the wonderful grace and virtue declared in all thy saints, who have been the choice vessels of thy grace, and the lights of the world in their several generations; most humbly beseeching thee to give us grace so to follow the example of their steadfastness in thy faith, and obedience to thy holy commandments, that at the day of the general Resurrection, we with all those who are of the mystical body of thy Son, may be set on his right hand, and hear that his most joyful voice: Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. ¹ This prayer as proposed in the Convention of 1883 read thus : " Most merciful Father, who hast hastened to take this child's soul unto thyself ; Grant to us who are still in our pilgrimage, and who walk as yet by faith, that having served thee with constancy on earth, we may be joined hereafter with thy blessed children in glory everlasting ; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen." Compare the first part of this with the following from the Office for the Burial of Children in the Priest's Prayer Book, 6th ed., p. 249 : " O God, who hast hastened to take to thyself the soul of this happy child, dear unto thee ; grant to us who are still in our pilgrimage and who walk as yet by faith," etc. And compare the latter part with the following conclusion of another collect on the same page of that book : " Grant, we beseech thee, that we may serve thee here with pure minds, and be joined for evermore in Paradise with thy blessed children, through," etc. The collect, of which this conclusion is a part, is a free translation of a prayer in the Ordo Sepeliendi Parvulos of the Rituale Romanum.

² This collect as proposed by the Committee to the Convention of 1883 read after the words, " peacefully in thee," as follows : " and awaking up after thy likeness find ourselves satisfied with it ; through thy mercy," etc. After " who livest " has been omitted by an evident oversight " and reignest." Among the Prayers for the Sick in the Priest's Prayer Book (p. 147) we have the following :—

"For a Happy Death.

○ Lord Jesu Christ, who by thy death didst take away the sting of death ; grant unto us thy servants so to follow in faith where thou hast led the way, that we may at length fall asleep peacefully in thee, and awaking up after thy likeness, may be satisfied with it. Through thy mercy. Who livest."

³ This prayer comes from the Scotch Liturgy of 1637, commonly called Laud's Book, where it forms part of the prayer for Christ's Church militant, the words " we, with all those who are " being substituted for the words, " we, and all they which are." It is also found in Bp. Seabury's Office and in the present Scotch Office.

O come hither, and behold the works of God; how wonderful he is in his doing toward the children of men!

He ruleth with his power for ever; his eyes behold the people: and such as will not believe shall not be able to exalt themselves.

O praise our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard;

Who holdeth our soul in life; and suffereth not our feet to slip.

For thou, O God, hast proved us; thou also hast tried us, like as silver is tried.

Thou broughtest us into the snare: and laidest trouble upon our loins.

I will go into thine house with burnt-offerings; and will pay thee my vows, which I promised with my lips, and spake with my mouth, when I was in trouble.

O come hither, and hearken, all ye that fear God; and I will tell you what he hath done for my soul.

I called unto him with my mouth, and gave him praises with my tongue.

If I incline unto wickedness with mine heart, the Lord will not hear me.

But God hath heard me; and considered the voice of my prayer.

Praised be God, who hath not cast out my prayer, nor turned his mercy from me.

They went astray in the wilderness out of the way : and found no city to dwell in ;

Hungry and thirsty : their soul fainted in them.

So they cried unto the Lord in their trouble : and he delivered them from their distress.

He led them forth by the right way : that they might go to the city where they dwelt.

O that men would therefore praise the Lord for his goodness : and declare the wonders that he doeth for the children of men !

For he satisfieth the empty soul : and filleth the hungry soul with goodness.

Such as sit in darkness, and in the shadow of death : being fast bound in misery and iron ;

Because they rebelled against the words of the Lord : and lightly regarded the counsel of the most Highest ;

He also brought down their heart through heaviness : they fell down, and there was none to help them.

So when they cried unto the Lord in their trouble : he delivered them out of their distress.

For he brought them out of darkness, and out of the shadow of death : and brake their bonds in sunder.

O that men would therefore praise the Lord for his goodness : and declare the wonders that he doeth for the children of men !

For he hath broken the gates of brass : and smitten the bars of iron in sunder.

Foolish men are plagued for their offence : and because of their wickedness.

They that go down to the sea in ships, and occupy their business in great waters;

These men see the works of the Lord, and his wonders in the deep.

For at his word the stormy wind ariseth, which lifeth up the waves thereof.

They are carried up to the heaven, and down again to the deep; their soul melteth away because of the trouble.

They reel to and fro, and stagger like a drunken man, and are at their wits end.

So when they cry unto the LORD in their trouble, he delivereth them out of their distress.

For he maketh the storm to cease, so that the waves thereof are still.

Then they are glad, because they are at rest; and so he bringeth them unto the haven where they would be.

had well-nigh gone over our soul.

GRANT, we beseech thee, Almighty God, that we, who for our evil deeds do worthily deserve to be punished, by the comfort of thy grace may mercifully be relieved ; through our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

O GOD, who sparest when we deserve punishment, and in thy wrath rememberest mercy, we humbly beseech thee, of thy goodness to comfort and succour all those who are under reproach and misery in the house of bondage ; correct them not in thine anger, neither chasten them in thy sore displeasure ; give them a right understanding of themselves, and of thy threats and promises ; that they may neither cast away their confidence in thee, nor place it any where but in thee ; relieve the distressed, protect the innocent, and awaken the guilty ; and forasmuch as thou alone bringest light out of darkness, and good out of evil, grant that the pains and punishments which these thy servants endure, through their bodily confinement, may tend to the setting free their souls from the chains of sin, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

[Ed. 1790, Sds. 1793-1871]

¶ Here the Minister, as he shall see convenient, may read the Prayer for All Conditions of Men, the Collect for Ash-Wednesday, and the Collect beginning Almighty God, the fountain of all wisdom, &c., or any other prayer of the Liturgy, which he shall judge proper.

¶ Then shall the Minister exhort the Prisoner or Prisoners after this Form, or other like :

DEARLY beloved, know this, that Almighty God, whose never-failing providence governeth all things both in heaven and earth, hath so wisely and mercifully ordered the course of this world, that his judgments are often sent as fatherly corrections to us; and if with due submission and resignation to his holy will we receive the same, they will work together for our good.

It is your part and duty, therefore, to humble yourself under the mighty hand of God, to acknowledge the righteousness of his judgments, and to endeavour that, by his grace, this present visitation¹ may lead you to a sincere and hearty repentance.

The way and means thereto is, to examine your life and conversation by the rule of God's commandments; and whereinsoever you shall perceive yourself to have offended either by will, word, or deed, there to bewail your own sinfulness, and to confess yourself to Almighty God, with full purpose of amendment of life. And if you shall perceive your offences to be such as are not only against God, but also against your neighbours; then to reconcile yourself to them, being ready to make restitution and satisfaction, according to the uttermost of your power, for all injuries and wrongs done by you to any other: and being likewise ready to forgive others who have offended you, as you would have forgiveness of your offences at God's hand. And to this true repentance and change of mind you must add a lively and steadfast faith, and dependence upon the merits of the death of Christ, with an entire resignation of yourself to the will of God. Except you repent, and believe, we can give you no hope of salvation. But if you do sincerely repent and believe, God hath declared, though your sins be as red as scarlet, they shall be made white as snow; though your wickednesses have gone over your head, yet shall they not be your destruction.

We exhort you therefore in the Name of God, and of his dear Son Jesus Christ our Saviour, and as you tender your own salvation, to take good heed of these things in time, while the day of salvation lasteth; for the night cometh, when no man can work. While you have the light, believe in the light, and walk as children of the light, that you be not cast into outer darkness; that you may not knock, when the door shall be shut; and cry for mercy, when it is the time of justice. Now, you are the object of God's mercy, if by repentance and true Prayers for Persons under Sentence of Death.

¶ When a Criminal is under Sentence of Death, the Minister shall proceed, immediately after the Collect, O God, who sparest, &c., to exhort him after this Form, or other like.

DEARLY beloved, it hath pleased Almighty God, in his justice, to bring you under the sentence and condemnation of the law: You are shortly to suffer death in such a manner, that others, warned by your example, may be the more afraid to offend; and we pray God, that you may make such use of your punishments in this world, that your soul may be saved in the world to come.

Wherefore we come to you in the bowels of compassion; and, being desirous that you should avoid presumption on the one hand, and despair on the other, shall plainly lay before you the wretchedness of your condition, and declare how far you ought to depend on the mercies of God, and the merits of our Saviour. Consider then seriously with yourself, in all appearance the time of your dissolution draweth near; your sins have laid fast hold upon you; you are soon to be removed from among men by a violent death; and you shall fade away suddenly like the grass, which in the morning is green and groweth up, but in the evening is cut down, dried up, and withered. After you have thus finished the course of a sinful and miserable life, you shall appear before the Judge of all flesh; who, as he pronounces blessings on the righteous, shall likewise say, with a terrible voice of most just judgment, to the wicked, Go, ye accursed, into the fire everlasting, prepared for the devil and his angels.

Your sins have brought you too near this dreadful sentence: it is therefore your part and duty, my brother, humbly to confess and bewail your great and manifold offences, and to repent you truly of your sins, as you tender the eternal salvation of your soul.

Be not deceived with a vain and presumptuous expectation of God's favour, nor say within yourself, Peace, Peace, where there is no peace; for there is no peace, saith my God, to the wicked. God is not mocked; he is of purer eyes than to behold iniquity; and without holiness no man shall see the Lord. On the other hand, despair not of God's mercy, though trouble is on every side; for God shutteth not up his mercies for ever in displeasure: but if we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. Do not either way abuse the goodness of God, who calleth us mercifully to amendment, and of his endless pity promiseth us forgiveness of that which is past, if with a perfect and a true heart we return unto him.

Since therefore you are soon to pass into an endless and unchangeable state, and your future happiness or misery depends upon the few moments which are left you, I require you strictly to examine yourself, and your estate both towards God and towards man; and let no worldly consideration hinder you from making a true and full confession of your sins, and giving all the satisfaction which is in your power to every one whom you have wronged or injured; that you may find mercy at your heavenly Father's hand, for Christ's sake, and not be condemned in the dreadful day of judgment.

Lastly, beloved, submit yourself with Christian resignation to the just judgment of God, which your own crimes have brought upon you, and be in charity with all men; being ready sincerely to forgive all such as have offended you, not excepting those who have prosecuted you even unto death: and, though this may seem a hard saying, yet know assuredly, that without it your charity is not yet perfect. ¶ The first Lesson shall be, Deut. 8; and the second Lesson shall be, Thess.^s 5. 12 to 24.

¶ A thanksgiving for the day, to be said after the general thanksgiving.

O GOD, whose Name is excellent in all the earth, and thy glory above the heavens; who as on this day didst inspire and direct the hearts of our delegates in Congress, to lay the perpetual foundations of peace, liberty, and safety; we bless and adore thy glorious Majesty, for this thy loving kindness and providence. And we humbly pray that the devout sense of this signal mercy may renew and increase in us a spirit of love and thankfulness to thee its only author, a spirit of peaceable submission to the laws and government of our country, and a spirit of fervent zeal for our holy religion, which thou hast preserved and secured to us and our posterity. May we improve these inestimable blessings for the advancement of religion, liberty, and science throughout this land, till the wilderness and solitary place be glad through us, and the desert rejoice and blossom as the rose. This we beg through the merits of Jesus Christ our Saviour. *Amen.*⁴

¶ The Collect: to be used instead of that for the Day.

ALMIGHTY God, who hast in all ages shewed forth thy power and mercy in the wonderful preservation of thy church, and in the protection of every nation and people professing thy holy and eternal Truth, and putting their sure trust in thee; We yield thee our unfeigned thanks and praise for all thy public mercies, and more especially for that signal and wonderful manifestation of thy providence which we commemorate this day; Wherefore not unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto thy Name be ascribed all honour and glory, in all churches of the Saints, from generation to generation, through Jesus Christ our Lord. *Amen.*⁴

¶ Instead of, O come, let us sing, &c., the following shall be said or sung:

O PRAISE the LORD, for it is a good thing to sing praises unto our God: yea, a joyful and pleasant thing it is to be thankful.

The LORD doth build up Jerusalem: and gather together the outcasts of Israel.

He healeth those that are broken in heart: and giveth medicine to heal their sickness.

O sing unto the LORD with thanksgiving: sing praises upon the harp unto our God:

PRAISE ye the LORD: for it is good to sing praises unto our God; for it is pleasant, and praise is comely.

The LORD doth build up Jerusalem: he gathereth together the out-casts of Israel.

He healeth those that are broken in heart, and bindeth up their wounds.

[Prop. Bk. 1786]

⁶ Portions of Psalms, to be sung or said, at Morning Prayer, on certain Feasts and Fasts, instead of the Venite Exultemus, when any of the foregoing Selections are to follow instead of the Psalms, as in the table.

[Note, That in all future editions, the following portions of Psalms are to be inserted immediately before the Collects of the days for which they are respectively appointed: And in the Rubrick before the Psalm: "O come let us sing," &c., instead of these words "Easter-day upon which another Anthem is appointed," the following words are to be inserted, "such days for which it is otherwise ordered."]⁷

⁶ There is of course nothing in the Eng. Bk. corresponding to these Anthems. They first appeared in the Prop. Bk. where they occur after the Psalter, from whence they passed into the Prayer Book in 1789, being placed after the Selections. They were removed from the Prayer Book by the action of the Convs. of '89 and '92.

[Ed. 1790, Sds. 1793-1871]

[Prop. Bk. 1786]

CHRISTMAS-DAY.

¶ At Morning Prayer, instead of the Psalm, "O come let us sing," etc., the following shall be said or sung.

From Psalms xlv. lxxxix. cx.

THY seat, O God, endureth forever;¹ the sceptre of thy kingdom is a right sceptre.

Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity; wherefore God, even thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows.

My song shall be alway of the loving-kindness of the LORD; with my mouth will I ever be showing thy truth from one generation to another.

For I have said, Mercy shall be set up forever; thy truth shalt thou establish in the heavens.

The LORD is our defence; the Holy One of Israel is our King.

Thou spaketh sometime in visions unto thy saints, and saidst, I have laid help upon One that is mighty, I have exalted One chosen out of the people.

I will set his dominion in the sea, and his right hand in the floods.

And I will make him my First-born, higher than the kings of the earth.

The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool.

The LORD shall send the rod of thy power out of Sion; be thou ruler, even in the midst among thine enemies.

In the day of thy power shall the people offer thee free-will offerings with an holy worship: the dew of thy birth is of the womb of the morning.

The LORD sware, and will not repent, Thou art a Priest for ever, after the order of Melchizedech.

ASH-WEDNESDAY.

¶ At Morning Prayer, instead of the Psalm, "O come let us sing," etc., the following shall be said or sung.

From Psalms xxxii. xxxviii. cxxx.

BLESSED is he whose unrighteousness is forgiven, and whose sin is covered.

¶ Blessed is the man unto whom the LORD imputeth no sin, and in whose spirit there is no guile.

Put me not to rebuke, O LORD, in thine anger; neither chasten me in thy heavy displeasure:

For thine arrows stick fast in me, and thy hand presseth me sore.

My wickednesses are gone over my head, and are like a sore burden, too heavy for me to bear.

I will confess my wickedness, and be sorry for my sin.

Haste thee to help me, O Lord God of my salvation.

[Prop. Bk. 1786]

Out of the depth have I called unto thee, O LORD; Lord, hear my voice.

Let thine ears be attentive to the voice of my supplications.

If thou, LORD, shouldest be extreme to mark what is done amiss,
O Lord, who shall stand?

But there is forgiveness with thee, that thou mayest be feared.

GOOD-FRIDAY.

From Psalms xxii. lxix. xl.

MY God! my God! look upon me; why hast thou forsaken me?
and art so far from my health, and from the words of my complaint?

But thou art holy, O Thou that inhabitest the praises of Israel.

I am a worm, and no man; a reproach of men, and despised of the people.

All they that see me laugh me to scorn: they shoot out the lip, they shake the head, saying,

He trusted in GOD, that he would deliver him; let him deliver him, if he will have him.

The council of the wicked layeth siege against me; they pierced my hands and my feet.

They part my garments among them, and cast lots upon my vesture.

But be not thou far from me, O LORD: O my strength, haste thee to help me.

Thy rebuke hath broken my heart; I am full of heaviness: I looked for some to have pity on me, but there was no man, neither found I any to comfort me.

They gave me gall to eat; and when I was thirsty they gave me vinegar to drink.

Sacrifice and meat-offering thou wouldest not, but mine ears hast thou opened.

Burnt-offerings and sacrifice for sin hast thou not required: then said I, Lo, I come;

In the volume of the book it is written of me, that I should fulfil thy will, O my God: I am content to do it; yea, thy law is within my heart.

ASCENSION-DAY.

From Psalms xxiv. xlvii.

LIFT up your heads, O ye gates; and be ye lift up, ye everlasting doors; and the King of glory shall come in.

Who is the King of glory? the LORD strong and mighty; even the LORD mighty in battle.

Lift up your heads, O ye gates; and be ye lift up, ye everlasting doors; and the King of glory shall come in.

Who is the King of glory? Even the LORD of hosts, he is the King of glory.

O clap your hands together, all ye people; shout unto God with the voice of triumph.

[Ed. 1790, Sds. 1793-1871]

[Prop. Bk. 1786]

For the LORD most high is terrible; he is a great King over all the earth. God is gone up with a shout; the LORD with the sound of a trumpet. Sing praises to God, sing praises: sing praises unto our King, sing praises.

God reigneth over the heathen: God sitteth upon the throne of his holiness.

The princes of the people are gathered together, even the people of the God of Abraham; for the shields of the earth belong unto God: he is greatly exalted.

WHITSUNDAY.

From Psalms ii. lxviii.

I WILL declare the decree: The LORD hath said unto me, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee.

Desire of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the utmost parts of the earth for thy possession.

Be wise now, therefore, O ye kings; be instructed, ye judges of the earth.

Serve the LORD with fear, and rejoice with trembling.

Sing unto God, sing praises to his Name: extol him that rideth upon the heavens by his name JAH, and rejoice before him.

Thou, O God, sentest a gracious rain upon thine inheritance, and refreshedst it when it was weary.

The Lord gave the word; great was the company of those that published it.

Though ye have lain among the pots; yet shall ye be as the wings of a dove covered with silver, and her feathers with yellow gold.

Thou hast ascended on high; thou hast led captivity captive; thou has received gifts for men; yea, for the rebellious also, that the LORD God might dwell among them.

Bless the Lord, who daily loadeth us with benefits; even the God of our salvation.

Sing unto God, ye kingdoms of the earth: O sing praises unto the Lord;

To him that rideth upon the heaven of heavens, which were of old: lo, he doth send out his voice, and that a mighty voice.

Ascribe ye strength unto God: his excellency is over Israel, and his strength is in the clouds.

O God, thou art terrible out of thy holy places; the God of Israel is he that giveth strength and power unto his people. Blessed be God.

¹ Here in the Prop. Bk. follow the Anthems which on certain days were to be sung instead of Venite, and which in this present work are for the sake of comparison placed just before the Psalter. After these Anthems the Prop. Bk. has a collection of metrical Psalms, with the following caption: "¶ PSALMS fitted to the tunes used in Churches from the Psalms of DAVID; portions of which are to be sung at suitable Times in Divine Service, according to the Discretion of the Minister." These are followed by metrical renderings of the Gloria Patri with this caption: "¶ GLORY BE TO THE FATHER, etc., according to the different metres which follow; to be used after any of the foregoing Psalms." Next come "¶ HYMNS suited to the Feasts and Fasts of the CHURCH, and other occasions of public worship; to be used at the Discretion of the Minister." There are fifty-one of these hymns. After the last hymn there is printed: "End of the PRAYER-BOOK."

BISHOPS, PRIESTS, AND DEACONS;

THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

THE PREFACE.

[I]t is evident unto all men, diligently reading Holy Scripture and ancient Authors, that from the Apostles' time there have been these Orders of Ministers in Christ's Church,—Bishops, Priests, and Deacons. Which Offices were evermore had in such reverend Estimation, that no man might presume to execute any of them, except he were first called, tried, examined, and known to have such qualities as are requisite for the same; and also by public Prayer, with Imposition of Hands, were approved and admitted thereunto by lawful Authority. And therefore, to the intent that these Orders may be continued, and reverently used and esteemed in this Church,⁴ no man shall be accounted or taken to be a lawful Bishop, Priest, or Deacon, in this Church,⁴ or suffered to execute any of the said Functions, except he be called, tried, examined, and admitted thereunto, according to the Form hereafter following, or hath had⁵ Episcopal Consecration or Ordination.

And none shall be admitted a Deacon, Priest, or Bishop, except he be of the age which the Canon in that case provided may require.

And the Bishop, knowing either by himself, or by sufficient testimony, any Person to be a man of virtuous conversation, and without crime; and, after examination and trial, finding him sufficiently

And none shall be admitted a Deacon, except he be Twenty-three years of age, unless he have a faculty. And every man which is to be admitted a Priest shall be full Four-and-twenty years old. And every man which is to be ordained or consecrated Bishop shall be fully Thirty years of age.

And the Bishop, knowing either

¹ The Offices of Ordinations were not in the Prop. Bk., and did not appear in the first Edition of the American Book, nor in the Standard Prayer Book of 1793, but in the quarto-edition of the Book of Offices of 1793.

² CONSECRATING OF [Eng. Bk.]

³ This much forms the title page of the editio princeps of the Forms of Ordination; the words, "AS ESTABLISHED.....A. D. 1792," were added afterward. At the foot of this page we read, "NEW-YORK: | Printed by HUGH GAINÉ, at his Book-Store and Printing Office, in Hanover-Square. | M.DCC.XCIII." | The second page is blank, the Preface occupies the whole of the third page, and the Form for the Ordination of Deacons begins on the fifth page. The Form for the Ordination of Priests, and the Form for the Consecration of Bishops are each made to begin a new page on the right-hand side. This 4to edition of the Book of Offices was established as the Standard by Canon I. of 1801.

MAKING¹ DEACONS.

¶ When the day appointed by the Bishop is come, after Morning Prayer is ended, there shall be a Sermon, or Exhortation, declaring the Duty and Office of such as come to be admitted Deacons; how necessary that Order is in the Church of Christ, and also, how the People ought to esteem them in their Office.

¶ A Priest shall² present unto the Bishop, sitting in his chair near to the Holy Table, such as desire to be ordained Deacons, each of them being decently habited, saying these words, EVEREND Father in God, I present unto you these persons present, to be admitted Deacons.

¶ The Bishop.

TAKE heed that the persons, whom ye present unto us, be apt and meet, for their learning and godly conversation, to exercise their Ministry duly, to the honour of God, and the edifying of his Church.

¶ *The Priest shall answer:*³

I HAVE inquired concerning them,⁴ and also examined them, and think them so to be.

¶ Then the Bishop shall say unto the People:

BRETHREN, if there be any of you who knoweth any Impediment, or notable Crime, in any of these persons presented to be ordered Deacons, for the which he ought not to be admitted to that office, let him come forth in the Name of God, and show what the Crime or Impediment is.

Acts vi. 2.

THEN the twelve called the multitude.....were obedient to the faith.

¶ And before the Gospel, the Bishop sitting in his Chair, shall cause the Oath of the King's Supremacy, and against the Power and Authority of all foreign Potentates, to be ministered unto every of them that are to be Ordered.

The Oath of the King's Supremacy.

I A. B. do swear, that I do from my heart abhor, detest, and abjure, as impious and heretical, that damnable doctrine and position, That Princes excommunicated or deprived by the Pope, or any Authority of the See of Rome, may be deposed or murdered by their Subjects, or any other whatsoever. And I do declare, that no foreign Prince, Person, Prelate, State, or Potentate hath, or ought to have any jurisdiction, power, superiority, pre-eminence, or authority, Ecclesiastical or Spiritual, within this Realm. So help me God.

¶ Then shall the Bishop examine every one of those who² are to be Ordered, in the presence of the People, after this manner following.

DO you trust that you are inwardly moved by the Holy Ghost to take upon you this Office and Ministration, to serve God for the promoting of his glory, and the edifying of his people?

Answer. I trust so.

The Bishop.

DO you think that you are truly called, according to the will of our Lord Jesus Christ, and according to the Canons of this Church, to the Ministry of the same?

DO you think that you are truly called, according to the will of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the due order of this Realm, to the Ministry of the Church?

Answer. I do believe them.

The Bishop.

WILL you diligently read the same unto the people assembled in the Church where you shall be appointed to serve?

Answer. I will.

The Bishop.

IT appertaineth to the Office of a Deacon, in the Church where he shall be appointed to serve, to assist the Priest in Divine Service, and specially when he ministereth the Holy Communion, and to help him in the distribution thereof; and to read Holy Scriptures and Homilies in the Church; and to instruct the youth in the Catechism; in the absence of the Priest to baptize infants; and to preach, if he be admitted thereto by the Bishop. And furthermore, it is his Office, where provision is so made, to search for the sick, poor, and impotent people of the Parish, to intimate their estates, names, and places where they dwell, unto the Curate, that by his exhortation they may be relieved with the alms of the Parishioners, or others. Will you do this gladly and willingly?

Answer. I will do so, by the help of God.

The Bishop.

WILL you apply all your diligence to frame and fashion your own lives, and the lives of your families, according to the Doctrine of Christ; and to make both yourselves and them, as much as in you lieth, wholesome examples of the flock of Christ?

Answer. I will so do, the Lord being my helper.

The Bishop.

WILL you reverently obey your Bishop, and other chief Ministers, who, according to the Canons of the Church, may have the charge and government over you; following with a glad mind and will their godly admonitions?

Answer. I will endeavour so to do, the Lord being my helper.

Answer. I will endeavour myself, the Lord being my helper.

YE have heard, Brethren, as well in your private examination, as in the exhortation which was now made to you, and in the holy Lessons taken out of the Gospel, and the writings of the Apostles, of what dignity, and of how great importance this Office is, whereunto ye are called. And now again we exhort you, in the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye² have in remembrance, into how high a Dignity, and to how weighty an Office and Charge ye are called: that is to say, to be Messengers, Watchmen, and Stewards of the Lord; to teach, and to premonish, to feed and provide for the Lord's family; to seek for Christ's sheep that are dispersed abroad, and for his children who are in the midst of this naughty world, that they may be saved through Christ for ever.

Have always therefore printed in your remembrance, how great a treasure is committed to your charge. For they are the sheep of Christ, which he bought with his death, and for whom he shed his blood. The Church and Congregation whom you must serve, is his Spouse, and his Body. And if it shall happen that the same Church, or any Member thereof, do take any hurt or hindrance by reason of your negligence,

[4to Sd. 1793, Sds. 1822-1892]

ye know the greatness of the fault, and also the horrible punishment that will ensue. Wherefore consider with yourselves the end of the Ministry¹ towards the children of God, towards the Spouse and Body of Christ; and see that ye never cease your labour, your care and diligence, until ye have done all that lieth in you, according to your bounden duty, to bring all such as are or shall be committed to your charge, unto that agreement in the faith and knowledge of God, and to that ripeness and perfectness of age in Christ, that there be no place left among you, either for error in religion, or for viciousness in life.

Forasmuch then as your Office is both of so great excellency, and of so great difficulty, ye see with how great care and study ye ought to apply yourselves, as well to show² yourselves dutiful and thankful unto that Lord, who hath placed you in so high a Dignity; as also to beware that neither you yourselves offend, nor be occasion that others offend. Howbeit ye cannot have a mind and will thereto of yourselves; for that will and ability is given of God alone: therefore ye ought, and have need, to pray earnestly for his Holy Spirit. And seeing that ye cannot by any other means compass the doing of so weighty a work, pertaining to the salvation of man, but with doctrine and exhortation taken out of the Holy Scriptures, and with a life agreeable to the same; consider how studious ye ought to be in reading and learning the Scriptures, and in framing the manners both of yourselves, and of them that specially pertain unto you, according to the rule of the same Scriptures; and for this self-same cause, how ye ought to forsake and set aside, as much as ye may, all worldly cares and studies.

We have good hope that ye have well weighed these things³ with yourselves, long before this time; and that ye have clearly determined, by God's grace, to give yourselves wholly to this Office, whereunto it hath pleased God to call you: so that, as much as lieth in you, ye⁴ will apply yourselves wholly to this one thing, and draw all your cares and studies this way; and that ye⁴ will continually pray to God the Father, by the Mediation of our only Saviour Jesus Christ, for the heavenly assistance of the Holy Ghost; that, by daily reading and weighing the⁵ Scriptures, ye may wax riper and stronger in your Ministry; and that ye may so endeavour yourselves, from time to time, to sanctify the lives of you and yours, and to fashion them after the Rule and Doctrine of Christ, that ye may be wholesome and godly examples and patterns for the people to follow.

And now, that this present Congregation of Christ may⁶ also understand your minds and wills in these things, and that this your promise may the more move you to do your duties; ye shall answer plainly to these things, which we, in the Name of God, and of his Church, shall demand of you touching the same.

DO you think in your heart, that you are truly called, according to the will of our Lord Jesus Christ, and according to the Canons of this Church, to the Order and Ministry of Priesthood?

Answer. I think it.

The Bishop.

ARE you persuaded that the Holy Scriptures contain¹ all Doctrine required as necessary for eternal salvation through faith in Jesus Christ? And are you determined, out of the said Scriptures to instruct the people committed to your charge, and to teach nothing, as necessary to eternal salvation, but that which you shall be persuaded may be concluded and proved by the Scripture?

Answer. I am so persuaded, and have so determined, by God's grace.

The Bishop.

Answer. I will so do, by the help of the Lord.

The Bishop.

WILL you be ready, with all faithful diligence, to banish and drive away from the Church all erroneous³ and strange doctrines contrary to God's Word; and to use both public and private monitions and exhortations, as well to the sick as to the whole, within your Cures, as need shall require, and occasion shall be given?

Answer. I will, the Lord being my helper.

The Bishop.

WILL you be diligent in Prayers, and in reading⁴ the Holy Scriptures, and in such studies as help to the knowledge of the same, laying aside the study of the world and the flesh?

BRETHREN, it is written in the Gospel of Saint Luke, that our Saviour Christ continued the whole night in prayer, before he chose¹ and sent forth his twelve Apostles. It is written also that the holy Apostles prayed before they ordained Matthias to be of the number of the Twelve.

Let us, therefore, following the example of our Saviour Christ, and his Apostles, offer up our prayers to Almighty God, before² we admit and send forth this person presented unto us, to the work whereunto we trust the Holy Ghost hath called him.

A chair is to be set for the Bishop on the North Side of the Communion Table, within the Rails; and another for his Chancellor without the Rails, on the same side.

All things are to be prepared for a Communion. The Church is to be kept shut, and empty, till the Bishop comes, and till it be opened for his going in.

THE FORM OF CONSECRATING A CHURCH.

The Bishop is to be received at the West Door, or at some other Part of the Church, or Church-yard, which is most convenient for his Entrance, by some of the principal Inhabitants.

At the place where the Bishop is received, a Petition is to be delivered to him by some one of the Persons who receive him, praying that he will Consecrate the Church.

The Petition is to be read by the Register. The Bishop, his Chaplains, the Preacher, and the Minister who is to read divine Service, together with the rest of the Clergy, if any other be present, enter the Church, and repair to the Vestry, or (if there be no Vestry) to some convenient Part of the Church,

¶ For the last Collect, immediately before the final Blessing, the Bishop shall say this Prayer.
[1892]

BLESSED be thy Name, O Lord God, for that it please thee to have thy habitation among the sons of men, and to dwell in the midst of the assembly of the saints upon the earth; Grant, we beseech thee, that in this place now set apart to thy service, thy holy Name may be worshipped in truth and purity through all generations; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.²

[Eng. Convocation, 1712]

The Gospel. John 2. v. 13 to v. 18 incl.

Then the Bishop reads the Nicene Creed, after which a Psalm is sung, viz. Ps. 100.

THE SERMON.

The Sermon being ended, and all who do not receive the Holy Communion returned, and the Doors shut; the Bishop proceeds in the Communion Service; and he and the Clergy having made their Oblations, the Churchwardens collect the Offerings of the rest of the Congregation.

After the Communion; and immediately before the final Blessing, the Bishop says the following Prayer.

THE peace of God, which passeth, etc.....remain with you always.
Amen.

¹ These four rubrics in brackets were omitted by the action of the Conventions of 1889 and 1892, and the one following substituted.

² Until 1892 this prayer read after the words, "Saints upon the earth," as follows: "bless, we beseech thee, the religious performance of this day, and grant that in this place," etc., as in the office of 1712.

ARTICLES OF RELIGION.²

AS ESTABLISHED BY THE BISHOPS,
THE CLERGY, AND LAITY OF
THE PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, IN CONVENTION, ON THE TWELFTH DAY OF SEP-TEMBER, IN THE YEAR OF OUR LORD 1801.³

ARTICLES

BY THE ARCHBISHOPS AND BISHOPS OF BOTH PROVINCES, AND THE WHOLE CLERGY,

In the Convocation holden at London in the Year 1562, for the avoiding of Diversities of Opinions, and for the establishing of Consent touching true Religion: Reprinted by His Majesty's Commandment, with His Royal Declaration prefixed thereto.

HIS MAJESTY'S DECLARATION.

BEING by God's Ordinance, according to Our just Title, Defender of the Faith, and Supreme Governor of the Church, within these Our Dominions,
We hold it most agreeable to this Our Kingly Office, and Our own religious Zeal, to conserve and maintain the Church committed to Our Charge, in Unity of true Religion, and in the Bond of Peace; and not to suffer unnecessary Disputations, Altercations, or Questions to be raised, which may nourish Faction both in the Church and Commonwealth. We have therefore, upon mature Deliberation, and with the Advice of so many of Our Bishops as might conveniently be called together, thought fit to make this Declaration following:

That the Articles of the Church of England (which have been allowed and authorized heretofore, and which Our Clergy generally have subscribed unto) do contain the true Doctrine of the Church of England agreeable to God's Word: which We do therefore ratify and confirm, requiring all Our loving Subjects to continue in the uniform Profession thereof and prohibiting the least difference from the said Articles; which to that End We command to be new printed, and this Our Declaration to be published therewith.

That We are Supreme Governor of the Church of England: And that if any Difference arise about the external Policy concerning the Injunctions, Canons, and other Constitutions whatsoever thereto belonging, the Clergy in their Convocation is to order and settle them, having first obtained leave under Our Broad Seal so to do: and We approving their said Ordinances and Constitutions: providing that none be made contrary to the Laws and Customs of the Land.

That out of Our Princely Care that the Churchmen may do the Work which is proper unto them, the Bishops and Clergy, from time to time in Convocation, upon their humble Desire, shall have Licence under Our Broad Seal to deliberate of, and to do all such Things, as, being made plain by them, and assented unto by Us, shall concern the settled Continuance of the Doctrine and Discipline of the Church of England, now established; from which We will not endure any varying or departing in the least Degree.

That for the present, though some differences have been ill raised, yet We take comfort in this, that all Clergymen within Our Realm have always most willingly subscribed to the Articles established; which is an argument to Us, that they all agree in the true, usual, literal meaning of the said Articles;

I. Of Faith in the Holy Trinity.

THERE is but one living, true, and Eternal God, the Father Almighty; without body, parts or passions; of infinite Power, Wisdom, and Goodness, the Maker and preserver of all things both visible and invisible:

And one Lord Jesus Christ, Son of God, begotten of the Father before all worlds, very and true God; who came down from heaven, took man's nature in the womb of the Blessed Virgin of and that even in those curious points, in which the present differences lie, men of all sorts take the Articles of the Church of England to be for them; which is an argument again, that none of them intend any desertion of the Articles established.

That therefore in these both curious and unhappy differences which have for so many hundred years, in different times and places, exercised the Church of Christ, We will, that all further curious search be laid aside, and these disputes shut up in God's promises, as they be generally set forth to us in God's promises, as they be generally set forth to us in the holy Scriptures, and the general meaning of the Articles of the Church of England according to them. And that no man hereafter shall either print, or preach, to draw the Article aside any way, but shall submit to it in the plain and full meaning thereof: and shall not put his own sense or comment to be the meaning of the Article, but shall take it in the literal and grammatical sense.

That if any publick Reader in either of Our Universities, or any Head or Master of a College, or any other person respectively in either of them, shall affix any new sense to any Article, or shall publickly read, determine, or hold any publick Disputation, or suffer any such to be held either way, in either the Universities or Colleges respectively; or if any Divine in the Universities shall preach or print any thing either way, other than is already established in Convocation with Our Royal Assent; he, or they the Offenders, shall be liable to Our displeasure, and the Church's censure in Our Commission Ecclesiastical, as well as any other: And We will see there shall be due Execution upon them [Eng. Bk.]

² When the Articles of Religion were introduced into the American Prayer Book they were placed immediately before the Forms of Ordination, where they remained until the Conventions of 1883 and 1886, when they were moved to the end of the Prayer Book. In the Prop. Book they stand immediately before the Psalter.

³ This much forms the title page of the Articles as they stand in the Sd. 1892. On the third page the Editing Committee have prefixed the caption ARTICLES OF RELIGION. as in the ed. prin. 1801.

Virgin, of her substance: so that two whole and perfect Natures, that is to say, the Godhead and Manhood, were joined together in one Person, never to be divided, whereof is one Christ, very God, and very Man; who truly suffered, was crucified, dead, and buried, to reconcile his Father to us, and to be a sacrifice, not only for original guilt, but also for actual sins of men.⁴

ART. III. Of the going down of Christ into Hell.

AS Christ died for us, and was buried; so also is it to be believed, that he went down into Hell.

ART. IV. Of the Resurrection of Christ.

CHRIST did truly rise again from death, and took again his body, with flesh, bones, and all things appertaining to the perfection of Man's nature; wherewith he ascended into Heaven, and there sitteth, until he return to judge all men at the last day.

ART. V. Of the Holy Ghost.

THE Holy Ghost, proceeding from the Father and the Son, is of one substance, majesty, and glory, with the Father and the Son, very and eternal God.

ART. VI. Of the Sufficiency of the Holy Scriptures for Salvation.

HOLY Scripture containeth all things necessary to salvation: so that whatsoever is not read therein, nor may be proved thereby, is not to be required of any man, that it should be believed as an article of the Faith, or be thought requisite or necessary to salvation. In the name of the Holy Scripture we do understand those canonical Books of the Old and New Testament, of whose authority was never any doubt in the Church.⁵

[Prop. Bk. 1786]

her substance, and was God and man in one person, whereof is one Christ; who truly suffered, was crucified, dead and buried, to reconcile his Father to us, and to be a sacrifice for the sins of all men;

He rose again from death,

And one Holy Spirit, the Lord and Giver of Life, of the same divine nature with the Father and the Son.

II. Of the Sufficiency of the Holy Scriptures for Salvation.

⁴The true reading of this clause is, "for all actual sins of men" (See Lamb's Historical Account of the Thirty-nine Articles and Hardwick's History of the Articles, App. III., note). The omission of the word "all" in the American Articles probably comes from the Oxford Prayer Book of 1775.

⁵The Convention of 1785 omitted the clause "of whose authority," etc., but the committee which edited the Prop. Bk., put it back again.

ART. VII. Of the Old Testament.

THE Old Testament is not contrary to the New: for both in the Old and New Testament everlasting life is offered to Mankind by Christ, who is the only Mediator between God and Man, being both God and Man. Wherefore they are not to be heard, which feign that the old Fathers did look only for transitory promises. Although the Law given from God by Moses, as touching Ceremonies and Rites, do not bind Christian men, nor the Civil precepts thereof ought of necessity to be received in any commonwealth; yet notwithstanding, no Christian man whatsoever

III. Of the Old and New Testament.

THERE is a perfect harmony and agreement between the Old Testament and the New, for in both everlasting life is offered to Mankind by Christ, who is the only Mediator between God and man: and although the law given by Moses, as to ceremonies and the civil precepts of it, doth not bind Christians; yet all such are obliged to observe the moral commandments which he delivered.

Bk. (except that it has "Hester") and the Oxford Edition of 1775. But compare the official copies of the English Articles in Lamb's Historical Account.

ART. VIII. Of the Creeds.

THE Nicene Creed, and that which is commonly called the Apostles Creed,¹ ought thoroughly to be received and believed: for they may be proved by most certain warrants of Holy Scripture.

ART. IX. Of Original or Birth-Sin.

ORIGINAL sin standeth not in the following of Adam, (as the Pelagians do vainly talk;) but it is the fault and corruption of the Nature of every man, that naturally is engendered of the offspring of Adam; whereby man is very far gone from original righteousness, and is of his own nature inclined to evil, so that the flesh lusteth always contrary to the Spirit; and therefore in every person born into this world, it deserveth God's wrath and damnation. And this infection of nature doth remain, yea in them that are regenerated; whereby the lust of the flesh, called in Greek, φρόνημα σαρκός, (which some do expound the wisdom, some sensuality, some the affection, some the desire, of the flesh,) is not subject to the Law of God. And although there there is no condemnation for them that believe and are baptized; yet the Apostle doth confess, that concupiscence and lust hath of itself the nature of sin.

ART. X. Of Free-Will.

THE condition of Man after the fall of Adam is such, that he cannot turn and prepare himself, by his own natural strength and good works, to faith, and calling upon God. Wherefore we have no

[Prop. Bk. 1786]

IV. Of the Creed. [Of Creeds. (MS.)]²

THE Creed, commonly called the Apostles' Creed ought to be received and believed: because it may be proved by the Holy Scripture.

V. Of Original Sin.

BY the fall of Adam the Nature of Man is become greatly corrupted, [is become so corrupt, as to be greatly depraved, (MS.)] having departed from its primitive innocence, and that original righteousness in which it was at first created by God. For we are now so inclined naturally [so naturally inclined (MS.)] to do evil that the flesh is continually striving to act contrary to the Spirit of God, which corrupt inclination still remains even in the regenerate. But although there is no man living who sinneth not, yet we must use our sincere endeavours to keep the whole law of God, so far as we possibly can.

power to do good works pleasant and acceptable to God, without the grace of God by Christ preventing us, that we may have a good will, and working¹ with us, when we have that good will.

ART. XI. *Of the Justification of Man.*VII. Of the Justification of Man.

WE are accounted righteous before God, only for the merit of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ by Faith, and not for our own works or deservings. Wherefore, that we are justified by Faith only, is a most wholesome doctrine, and very full of comfort, as more largely is expressed in the Homily of Justification.

is a most wholesome doctrine and very full of comfort.

ART. XII. *Of Good Works.*VIII. Of Good Works.

ALTHOUGH² that Good Works, which are the fruits of Faith, and follow after Justification, cannot put away our sins, and endure the severity of God's judgment; yet are they pleasing and acceptable to God in Christ, and do spring out necessarily of a true and lively Faith; insomuch that by them a lively Faith may be as evidently known as a tree discerned by the fruit.

ART. XIII. Of Works before Justification.

WORKS done before the grace of Christ, and the Inspiration of his Spirit, are not pleasant to God, forasmuch as they spring not of faith in Jesus Christ; neither do they make men meet to receive grace, or (as the School-authors say) deserve grace of congruity; yea rather, for that they are not done as God hath willed and commanded them to be done, we doubt not but they have the nature of sin.

ART. XIV. Of Works of Supererogation.

VOLUNTARY Works besides, over and above, God's Commandments, which they call Works of Supererogation, cannot be taught without arrogancy and impiety; for by them men do declare, that they do not only render unto God as much as they are bound to do, but that they do more for his sake, than of bounden duty is required; whereas Christ saith plainly, When ye have done all that are commanded to you, say, We are unprofitable servants.

¹ without the grace of God by Christ giving [giving us (MS.)] a good will, and working [Prop. Bk.]

ART. XV. Of Christ alone without Sin.

CHRIST in the truth of our nature was made like unto us in all things, sin only except, from which he was clearly void, both in his flesh and in his spirit. He came to be the Lamb without spot, who, by sacrifice of himself once made, should take away the sins of the world; and sin (as Saint John saith) was not in him. But all we the rest, although baptized, and born again in Christ, yet offend in many things; and if we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us.

ART. XVI. Of Sin after Baptism.

NOT every deadly sin willingly committed after Baptism is sin against the Holy Ghost, and unpardonable. Wherefore the grant of repentance is not to be denied to such as fall into sin after Baptism. After we have received the Holy Ghost, we may depart from grace given, and fall into sin, and by the grace of God we may arise again, and amend our lives. And therefore they are to be condemned, which say, they can no more sin as long as they live here, or deny the place of forgiveness to such as truly repent.

ART. XVII. Of Predestination and Election.

PREDESTINATION to Life is the everlasting purpose of God, whereby (before the foundations of the world were laid) he hath constantly decreed by his

[Prop. Bk. 1786]

IX. Of Christ alone without Sin.

CHRIST, by taking human nature on him, was made like unto us in all things, sin only excepted. He was a lamb without spot, and by the sacrifice of himself once offered, made atonement and propitiation for the sins of the world; and sin was not in him. But all man kind besides, although baptized and born again in Christ, do offend in many things. For if we say we have no sin we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us.

X. Of Sin after Baptism.

THEY who fall into sin after Baptism may be renewed by repentance; for although after we have received God's grace, we may depart from it by falling into sin, yet, through the assistance of his Holy Spirit, we may by repentance and the amendment of our lives, be restored again to his favour. God will not deny forgiveness [repentance (MS.)] of sins to those who truly repent, and do that which is lawful and right; but all such through his mercy in Christ Jesus, shall save their souls alive.

XI. Of Predestination.

PREDESTINATION to life, with respect to every Man's Salvation, is the everlasting purpose of God, secret to us:

counsel secret to us, to deliver from curse and damnation those whom he hath chosen in Christ out of mankind, and to bring them by Christ to everlasting salvation, as vessels made to honour. Wherefore, they which he endued with so excellent a benefit of God, be called according to God's purpose by his Spirit working in due season: they through Grace obey the calling: they be justified freely: they be made sons of God by adoption: they be made like the image of his only-begotten Son Jesus Christ: they walk religiously in good works, and at length, by God's mercy, they attain to everlasting felicity.

As the godly consideration of Predestination, and our Election in Christ, is full of sweet, pleasant, and unspeakable comfort to godly persons, and such as feel in themselves the working of the Spirit of Christ, mortifying the works of the flesh, and their earthly members, and drawing up their mind to high and heavenly things, as well because it doth greatly establish and confirm their faith of eternal Salvation to be enjoyed through Christ, as because it doth fervently kindle their love towards God: So, for curious and carnal persons, lacking the Spirit of Christ, to have continually before their eyes the sentence of God's Predestination, is a most dangerous downfall, whereby the Devil doth thrust them either into desperation, or into wretchedness of most unclean living, no less perilous than desperation.

Furthermore, we must receive God's promises in such wise, as they be generally set forth to us in Holy Scripture: and, in our doings, that Will of God is to be followed, which we have expressly declared unto us in the Word of God.

[Prop. Bk. 1786]

and the right knowledge of what is revealed concerning it, is full of comfort to such truly religious Christians, as feel in themselves the spirit of Christ, mortifying the works of their flesh, and their earthly affections, and raising their minds to heavenly things.

But we must receive God's promises as they are [they be (MS.)] generally declared in Holy Scripture, and do his will, as therein is expressly directed: for without holiness of life no man shall be saved.

ART. XVIII. Of obtaining eternal Salvation only by the Name of Christ.

THEY also are to be had accursed that presume to say, That every man shall be saved by the Law or Sect which he professeth, so that he be diligent to frame his life according to that Law, and the light of Nature. For Holy Scripture doth set out unto us only the Name of Jesus Christ, whereby men must be saved.

ART. XIX. Of the Church.

THE visible Church of Christ is a congregation of faithful men, in the which the pure Word of God is preached, and the Sacraments be duly ministered according to Christ's ordinance, in all those things that of necessity are requisite to the same.

As the Church of Hierusalem,¹ Alexandria, and Antioch, have erred; so also the Church of Rome hath erred, not only in their living and manner of Ceremonies, but also in matters of Faith.

ART. XX. Of the Authority of the Church.

THE Church hath power to decree Rites or Ceremonies, and authority in Controversies of Faith: and yet it is not lawful for the Church to ordain any thing that is contrary to God's Word written, neither may it so expound one place of Scripture, that it be repugnant to another. Wherefore, although the Church be a witness and a keeper of Holy Writ, yet, as it ought not to decree any thing against the same, so besides the same ought it not to enforce any thing to be believed for necessity of Salvation.

[Prop. Bk. 1786]

XII. Of obtaining eternal Salvation only by the Name of Christ.

THEY are to be accounted presumptuous, who say, That every man shall be saved by the Law or Sect which he professeth, so that he be diligent to frame his life according to that Law, and the light of Nature. For Holy Scripture doth set out unto us only the Name of Jesus Christ, whereby men must be saved.

XIII. Of the Church and its Authority.

THE visible Church of Christ is a congregation of faithful men, wherein the true Word [pure Word (MS.)]² of God is preached and the Sacraments administered [are duly administered (MS.)] according to Christ's ordinance in all things requisite and necessary [necessary and requisite (MS.)]:

and every Church hath power to ordain, change, and abolish rites and ceremonies for the more decent and good government thereof: so that all things be done to edifying. But it is not lawful for the Church to ordain anything contrary to God's Word, nor so to expound the Scripture, as to make one part seem repugnant to another; nor to decree or enforce anything to be believed as necessary to Salvation that is not contained in the Scriptures [that is contrary to God's Holy Word (MS.)].

* The Twenty-first of the former Articles is omitted: because it is partly of a local and civil nature, and is provided for, as to the remaining parts of it, in other Articles.²

ART. XXII. Of Purgatory.

THE Romish Doctrine concerning Purgatory, Pardons, Worshipping and Adoration, as well of Images as of Reliques,³ and also Invocation of Saints, is a fond thing, vainly invented, and grounded upon no warranty of Scripture, but rather repugnant to the Word of God.

ART. XXIII. Of Ministering in the Congregation.

IT is not lawful for any man to take upon him the office of public preaching, or ministering the Sacraments in the Congregation, before he be lawfully called, and sent to execute the same. And those we ought to judge lawfully called and sent, which be chosen⁴ and called to this work by men who have public authority given unto them in the Congregation, to call and send Ministers into the Lord's vineyard.

ART. XXIV. Of Speaking in the Congregation in such a Tongue as the people understandeth.

IT is a thing plainly repugnant to the Word of God, and the custom of the Primitive Church, to have public Prayer in the Church, or to minister the Sacraments, in a tongue not understood of the people.

ART. XXV. Of the Sacraments.

XIV. *Of Ministering in the Congregation.*XV. *Of the Sacraments.*¹ XXI. Of the Authority of General Councils.

GENERAL Councils may not be gathered together without the commandment and will of Princes. And when they be gathered together, (forasmuch as they be an assembly of men, whereof all be not governed with the Spirit and Word of God,) they may err, and sometimes have erred, even in things pertaining unto God. Wherefore things ordained by them as necessary to salvation have neither strength nor authority, unless it may be declared that they be taken out of holy Scripture. [Eng. Bk.]

nesses,¹ and effectual signs of grace, and God's good will towards us, by the² which he doth work invisibly in us, and doth not only quicken, but also strengthen and confirm our Faith in him.

There are two Sacraments ordained of Christ our Lord in the Gospel, that is to say, Baptism, and the Supper of the Lord.³

Those five commonly called Sacraments, that is to say, Confirmation, Penance, Orders, Matrimony, and Extreme Unction, are not to be counted for Sacraments of the Gospel, being such as have grown partly of the corrupt following of the Apostles, partly are states of life allowed in the Scriptures; but yet have not like nature of Sacraments with Baptism, and the Lord's Supper, for that they have not any visible sign or ceremony ordained of God.

The Sacraments were not ordained of Christ to be gazed upon, or to be carried about, but that we should duly use them. And in such only as worthily receive the same, they have a wholesome effect or operation: but they that receive them unworthily, purchase to themselves damnation, as Saint Paul saith.

ART. XXVI. Of the Unworthiness of the Ministers, which hinders not the effect of the Sacraments.

ALTHOUGH in the visible Church the evil be ever mingled with the good, and sometimes the evil have chief authority in the Ministration of the Word and Sacraments, yet forasmuch as they do not the same in their own name, but in Christ's, and do minister by his commission and authority, we may use their Ministry, both in hearing the Word of God, and in receiving the Sacraments.⁴ Neither is the effect of Christ's ordinance taken away by their wickedness, nor the grace of God's gifts diminished from such as by faith, and rightly, do receive the Sacraments ministered unto them; which be effectual, because of Christ's institution and promise, although they be ministered by evil men.

Nevertheless, it appertaineth to the discipline of the Church, that inquiry be made of evil Ministers, and that they be accused by those that have knowledge of their offences; and finally, being found guilty, by just judgment be deposed.

ART. XXVII. Of Baptism.

BAPTISM is not only a sign¹ of profession, and mark of difference, whereby Christian men are discerned from others that be not christened,² but it is also a sign of Regeneration or New-Birth, whereby, as by an instrument, they that³ receive Baptism rightly are grafted into the Church; the promises of the forgiveness of sin, and of our adoption to be the sons of God by the Holy Ghost, are visibly signed and sealed; Faith is confirmed, and Grace increased by virtue of prayer unto God.

The Baptism of young Children is in any wise to be retained in the Church, as most agreeable with the institution of Christ.⁴

ART. XXVIII. *Of the Lord's Supper.*XVII. Of the Lord's Supper.

THE Supper of the Lord is not only a sign⁵ of the love that Christians ought to have among themselves one to another; but rather it is a Sacrament⁶ of our Redemption by Christ's death: insomuch that to such as rightly, worthily, and with faith, receive the same, the Bread which we break is a partaking of the Body of Christ; and likewise the Cup of Blessing is a partaking of the Blood of Christ.

Transubstantiation (or the change of the substance of Bread and Wine) in the Supper of the Lord, cannot be proved by Holy Writ; but is repugnant to the plain words of Scripture, overthroweth the nature of a Sacrament, and hath given occasion to many superstitions.

The Body of Christ is given, taken, and eaten, in the Supper,⁷ only after an heavenly and spiritual manner. And the mean whereby the Body of Christ is received and eaten in the Supper, is Faith.

[1801, Sds. 1822-1892; Eng. Bk.]

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was not by Christ's ordinance reserved, carried about, lifted up, or worshipped.

ART. XXIX. Of the Wicked, which eat not the Body of Christ in the use of the Lord's Supper.

THE Wicked, and such as be void of a lively faith, although they do carnally and visibly press with their teeth (as Saint Augustine saith) the Sacrament of the Body and Blood of Christ; yet in no wise are they partakers of Christ; but rather, to their condemnation, do eat and drink the sign or Sacrament of so great a thing.

ART. XXX. Of both Kinds.

THE Cup of the Lord is not to be denied to the Lay-people: for both the parts of the Lord's Sacrament, by Christ's ordinance and commandment, ought to be ministered to all Christian men alike.

ART. XXXI. Of the one Oblation of Christ finished upon the Cross.

THE offering of Christ once made is that perfect redemption, propitiation, and satisfaction, for all the sins of the whole world, both original and actual; and there is none other satisfaction for sin, but that alone. Wherefore the sacrifices¹ of Masses, in the which it was commonly said, that the Priest did offer Christ for the quick and the dead, to have remission of pain or guilt, were blasphemous fables, and dangerous deceits.

ART. XXXIII. Of excommunicate Persons, how they are to be avoided.

THAT person which by open denunciation of the Church is rightly cut off from the unity of the Church, and excommunicated, ought to be taken of the whole multitude of the faithful, as an Heathen and Publican, until he be openly reconciled by penance, and received into the Church by a Judge that hath authority thereunto.

ART. XXXIV. Of the Traditions of the Church.

IT is not necessary that Traditions and Ceremonies be in all places one, or utterly like ; for at all times they have been divers, and may be changed according to the diversity of countries, times, and men's manners, so that nothing be ordained against God's Word. Whosoever, through his private judgment, willingly and purposely, doth openly break the Traditions and Ceremonies of the Church, which be not repugnant to the Word of God, and be ordained and approved by common authority, ought to be rebuked openly, (that other¹ may fear to do the like,) as he that offendeth against the common order of the Church, and hurteth the authority of the Magistrate, and woundeth the consciences of the weak brethren.

ART. XXXIX. Of a Christian Man's Oath.

AS we confess that vain and rash Swearing is forbidden Christian men by our Lord Jesus Christ, and James his Apostle, so we judge, that Christian Religion doth not prohibit, but that a man may swear when the Magistrate requireth, in a cause of faith and charity, so it be done according to the Prophet's teaching, in justice, judgment, and truth.¹

[Prop. Bk. 1786]

XX. Of a Christian Man's Oath.

THE Christian Religion doth not prohibit any man from taking an oath, when required by the Magistrate in testimony of truth; but all vain and rash swearing is forbidden by the Holy Scriptures.

³XXXVII. Of the Civil Magistrates.

THE King's Majesty hath the chief power in this Realm of England, and other his Dominions, unto whom the chief Government of all Estates of this Realm, whether they be Ecclesiastical or Civil, in all causes doth appertain, and is not, nor ought to be, subject to any foreign Jurisdiction.

Where we attribute to the King's Majesty the chief government, by which Titles we understand the minds of some slanderous folks to be offended; we give not to our Princes the ministering either of God's Word, or of the Sacraments, the which thing the Injunctions also lately set forth by Elizabeth our Queen do most plainly testify; but that only prerogative, which we see to have been given always to all godly Princes in holy Scriptures by God himself; that is, that they should rule all states and degrees committed to their charge by God, whether they be Ecclesiastical or Temporal, and restrain with the civil sword the stubborn and evil-doers.

The Bishop of Rome hath no jurisdiction in this Realm of England.

The Laws of the Realm may punish Christian men with death, for heinous and grievous offences.

It is lawful for Christian men, at the commandment of the Magistrate, to wear weapons, and serve in the wars [Eng. Bk.]

VARIOUS READINGS OF THE PRAYER BOOK PSALTER

COLLATED FROM THE GREAT BIBLES, THE SEPARATE PSALTERS, AND THE PRAYER BOOKS BY THE REV. FREDERICK GIBSON, D. D., RECTOR OF S. GEORGE'S CHURCH,
BALTIMORE, MD.

THE translation of the Psalter in the English and American Prayer Books is derived from that of the Great Bible, familiarly called Cranmer's Bible, some twenty editions of which were published between A. D. 1539 and 1569. This is known both from examination, and from the statement given in all the earlier Prayer Books from 1549 to 1637, that "where any Psalms are appointed the number is expressed after the great English Bible," and from the more minute statement in the Prayer Book of 1662, following therein Cosin's earlier corrections: "Note, that the Psalter followeth the Division of the Hebrews, and the translation of the great English Bible, set forth and used in the time of King Henry the Eighth, and Edward the Sixth."

The basis of this translation is Coverdale and Tyndale's Bible of 1535, and that had been made from the German and the Latin only, as its title-page indicated,¹ and in that Psalter many expressions came directly from Luther's translation of the Hebrew in 1524, and from the Latin translation by Pagninus in 1528. The first edition of the Great Bible, properly known as Cromwell's, because it was published under his direction and at his expense, was issued in April, 1539, and the same Myles Coverdale was its editor and chief translator. He was assisted "by divers excellent learned men, expert in the Hebrew and Greek texts," after the verity of which tongues this Bible was asserted to be truly translated. It was called the Great Bible, because it was "of the largest volume in English," its pages being fifteen inches in length, and more than nine inches in breadth. Cromwell's Bible of 1539 borrowed largely in the Psalter from Sebastian Münster's Latin translation of the Hebrew in 1534, and was a vast improvement upon Coverdale's earlier Bible of 1535, and upon Matthew's Bible of 1537, in which latter Bible for the first time the numbers of the Psalms were given, as at present, from the division of the Hebrew Bible. There were seven editions of the Great Bible issued between April 1539 and December 1541. The second edition in April 1540 was a further improvement upon that of 1539, introducing additional changes from Münster's translation, and together with the later editions is known as Cranmer's Bible, because Cranmer wrote a long Prologue or Preface to it, though it is now generally believed that Cranmer had nothing to do with its translation. There were other editions in July 1540, in May 1541, and in December 1541, all of which were very much alike, though with many verbal differences in each of them. These all had sixty-two lines on a page, and the catch words in all were alike. There were besides these, two more editions, of November 1540 and November 1541, which were nearly identical with each other, and with the earlier editions, but these had sixty-five lines on a page instead of sixty-two, and on the title page they were stated to have been "oversene and perused" by two Bishops, Tunstall of Durham and Heath of Rochester. From these November editions of 1540 and 1541, our present Psalter seems to have been in the main derived, though with many verbal changes and additions, whether by error or amendment, received from later editions. But since the musical colon is not given in the Psalter of any of the Great Bibles, with the exception of the late edition of 1562, our Prayer Book Psalter, which has always had the colon, would seem to have been taken directly from the earlier separate editions of the Psalter in 1548, 1549, 1552, 1560, 1565 and 1574, for all of these were "poincted," or "corrected and poynted," or "perfectly pointed," "as it" or "thei" "shall be song in churches." The first separate Psalter of 1548 was undoubtedly taken from the November edition of the Great Bible in 1541, but with sundry further verbal changes (Vide Pss. 5 : 8, 66 : 10(2), 79 : 6, 109 : 1, 115 : 9, 135 : 7 in the Table). The following Table of Various Readings has been made after a very careful, personal examination of the Great Bibles in the Lenox Library, New York, the Bodleian, Oxford, and the British Museum, London.

³ injusti punientur, Vulg., from the Alexandrine Codex of Leontionices, in 1524, has the same reading.

² In Ps. 90:12, the initial word is "O," in all the Great Bibles, including Coverdale's of 1535, (perhaps after Luther's version, Lehre uns); in all the early separate Psalters, and in all the Prayer Books, till 1662. The change to "So" in A. B. and S. B. is therefore scarcely a printer's error, but is probably an intended correction of the text after the A. V. and the original Hebrew. Very many of the minute changes in the Psalter of the A. B. are evidently taken from the text of the Authorized Version of 1611. The printed Book of 1662 has "So" in the Burial Office also, but the scribe of the A. B. having written "O" (from habit, perhaps) in that office, the commissioners felt bound to change in that place the printed "So" to "O" in the S. B. to make it correspond to the A. B. Many other manifest errors in the A. B., corrected in the printed Book of 1662, were allowed to remain by them in the S. B., as in Psalms 35:25; 41:8; 42:6.

NOTE.—With respect to the many changes in the Text of the Psalter, as shown in the above Table, it is often difficult to determine which were lawful corrections, and which were errors of the press. The word [error], in brackets, has occasionally been introduced in the Table, where it was thought that the change was manifestly a misprint or a wrong correction.

DOCUMENTS ILLUSTRATIVE OF THE HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN PRAYER BOOK.

*Alterations in the English Prayer Book Enjoined by Bishop Seabury.*¹

SAMUEL, by divine permission, Bishop of the Episcopal Church in the State of Connecticut, to the Clergy of the said Church, GREETING :

IT having pleased Almighty GOD, that the late British Colony of Connecticut should become a free, sovereign and independent State, as it now is, some alterations in the Liturgy and Offices of our Church are necessary to be made, to accommodate them to the civil Constitution of the country in which we live; for the peace, security and prosperity of which, both as good subjects and faithful Christians, it is our duty constantly to pray—WE, the Bishop aforesaid, have thought fit, by and with the advice and assistance of such of our Clergy as we have had opportunity of consulting, to issue this Injunction, hereby authorizing and requiring YOU, and every one of You, the Presbyters and Deacons of the Church above mentioned, in the celebration of Divine Service, to make the following alterations in the Liturgy and Offices of our Church, viz.:

I. In the suffrages after the Creed, in morning and evening Prayer, instead of O Lord save the King, You are to read, O Lord save the Church; to which the congregation are to make the accustomed response, And mercifully hear us, &c.

II. The prayer for the King, in the morning and evening service, to be left out; and the prayer for the Royal Family to be thus altered; Almighty God, the fountain of all goodness, we humbly beseech thee to bless the Governor and Rulers of this State; endue them with thy Holy Spirit;—and so on as it now stands.

III. In the Litany the 15, 16, 17, 18th petitions to be omitted, and the petition for Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, immediately to follow that for the universal Church. The 20, and 21st petitions to be thus read, That it may please thee to endue the Governor and Rulers of this State, with grace, wisdom and understanding. That it may please thee to bless and keep the Judges and inferior Magistrates, giving them grace to execute justice and to maintain truth. To both which the usual response—We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord,—is to be made by the congregation.

IV. In the prayer for the whole state of Christ's Church, the part relating to Rulers and Ministers to be thus altered—We beseech thee also to save and defend all Christian Kings, Princes, and Governors; and grant that they, and all that are put in authority, may truly and impartially minister justice, to the punishment of wickedness and vice, and to the maintenance of true religion and virtue. Give grace, O heavenly Father, to all Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, that they may— and so on, as it now stands.

V. The prayers for the King that stand before the Nicene Creed in the Communion service, to be omitted.

VI. In the answer in the Catechism to the question—What is thy duty towards thy neighbor? for—to honor and obey the King—substitute, to honor and obey my civil Rulers, to submit myself, &c.

VII. That during every session of the Great and General Court, or Assembly, you do use the following collect, in its proper place, both in morning and evening prayer.

“Most gracious God, we humbly beseech thee, as for this State in general, so especially for the great and general Court at this time assembled: That thou wouldst be pleased to direct and prosper all their consultations to the advancement of thy glory, the good of thy church, the safety, honor, and the welfare of thy people; that all things may be so ordered and settled by their endeavours, upon the best and surest foundations, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us for all generations. These and all other necessaries for them, for us, and thy whole church, we humbly beg in the name and mediation of Jesus Christ our most blessed Lord and Saviour. Amen.

VIII. That you discontinue the observation of the fifth of November, the thirtieth of January, the twenty-ninth of May, and the twenty-fifth of October.

Commending you, Reverend Brethren, your congregations, and labours in the Gospel, to the grace, protection, and blessing of Almighty God, We remain your affectionate brother and servant in Christ Jesus, our Lord.

That in the prayer for the whole state of Christ's Church Militant, the part relating to Rulers and Ministers, be thus altered:—We beseech thee also to save and defend, all Christian Kings, Princes, and Governors, and grant that they, and all that are in authority, may truly and impartially minister justice to the punishment of wickedness and vice, and to the maintenance of thy true religion and virtue; give grace, O Heavenly Father, to all Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, that they may,—and so on, as it now stands.

Amen.

That in the first warning, for the Celebration of the Holy Communion, the word "damnation," following these words, "increase your," be read, condemnation; and the two paragraphs after these words, "or else come not to that holy table," be omitted, and the following one be read, And if there be any of you, who by these means cannot quiet their own conscience, &c. The words "learned and discreet," epithets given to ministers, &c. be also omitted.

That in the Exhortation at the Communion, the paragraph concerning the danger of receiving the same unworthily, be thus altered:—So is the danger great, if we receive the same unworthily, not considering the Lord's Body, for then we are guilty of the Body and Blood of Christ our Saviour, we eat and drink judgment to ourselves, kindling God's wrath against us, and provoking him to afflict us with divers diseases, and sundry kinds of death.

That it be left discretionary with the Minister, whether the words, "The body of our Lord Jesus Christ," &c., be repeated to each communicant separately, when the bread is given, or whether it shall be repeated but once, for all then present at the Altar—and the same also at giving the cup; and if the latter is adopted, that the plural be then used, instead of the singular.

In the first address to the people at the Baptismal Office, the words, "All men are conceived and born of sin," be omitted, and the words, "our Saviour Christ," follow "for as much as."

That the words, "release him of his sins," in the address to the Sponsors, be omitted; that when the child or person is baptized in church, instead of repeating the Creed, the priest may say, Dost thou believe all the articles of the Christian faith, as contained in the Apostles' Creed? to which the answer shall be, I do, and, by God's help, I will instruct this child in that faith; the following question to be thus altered, Wilt thou have this child to be baptized in that faith? The usual response to follow; the last demand and response to be omitted.

That the Sign of the Cross may be omitted, if particularly desired by the Sponsors.

At the Burial of the Dead, the Commitment of the Body to the ground, to be thus altered: For as much as it hath pleased Almighty God, to take out of this mortal life, the soul of our brother (or sister), here departed, we therefore commit his (or her) body to the ground, earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust, looking for the resurrection of the body, and the life of the world to come, through our Lord Jesus Christ, who shall change our vile body that it may be like unto his glorious Body, according to the mighty working, whereby he is able to subdue all things unto himself.

The prayer following the Lord's Prayer, to be omitted; and after the words, "beginning of the world," in the last prayer, be added this paragraph: So that we, with all those that are departed in the true faith of thy holy name, may then have our perfect consummation and bliss, both in body and soul, in thy eternal and everlasting glory, through Jesus Christ our Lord, grant this, &c.

That the office of Churching of Women, be omitted, excepting the introduction, the latter part of which shall be read: You shall therefore join in giving hearty thanks to God; and the Collect, which shall be thus altered: O Almighty God, we give thee humble thanks, for thy great mercy vouchsafed to this woman, thy servant, who now desires to offer up her praises and thanksgivings to thee; and grant, &c.

The second paragraph in the Introduction to the Commination Service, to be thus read: instead whereof, it is thought good at this time, in the presence of you all, should be read the general sentences of God's cursing against impenitent sinners, gathered out of the seven and twentieth chapter of Deuteronomy and other places of Scripture:—the remainder of this paragraph, with the Rubrick, that "the people shall answer and say, Amen," to the Curses, to be omitted.

That the Absolution, in the office of the Visitation of the Sick, be expunged, and the Absolution used in the Communion Service, be substituted in its stead, if necessary.

That the Introduction to the Marriage Service, containing the reasons why matrimony was ordained, be omitted, from the words, "holy matrimony," to "therefore, if any man can shew any just cause," &c.

That the words, "plight and give thee my troth," be altered to pledge thee my truth; that the words, "with my body I thee worship, and with all my worldly goods I thee endow," in giving the ring, be omitted.

That it be left discretionary with the Minister, whether the Collect for the day be read more than once in the morning service, and also whether the Communion Service shall be read in the Reading Desk or in the Altar.

Voted, That it be recommended to the several Churches in these States, immediately to make the omissions, and adopt the alterations contained in the printed paper No. 1, and agreed upon by this Convention, as a substitute for the State Prayers, in the Book of Common Prayer, and that the using the other alterations be postponed till after the time to which this Convention shall be adjourned, in order that it may be seen, how far the other States will conform to said alterations.

Voted, That it is the opinion of this Convention, that it is not necessary nor convenient to send a Delegate or Delegates to the General Convention, to be holden at Philadelphia on the Tuesday preceding the Feast of St. Michael, but that a copy of the proceedings of this Convention be communicated, by a Committee to be hereafter chosen, to the President or some member of said Convention, to be communicated to said Body, and also to the Bishop or Clergy of Connecticut, previous to the Convention to be held at New Haven, to be communicated to them, requesting a speedy communication of each of their proceedings to said Committee.

Voted, That said Committee furnish all the Churches in the three States not represented here, and those whose members are absent, with a copy of the alterations in the Liturgy, agreed upon by this Convention, and request of them a return of their actings thereon, to this Convention, at their adjournment.

Voted, Rev. Mr. Parker, Thomas Ivers, Esq., and Mr. Benjamin Greene, be said Committee, with a power to employ a Clerk to assist them.

Voted, That the Rev. Mr. Bass and Mr. Fisher be a Committee to form a Collect, to be inserted among the occasional prayers for the case of persons who have lost their friends, for persons sick, and for persons bound to sea, and report at the adjournment.

Voted. That this Convention be adjourned to October 26th, and in case the Committee shall not then have received the returns from the Conventions at New Haven and Philadelphia, that they be authorized to adjourn said Convention, to such future day as they shall judge best, and notify the members of the same.

In consequence of the preceding votes of Convention, attested copies of the proposed alterations in the Liturgy and Offices of the Church, were transmitted to the Churches and Clergymen.

Service for the 4th of July.

With the sentences before Morning and Evening Prayer.

The Lord has been mindful of us, and he shall bless us, he shall bless them that fear him, both small and great. O that men would therefore praise the Lord, for his goodness, and declare the wonders that he doeth for the children of men.

My song shall be alway of the loving kindness of the Lord: with my mouth will I ever be showing forth his truth from one generation to another. Psal. 89. 1.

The merciful and gracious Lord hath so done his marvellous works: that they ought to be had in remembrance. Psal. 111. 4.

Who can express the noble acts of the Lord: or show forth all his praise. Psal. 106. 2.

The works of the Lord are great: sought out of all them that have pleasure therein. Psal. 111. 2.

For he will not alway be chiding: neither keepeth he his anger for ever. Psal. 103. 9.

He hath not dealt with us after our sins: nor rewarded us according to our wickedness. Verse 10.

For look how high the heaven is in comparison of the earth: so great is his mercy toward them that fear him. Verse 11.

Collect for the day.

Almighty God, who hast in all ages showed forth thy power and mercy in the wonderful preservation of thy church, and in the protection of every nation and people professing thy holy and eternal truth, and putting their sure trust in thee; we yield thee our unfeigned thanks and praise for all thy public mercies, and more especially for that signal and wonderful manifestation of thy providence which we commemorate this day; wherefore not unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto thy Name be ascribed all honour and glory, in all churches of the Saints, from generation to generation, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A Thanksgiving for the day, to be said after the General Thanksgiving.

O God, whose Name is excellent in all the earth, and thy glory above the heavens; who as on this day didst inspire and direct the hearts of our delegates in Congress, to lay the perpetual foundations of peace, liberty, and safety; we bless and adore thy glorious Majesty, for this thy loving kindness and providence. And we humbly pray that the devout sense of this signal mercy may renew and increase in us a spirit of love and thankfulness to thee its only Author, a spirit of peaceable submission to the laws and government of our country, and a spirit of fervent zeal for our holy religion, which thou hast preserved and secured to us and our posterity. May we improve these inestimable blessings for the advancement of religion, liberty, and science throughout this land, till the wilderness and solitary place be made glad through us, and the desert rejoice and blossom as the rose. This we beg through the merits of Jesus Christ our Saviour. *Amen.*¹

26th. That the sign of the cross may be omitted, if particularly desired by the Sponsors or Parents, and the prayer to be thus altered (by the direction of a short rubric) "We receive this child into the congregation of Christ's flock; and pray that hereafter he may never be ashamed, &c." to the end.

For the Declaration and form of interment, beginning—"Forasmuch as, &c." insert the following—viz. "Forasmuch as it hath pleased Almighty God, in his wise Providence, to take out of this world the soul of our deceased brother (sister) lying now before us; We therefore commit his (her) body to the ground, earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust; (thus at sea—to the deep to be turned into corruption) looking for the general resurrection in the last day, and the life of the world to come, thro' our Lord Jesus Christ; at whose second coming in glorious Majesty, to judge the world, the earth and the sea shall give up their dead; and the corruptible bodies of those who sleep in him shall be changed, and made like unto his own glorious body, according to the mighty working, whereby he is able to subdue all things unto Himself."

In the sentence "I heard a voice, &c." insert "who" for "which."

The prayer following the Lord's prayer to be omitted. In the next collect, leave out the words "as our hope is, this our brother doth." For "them that," insert "those who."

35th. In the visitation of the sick, instead of the absolution as it now stands, insert the declaration of forgiveness which is appointed for the communion service; or, either of the collects, which are taken from the Communion office, and appropriated to Ash Wednesday, may be used.

In the prayer "for persons troubled in mind," omit all that stands between the words "afflicted servant," and "his soul is full," &c. and instead thereof say "afflicted servant, whose soul is full of trouble," and strike out the particle "but," and proceed, "O merciful God," &c.

36th. A form of Prayer and visitation of Prisoners for notorious crimes, and especially persons under sentence of death, being much wanted, the form entitled "Prayers for persons under sentence of death, agreed upon in a Synod of the archbishops and bishops, and the rest of the clergy of Ireland, at Dublin, in the year 1711," as it now stands in the book of Common Prayer of the church of Ireland, is agreed upon, and ordered to be adopted, with the following alterations, viz:

For the absolution, take the same declaration of forgiveness, or either of the collects above directed for the visitation of the sick. The short collect "O Saviour of the world," &c. to be left out; and for the word "frailness," say "frailty."

37th. In the Catechism, besides the alteration respecting the civil Powers, alter as follows: viz. "What is your name? N. M. When did you receive this name? I received it in Baptism, whereby I became a member of the christian church. What was promised for you in baptism? That I should be instructed to believe the christian faith, as contained in the Apostle's Creed, and to obey God's holy will, and keep his commandments.

Dost thou think thou art bound to believe all the articles of the christian faith, as contained in this creed, and to obey God's holy will and keep his commandments?" "Yes verily," &c.

Instead of the words "verily, and indeed taken," say—"spiritually taken."

Answer to Question "How many Sacraments?" "Two, Baptism and the Lord's Supper."

38th. Instead of a particular Service for the churching of women, and psalms, the following special prayer is to be introduced, after the General Thanksgiving; viz. This to be said, when any woman desires to return thanks, &c. "O Almighty God, we give thee most humble and hearty thanks, for that thou hast been graciously pleased to preserve this woman, thy servant, through the great pains and perils of childbirth. Incline her, we beseech thee, to show forth her thankfulness, for this thy great mercy, not only with her lips, but by a holy and virtuous life. Be pleased, O God, so to establish her health, that she may lead the remainder of her days to thy honour and glory, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen."

39. The Commination office for Ash Wednesday to be discontinued, as it is considered rather as a discouragement to sincere Christians from coming to church on that day, than an encouragement, and therefore the three collects, the first beginning—"O Lord, we beseech thee,"—2d, "O most mighty God,"—3d, "Turn us, O Good Lord," shall be continued among the occasional prayers; and used after the collect on Ash Wednesday, and on such other occasions as the minister shall think fit.

use of the Protestant Episcopal Church in these United States; and although they could have wished that the book had been published time enough for every member to have had a deliberate consideration and perusal of it, before the meeting of this Convention, yet nevertheless, having examined and considered it, with all the attention and care that the time of their sitting would admit, they do approve and ratify the same, as far as their powers extend, and recommend it to the use of the several churches in this State as soon as the congregations can be supplied with a sufficient number of books — proposing to the General Convention that shall meet in Philadelphia in June next, that in the future editions of the Common Prayer Book, the following additions, alterations or amendments be ordered, viz: that after the Apostles' Creed be added—'OR THIS,' inserting the Nicene Creed; so that both be not read on the same day. That in the first article of religion, the words 'true God' as applied to the Son, be changed into the words 'Eternal God'. That at the end of the first article, to the words 'Father and Son' be added the words 'very and eternal God', as applied to the Holy Spirit, the same being in the original article. That in the Consecration Prayer, in the Holy Sacrament, after the words 'until his coming again', and before the words 'our Saviour Jesus Christ's holy institution,' be inserted the following paragraph instead of that which now stands, viz: 'Hear us O merciful Father, we must humbly beseech thee, and of thy Almighty goodness vouchsafe so to bless and sanctify these thy creatures of bread and wine, that we receiving them according to thy Son.' And that in the baptismal office, a rubric be inserted, allowing the Minister, when many children are to be baptized at the same time, after dipping or sprinkling each child, pronouncing the words 'I baptize thee,' &c., and making the sign of the cross on the forehead, to return the child to the sponsors and say what follows for the whole number of children thus baptized, viz: 'We receive these children into the congregation of Christ's flock, and have signed them with the sign of the cross, in token,' &c."¹

Action of the New Jersey Convention with regard to the Proposed Book, May 19th, 1786.

To the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, to be held in the city of Philadelphia in June next.

The Memorial of the Convention of the Said Church in New Jersey, now held in the city of Perth Amboy,

Respectfully sheweth,

THAT your memorialists have unanimously approved of the alterations in the liturgy, as they appear in the New Prayer Book, to render it consistent with the American revolution, and the constitutions of the respective States as made and concluded on by the late General Convention of the said church, held at Philadelphia, in September and October last, they being satisfactory and agreeable to their wish.

¹ Notices and Journals and remains of Journals, etc., of the Diocese of Maryland. App. Journal of 1855.

They have also approved of their plan for obtaining Consecration of Bishops, and pursuant to their recommendation, have appointed a committee to correspond with the English Bishops for that purpose.

They have also with great pleasure considered their address to the Archbishops and Bishops of the Church of England, which your memorialists are of opinion was properly calculated to obtain the end proposed.

But it is with the greatest concern they are constrained to remark, that the other proceedings of the said Convention, in their opinion, have an undoubted tendency to prolong, if not entirely prevent, the obtaining of the Prayer thereof. In this opinion your memorialists conceive they are supported by the answer of the said venerable Bishops, with a copy of which they have been favored during their sitting at this place; for which reason, among others, they did not ratify, but disapproved of the other parts of the proceedings of the said General Convention.

Your memorialists do not question the right of every National or independent church to make such alterations from time to time, in the mode of its publick worship, as upon mature consideration may be found expedient; but they doubt the right of any order or orders of men, in an Episcopal Church without a bishop, to make any alterations not warranted by immediate necessity, especially such as not only go to the mode of its worship but also to its doctrines. Wherefore your memorialists cannot forbear remarking, that, in their opinion, all unnecessary alterations must be unreasonable and impolitic, and will prove highly detrimental to the Church in General.

Your memorialists cannot approve of the said late General Convention having published in the manner they have, the new Book of Common Prayer, as altered, with the psalms and kalender transposed and changed by their committee, without their revision and express approbation; but since they have done so, and if it was proper to have been considered, your memorialists have to regret that the same was not sooner published, that they might have been enabled to have declared the sentiments of their constituents as well as their own. The prejudices and prepossessions of mankind in favor of old customs, especially in religious matters are generally so strong as to require great delicacy and caution in the introduction of any alterations or innovations, although manifestly for the better; which was also one reason, why they could not at this time ratify the alterations so unnecessarily made. And they are very apprehensive that until alterations can be made consistent with the customs of the primitive church, and with the rules of the Church of England, from which it is our boast to have descended, a ratification of them would create great uneasiness in the minds of many members of the church, and in great probability cause dissensions and schisms. Although they may not disapprove of all the alterations made in the said new book, yet they have to regret the unseasonableness and irregularity of them.

Your memorialists having an anxious desire of cementing, perpetuating and extending the union so happily begun in the Church, with all deference and submission, humbly request and entreat the said General Convention now soon to meet, that they will revise the proceedings of the said late convention, and their aforesaid committee, and remove every cause that may have excited any jealousy and fear, that the Episcopal Church in the United States of America have any intention or desire essentially to depart, either in doctrine or discipline, from the Church of England; but, on the contrary, to convince the world that it is their wish and intention to maintain the doctrines of the Gospel, as now held by the church of England, and to adhere to the liturgy of the said church, as far as shall be consistent with the American revolution and the constitutions of the respective states: thereby removing every obstacle in the way of obtaining the consecration of such, and so many persons to the Episcopal character, as shall render our ecclesiastical government complete; and secure to the Episcopalians in America, and to their descendants, a succession of that necessary order. And they will use all means in their power to promote and perpetuate harmony and unanimity among ourselves, and with the said church of England, as a mother or sister church, and with every Protestant Church in the universe.

By order of the Convention,
ABRAHAM BEACH, President.¹

*Alterations in the Proposed Book agreed on by the Pennsylvania Convention, May 27th, 1786.*²

The Convention having examined the Book of Common Prayer, as revised and proposed by the General Convention of September and October last, instruct their deputies to the ensuing General Convention to propose the following amendments:—First, That in the Morning Prayer, the Nicene Creed be inserted after the Apostles' Creed, with the words, 'Or this,' between them, with a rubric, requiring that the Nicene be used on the following festivals, viz: on Christmas-day, the Epiphany, Easter-day, Ascension-day, Whitsunday, and Trinity Sunday. Second, That, in the Consecration Prayer, in the office of the Holy Sacrament, after the words, 'until his coming again,' and before the words, 'according to thy Son our Saviour Jesus Christ's holy institution,' be inserted the following paragraph, instead of that now used: 'Hear us, O merciful Father, we most humbly beseech thee; and of thy almighty goodness, vouchsafe so to bless and sanctify these thy creatures of bread and wine, that we receiving them.' Third, That, in the communion service, where the Nicene Creed stood, there be a rubric, requiring the use of one of the Creeds, as in the Morning Prayer, when the two services shall not have been used at the same time, or in connection. Fourth, That, in all the offices of Baptism, the articles of the Apostles' Creed be distinctly repeated, and this question and answer inserted in the baptism of infants: Q. Wilt thou endeavor, that the child now presented to be baptized, may be instructed in this faith? A. I will. Fifth, That, in the burial service, the beginning of the omitted prayer be retained to these words, 'Joy and felicity' with the addition of a thanksgiving to Almighty God for the good examples of all righteous persons departed, like that in the conclusion of the prayer for Christ's Church militant.

Sixth, That the first, fifth, and eleventh of the new articles be omitted, and the first, second, fourth, fifth, fourteenth, twenty-second, twenty-sixth, and thirtieth of the old Articles be retained. Seventh, That, the fourth article of the new be entitled 'Of the Creeds'; and the Nicene be recognized therein with the Apostles'. Eighth, That, the ninth of the old articles be retained as far as the word 'damnation'; and the said word to be changed to 'condemnation'. Ninth, That, the seventeenth of the old articles be retained, with the following alteration: omit the words, 'to life,' and these, 'secret to us' with what follows to the words, 'in due season',—inclusively; inserting instead thereof 'to admit to the inestimable privileges of the Gospel dispensation all those Gentiles, as well as Jews, who should believe in his Son Jesus Christ'. After the word 'calling' insert 'of God'. End at these words 'everlasting felicity'. Tenth, That, the thirty-fifth article of the old book be retained, so far as it refers to the homilies, as containing godly and wholesome doctrine. Eleventh, That, instead of the old thirty-seventh article, there be a new one, declaratory of our allegiance to the civil authority in these states, and the obedience due to the magistrates thereof.

Mr. Wormeley, from the Committee appointed to draw up instructions for the deputies to the next General Convention, presented a draught of such instructions, which were read, and, with some amendments, agreed to as followeth:—

Gentlemen,—You are instructed to move for such alterations in the Book of Common Prayer and Articles of Religion as shall be agreed upon by this Convention as fit to be proposed to the General Convention.

We consider the Protestant Episcopal Church in America as an incorporate Society, and therefore unity in doctrine and worship its characteristic: Conformably to this, you will not carp at expression, nor carry your objections to unessential points; guarding against schisms by all possible means, and giving our Church every benefit and strength it can acquire from union.

It is superfluous to observe to you, that the sooner our Church can have the benefit of Episcopal superintendence, the nearer it will approach to perfection; and to recommend to your attention the aid of this necessary character.

On the same day the following resolution was also adopted:—

Resolved, That the Book of Common Prayer as recommended by¹ the late General Convention be approved, ratified and used, except the rubric before the Communion Service, and such alterations of the Arts. as are referred to the consideration of the next General Convention; and that the Psalms be used as heretofore until a sufficient number of the new books can be procured.¹

Alterations in the Proposed Book agreed on by the South Carolina Convention, May 31st, 1786.¹

The Convention resumed the consideration of the Report of the Committee for revising the Liturgy of the Church of England; which being read, is as follows:

The Committee appointed to examine the alteration of the Liturgy, as set forth by the General Convention held in Philadelphia; Report,

That the punctuation throughout be critically attended to.

The first introductory sentence to be adopted, and expunge the rest. And after reading the first, proceed to the Apostles' creed, and there leave out the word again, between the words rose and from. But if the whole of the introductory sentences as they now stand, should be approved, the words, God is, instead of He is, to be used in the concluding one. At the conclusion of the address to the congregation, after the word saying, omit the words after me. The Declaration to remain as in the original absolution, only expunging the word power. The Lord's Prayer to be transposed after the words in the Litany, neither reward us after our Iniquities. The sentences after the Lord's Prayer to be expunged, except the two first; and the Venite to conclude with the Gloria Patri. In the Te Deum, instead of pure Virgin, read the Blessed, and add the word most, between thy and precious blood. And instead of as our Trust, read for our Trust. The Benedictus to be omitted. After the Jubilate expunge the sentences, O Lord bless &c. &c. and mercifully hear, &c. Before the Litany add to the Rubric in Italics, to correspond with our mode of praying for the sick. When the prayers of the congregation are desired for a sick person or persons, the Minister shall say, The prayers of this Congregation are desired for, &c. In the Litany expunge after others in authority, the words Legislative, Executive and Judicial. Instead of women in childbirth, read all women through the Perils of childbirth. Use the words young children, before all sick persons; with an asterisk* of accommodation, when any body particularly desires the prayers of the congregation, and to be printed as in the prayer for all conditions of men. In the last response immediately before the prayer, We humbly beseech thee, instead of as we, read, for we do put &c.

EVENING SERVICE. The first sentence and Belief as in the Morning Service. The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis to be omitted. The Gloria Patri to be used at the conclusion of Deus misereatur. Then proceed to the versicles before the Lord's Prayer, The Lord be with you, and go on with the Lord's Prayer, &c. till you come to bless and preserve these states, which omit, but use all the rest, and then begin the prayers with the Collect for the Day, as in the old form, 3d Collect. The Collect in old Liturgy to be retained. Prayer for Clergy and People, add after Bishops, the word Priests. The Prayer for fair weather, to be altered as follows: O Almighty and Merciful God, although we for our Iniquities have worthily deserved a plague of rain and waters, yet of thy bountiful goodness, send us, we beseech thee, such favourable weather, &c.

this Service (as now printed) to be transposed, and make it the first rubric at the beginning of the Service. Expunge the word and, before if any of the Consecrated. In the exhortation, Dearly beloved in the Lord, instead of Guilty of the blood, &c. use a Colon after unworthily, and read thus; for thereby we profane the Body and Blood, &c.

PUBLIC BAPTISM. In the four petitions for the Child's sanctification, read thus: O! merciful God grant that all carnal affections may die in this child, and that all things, &c. The third wholly approved of. The fourth, omit the words by our office and ministry. These alterations will apply to Baptism of such as are of Riper Years. In the consecration of the water, instead of therein, read therewith (in Italics). In Rubrick, expunge, and warily.

CATECHISM. Make this alteration in explication of Lord's Prayer. Instead of words Ghostly and Bodily, read dangers spiritual and temporal; and expunge, from our Ghostly enemy. To preserve the analogy in the answer, of what is the outward visible sign or form in Baptism, read, water wherewith, instead of water wherein.

CONFIRMATION. Omit the word Ghostly.

MATRIMONY. After the words, Dearly beloved in the Exhortation, read as follows, the holy Estate of Matrimony instituted of God, is not by any to be entered into unadvisedly or lightly, but reverently and discreetly, in the fear of God. I therefore require and charge, &c. till you come to the word coupled, which read united otherwise than God's word doth allow, their marriage is not lawful. Expunge the Rubrick, between the mutual stipulation of the Man and Woman. For if the man with his right hand takes the woman by her right hand, they have consequently a mutual hold on each other. On putting the ring on the woman's finger, say, with this Ring I thee wed, In the Name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost.

BURIAL. That the Lesson is not printed at large; recommend that it be.

Expunge in the Interment, lying before us. Quere? Whether the words, as our Hope is this our Brother doth, is not a typographical omission.

FOURTH OF JULY. Expunge the words in the Collect, all Churches of the Saints.

SERVICE AT SEA. Last Collect; instead of, in our lives, read thus, such as may appear by an humble, holy and obedient life, before thee all our days.

ART. 1. Expunge the word both, before visible; ditto after man's nature read thus, by humbling himself to be born of the blessed Virgin, and thereby became God and Man in one Christ.

ART. 2. At the conclusion, omit the word of, and read was never doubted in the Church.

ART. 3. Add the words though and, after mankind.

ART. 16. Instead of Christian men, read Christians.

Alterations in the Proposed Book suggested by the English Bishops, June, 1786.

To the Committee of the General Convention at Philadelphia, The Rev. Dr. White, President, The Rev. Dr. Smith, The Rev. Mr. Provoost, The Hon. James Duane, Samuel Powell, and Richard Peters, Esqrs.

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN:

INFLUENCED by the same sentiments of fraternal regard, expressed by the Archbishops and Bishops in their answer to your address, we desire you to be persuaded, that if we have not yet been able to comply with your request, the delay has proceeded from no tardiness on our part. The only cause of it has been the uncertainty in which we were left by receiving your address, unaccompanied by those communications with regard to your Liturgy, Articles and Ecclesiastical Constitution, without the knowledge of which we could not presume to apply to the Legislature for such powers as were necessary to the completion of your wishes. The Journal of your Convention, and the first part of your Liturgy, did not reach us till more than two months after our receipt of your address; and we were not in possession of the remaining part of it, and of your articles, until the last day of April. The whole of your communications was then, with as little delay as possible, taken into consideration at a meeting of the Archbishops and fifteen of the Bishops, being all who were then in London and able to attend; and it was impossible not to observe with concern, that if the essential doctrines of our common faith were retained, less respect, however, was paid to our Liturgy than its own excellence, and your declared attachment to it, had led us to expect; not to mention a variety of verbal alterations, of the necessity or propriety of which we are by no means satisfied, we saw with grief that two of the Confessions of our Christian faith, respectable for their antiquity, have been entirely laid aside; and that even in that called the Apostles' Creed, an article is omitted which was thought necessary to be inserted, with a view to a particular heresy, in a very early age of the Church, and has ever since had the venerable sanction of universal reception. Nevertheless, as a proof of the sincere desire which we feel to continue in spiritual communion with the members of your Church in America, and to complete the Orders of your Ministry, and trusting that the communications which we shall make to you, on the subject of these and some other alterations, will have their desired effect, we have, even under these circumstances, prepared a Bill for conveying to us the powers necessary for this purpose. It will in a few days be presented to Parliament, and we have the best reasons to hope that it will receive the assent of the Legislature. This Bill will enable the Archbishops and Bishops to give Episcopal consecration to the persons who shall be recommended, without requiring from them any oaths or subscriptions inconsistent with the situation in which the late Revolution has placed them; upon condition that the full satisfaction of the sufficiency of the persons recommended, which you offer to us in your address, be given to the Archbishops and Bishops. You will doubtless receive it as a mark both of our friendly disposition toward you, and of our desire to avoid all delay on this occasion, that we have taken this earliest opportunity of conveying to you this intelligence, and that we proceed (as supposing ourselves invested with that power which for your sakes we have requested) to state to you particularly the several heads upon which that satisfaction which you offer will be accepted, and the mode in which it may be given. The anxiety which is shown by the Church of England to prevent the intrusion of unqualified persons into even the inferior offices of our Ministry, confirms our own sentiments, and points it out to be our duty, very earnestly to require the most decisive proofs of the qualifications of those who may be offered for admission to that Order to which the superintendence of those offices is committed. At our several Ordinations of a Deacon and a Priest, the candidate submits himself to the examination of the Bishop as to his proficiency in learning; he gives the proper security of his soundness in the Faith by the subscriptions which are made previously necessary; he is required to bring testimonials of his virtuous conversation during the three preceding years; and that no mode of inquiry may be omitted, public notice of his offering himself to be ordained is given in the Parish church where he resides or ministers, and the people are solemnly called upon to declare if they know any impediment, for the which he ought not to be admitted. At the time of Ordination, too, the same solemn call is made on the congregation then present.

Examination, subscription, and testimonials are not indeed repeated at the consecration of an English bishop, because the person to be consecrated has added to the securities given at his former ordinations, that sanction which arises from his having constantly lived and exercised his ministry under the eyes and observation of his country. But the objects of our present consideration are very differently circumstanced; their sufficiency in learning, the soundness of their faith, and the purity of their manners, are not matters of notoriety here. Means, therefore, must be found to satisfy the Archbishop who consecrates, and the Bishops who present them, that, in the words of our Church, "they be apt and meet for their learning and godly conversation, to exercise their ministry duly to the honour of God and the edifying of his Church, and to be wholesome examples and patterns to the flock of Christ."

With regard to the first qualification, sufficiency in good learning, we apprehend that the subjecting a person, who is to be admitted to the office of a Bishop in the Church, to that examination which is required previous to the ordination of Priests and Deacons, might lessen that reverend estimation which ought never to be separated from the Episcopal character: we therefore do not require any further satisfaction on this point, than will be given to us by the forms of testimonials in the annexed paper, fully trusting that those who sign them will be well aware, how greatly incompetence in this respect must lessen the weight and authority of the Bishop and affect the credit of the Episcopal Church.

Under the second head, that of subscription, our desire is to require that subscription only to be repeated, which you have already been called upon to make by the Tenth Article of your Ecclesiastical Constitution: but we should forget the duty which we owe to our own Church, and act inconsistently with that sincere regard which we bear to yours, if we were not explicit in declaring, that, after the disposition we have shown to comply with the prayer of your address, we think it now incumbent upon you to use your utmost exertions also for the removal of any stumbling-block of offence which may possibly prove an obstacle to the success of it. We therefore most earnestly exhort you, that previously to the time of your making such subscription, you restore to its integrity the Apostles' Creed, in which you have omitted an article, merely, as it seems, from misapprehension of the sense in which it is understood by our Church; nor can we help adding, that we hope you will think it but a decent proof of the attachment which you profess to the services of your Liturgy, to give to the other two Creeds a place in your Book of Common Prayer, even though the use of them should be left discretional. We should be inexcusable, too, if, at the time when you are requesting the establishment of Bishops in your Church, we did not strongly represent to you that the Eighth Article of your Ecclesiastical Constitution appears to us to be a degradation of the Clerical, and still more of the Episcopal character. We persuade ourselves, that in your ensuing Convention some alteration will be thought necessary in this article, before this reaches you; or, if not, that due attention will be given to it in consequence of our representation.

On the third and last head, which respects purity of manners, the reputation of the Church, both in England and America, and the interest of our common Christianity is so deeply concerned in it, that we feel it our indispensable duty to provide, on this subject, the most effectual securities. It is presumed, that the same previous public notice of the intention of the person to be consecrated, will be given in the Church where he resides in America, for the same reasons, and therefore nearly in the same form with that used in England before our Ordinations. The call upon the persons present at the time of consecration, must be deemed of little use before a congregation composed of those to whom the person to be consecrated is unknown. The testimonials signed by persons living in England admit of reference and examination, and the characters of those who give them are subject to scrutiny, and in cases of criminal deceit to punishment.* In proportion as these circumstances are less applicable to testimonials from America, those testimonials must be more explicit, and supported by a greater number of signatures. We therefore think it necessary that the several persons, candidates for Episcopal consecration, should bring us, both a testimonial from the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, with as many signatures as can be obtained, and a more particular one, from the respective Conventions in those States which recommend them. It will appear from the tenor of the letters testimonial used in England, a form of which is annexed, that the ministers who sign them bear testimony to the qualifications of the candidates on their own personal knowledge. Such a testimony is not to be expected from the members of the General Convention of the Episcopal Church in America on this occasion. We think it sufficient, therefore, that they declare they know no impediment, but believe the person to be consecrated is of a virtuous life and sound faith. We have sent you such a form as appears to us proper to be used for that purpose. More specific declarations must be made by the members of the Convention in each State from which the persons offered for consecration are respectively recommended; their personal knowledge of them there can be no doubt of; we trust, therefore, they will have no objection to the adoption of the form of a testimonial which is annexed, and drawn upon the same principles, and containing the same attestations of personal knowledge with that above mentioned, as acquired previously to our Ordinations. We trust we shall receive these testimonials signed by such a majority in each Convention that recommend, as to leave no doubt of the fitness of the candidates upon the minds of those whose consciences are concerned in the consecration of them.

Thus much we have thought it right to communicate to you, without reserve, at present, intending to give you farther information as soon as we are able. In the mean time, we pray God to direct your counsels in this very weighty matter, and are,

Mr. President and gentlemen,

Your affectionate Brethren,

J. CANTUAR.

Alterations in the Proposed Book adopted by the General Convention at Wilmington, October 11th, 1786.

An Act of the General Convention of Clerical and Lay Deputies of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in the States of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, and South Carolina, held at Wilmington, in the State of Delaware, on Wednesday, the 11th of October, 1786.

WHEREAS, at a General Convention of Clerical and Lay Deputies of the Protestant Episcopal Church in sundry of the United States of America, viz., New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, and South Carolina, holden at the City of Philadelphia, on the Tuesday before the Feast of St. Michael, in the year of our Lord, 1785, and divers subsequent days, it was agreed and declared, that "The Book of Common Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church, according to the use of the Church of England," should be continued to be used by this Church, as the same was altered by the said Convention, in a certain instrument of writing, passed by their authority, intituled "Alterations of the Liturgy of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, in order to render the same conformable to the American Revolution and the Constitutions of the respective States." And it was further agreed and declared, that the Book of Common Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church, according to the use of the Church of England, as altered by an instrument of writing passed under the authority of the aforesaid Convention, intituled, "Alterations in the Book of Common Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church, according to the use of the Church of England, proposed and recommended to the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, should be used in this Church, when the same should have been ratified by the Conventions which had respectively sent deputies to the said General Convention." And thereupon the said Convention, anxious to complete their Episcopal system by means of the Church of England, did transcribe and transmit an address to the Most Reverend and Right Reverend the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, and the Bishops of the Church of England, earnestly entreating that venerable body to confer the Episcopal character on such persons as should be recommended by this Church in the several States so represented.

And whereas the Clerical and Lay Deputies of this Church have received the most friendly and affectionate letters, in answer to the said address, from the said Archbishops and Bishops, opening a fair prospect of the success of their said applications, but at the same time earnestly exhorting this Convention to use their utmost exertions for the removal of certain objections by them made, against some parts of the alterations in the Book of Common Prayer and Rites and Ceremonies of this Church last mentioned. In pursuance whereof, this present General Convention hath been called and is now assembled: and being sincerely desirous to give every satisfaction to their Lordships which will be consistent with the union and general content of the Church they represent, and declaring their steadfast resolution to maintain the same essential Articles of Faith and Discipline with the Church of England:

Now, therefore, the said Deputies do hereby determine and declare:

First,—That in the Creed commonly called the Apostles' Creed, these words, "He descended into Hell," shall be and continue a part of that Creed.

Secondly,—That the Nicene Creed shall also be inserted in the said Book of Common Prayer, immediately after the Apostles' Creed, prefaced with the Rubrick (or this).

And whereas,—In consequence of the objections expressed by their Lordships to the alterations in the Book of Common Prayer last mentioned, the Conventions in some of the States represented in this General Convention have suspended the ratification and use of the said Book of Common Prayer, by reason whereof it will be improper that persons to be consecrated or ordained as Bishops, Priests, or Deacons respectively, should subscribe the declaration contained in the Tenth Article of the General Ecclesiastical Constitution, without some modification :

Therefore it is hereby determined and declared,

Thirdly,—That the second clause so to be subscribed by a Bishop, Priest, or Deacon of this Church, in any of the States which have not already ratified or used the last-mentioned Book of Common Prayer, shall be in the words following: “And I do solemnly engage to conform to the doctrine and worship of the Protestant Episcopal Church, according to the use of the Church of England, as the same is altered by the General Convention, in a certain instrument of writing passed by their authority, intituled, ‘Alterations of the Liturgy of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, in order to render the same conformable to the American Revolution and the Constitutions of the respective States,’ until the new Book of Common Prayer, recommended by the General Convention, shall be ratified or used in the State in which I am—(Bishop, Priest, or Deacon, as the case may be)—by the authority of the Convention thereof. And I do further solemnly engage, that when the said New Book of Common Prayer shall be ratified or used by the authority of the Convention in the State for which I am consecrated a Bishop—(or ordained a Priest or Deacon)—I will conform to the doctrines and worship of the Protestant Episcopal Church, as settled and determined in the last-mentioned Book of Common Prayer and administration of the Sacraments, set forth by the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States.”

And it is hereby further determined and declared,

That these words in the Preface to the new proposed Book of Common Prayer, viz., “In the Creed commonly called ‘the Apostles’ Creed,’ one clause is omitted, as being of uncertain meaning, and”—together with the note referred to in that place, be from henceforth no part of the Preface to the said proposed Book of Common Prayer.

And it is hereby further determined and declared,

That the Fourth Article of Religion in the new proposed Book of Common Prayer, be altered to render it conformable to the adoption of the Nicene Creed, as follows: “Of the Creeds. The two Creeds, namely, that commonly called the Apostles’ Creed and the Nicene Creed, ought to be received and believed, because they,” etc., etc.

Done in General Convention, at Wilmington, in the State of Delaware, the day and year first aforesaid.

THE COMMUNION-OFFICE, | OR ORDER | FOR THE ADMINISTRATION | OF THE | HOLY EUCHARIST | OR | SUPPER OF THE LORD. | WITH | PRIVATE DEVOTIONS. | Recommended to the Episcopal Congregati- | ons in Connecticut, | By the Right Reverend | BISHOP SEABURY. | — | NEW LONDON: | Printed by T. THE COMMUNION-OFFICE.

¶ The Exhortation.

DEARLY beloved in the Lord, ye that mind to come to the holy Communion of the body and blood of our Saviour Christ, must consider how St. Paul exhorteth all persons diligently to try and examine themselves, before they presume to eat of that bread, and drink of that cup. For as the benefit is great, if with a true penitent heart and lively faith we receive that holy sacrament, (for then we spiritually eat the flesh of Christ, and drink his blood: then we dwell in Christ, and Christ in us; we are one with Christ, and Christ with us;) so is the danger great, if we receive the same unworthily, not considering the Lord's body; for then we are guilty of the body and blood of Christ our Saviour; we kindle God's wrath against us, and bring his judgments upon us. Judge therefore yourselves, brethren, that ye be not judged of the Lord; repent you truly for your sins past; have a lively and stedfast faith in Christ our Saviour; amend your lives, and be in perfect charity with all men; so shall ye be meet partakers of those holy mysteries. And, above all things, ye must give most humble and hearty thanks to God the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, for the redemption of the world, by the death and passion of our Saviour Christ, both God and man, who did humble himself even to the death upon the cross for us miserable sinners, who lay in darkness and the shadow of death, that he might make us the children of God, and exalt us to everlasting life. And to the end that we should always remember the exceeding great love of our Master and only Saviour Jesus Christ thus dying for us, and the innumerable benefits which by his precious blood-shedding he hath obtained to us, he hath instituted and ordained holy mysteries, as pledges of his love, and for a continual remembrance of his death, to our great and endless comfort. To him, therefore, with the Father, and the Holy Ghost, let us give (as we are most bounden) continual thanks, submitting ourselves wholly to his holy will and pleasure, and studying to serve him in true holiness and righteousness all the days of our life. Amen.

¶ Then the Priest, or Deacon, shall say,

Let us present our offerings to the Lord with reverence and Godly fear.

¶ Then the Priest shall begin the offertory, saying one or more of these sentences following, as he thinketh most convenient in his discretion.

IN process of time it came to pass, that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the Lord. And Abel, he also brought of the firstlings of his flock, and of the fat thereof. And the Lord had respect unto Abel, and to his offering: but unto Cain and to his offering he had not respect. Gen. iv. 3, 4.

Speak unto the children of Israel, that they bring me an offering: of every man that giveth it willingly with his heart, ye shall take my offering. Exod. xxv. 2.

Ye shall not appear before the Lord empty. Every man shall give as he is able, according to the blessing of the Lord your God, which he hath given you. Deut. xvi. 16, 17.

Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name: bring an offering, and come into his courts. Psal. xcvi. 8.

Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal; but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal. Mat. vi. 19, 20.

Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven: but he that doth the will of my Father which is in heaven. Matth. vii. 21.

Jesus sat over against the treasury, and beheld how the people cast money into it: and many that were rich cast in much. And there came a certain poor widow, and she threw in two mites, which make a farthing. And he called unto him his disciples, and saith unto them, Verily I say unto you, that this poor widow hath cast more in, than all they which have cast into the treasury. For all they did cast in of their abundance; but she of her want did cast in all that she had, even all her living. Mark xii. 41, 42, 43, 44.

Who goeth a warfare at any time of his own charges? who planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruit thereof? or who feedeth a flock, and eateth not of the milk of the flock? 1 Cor. ix. 7.

If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great matter if we should reap your carnal things? 1 Cor. ix. 11.

Do ye not know, that they which minister about holy things, live of the sacrifice? and they which wait at the altar, are partakers with the altar? Even so hath the Lord ordained, that they who preach the gospel, should live of the gospel. 1 Cor. ix. 13, 14.

He that soweth sparingly, shall reap also sparingly: and he who soweth bountifully, shall reap also bountifully. Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity; for God loveth a cheerful giver. 2 Cor. ix. 6, 7.

Let him that is taught in the word, communicate unto him that teacheth, in all good things. Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. Gal. vi. 6, 7.

Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy: That they do good, that they be rich in good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicate; laying up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come, that they may lay hold on eternal life. 1 Tim. vi. 17, 18, 19.

God is not unrighteous, to forget your work and labour of love, which ye have shewed toward his name, in that ye have ministered to the saints, and do minister. Heb. vi. 10.

To do good, and to communicate, forget not; for with such sacrifices God is well pleased. Heb. xiii. 16.

¶ While the Priest distinctly pronounceth some or all of these sentences for the offertory, the Deacon, or (if no such be present) some other fit person, shall receive the devotions of the people, in a bason provided for that purpose. And when all have offered, he shall reverently bring, and deliver it to the Priest; who shall humbly present it before the Lord, and set it upon the holy table, saying,

BLESSED be thou, O Lord God, for ever and ever. Thine, O Lord, is the greatness and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty; for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine: thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all; both riches and honour come of thee, and of thine own do we give unto thee. Amen.

¶ And the Priest shall then offer up, and place the bread and wine prepared for the sacrament upon the Lord's table, putting a little pure water into the cup: and shall say,

The Lord be with you.

Answer. And with thy spirit.

Priest. Lift up your hearts.

Answer. We lift them up unto the Lord.

Priest. Let us give thanks unto our Lord God.

Answer. It is meet and right so to do.

Priest. It is very meet, right, and our bounden duty, that we should at all times, and in all places give thanks unto thee O Lord, * [holy Father,] Almighty, * These words (holy Father) must be omitted on Trinity-Sunday. everlasting God.

¶ Here shall follow the proper preface, according to the time, if there be any especially appointed; or else immediately shall follow,

¶ Upon Christmas-day, and seven days after.

BECAUSE thou didst give Jesus Christ thine only Son, to be born * [as on this day] for us, who, by the operation of the Holy Ghost, was made very man, of the substance of the blessed Virgin Mary his mother, and that without spot of sin, to make us clean from all sin. Therefore with angels, &c. * During the seven days after Christmas, say, as at this time.

¶ Upon Easter-day, and seven days after.

BUT chiefly are we bound to praise thee, for the glorious resurrection of thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord: For he is the very Paschal Lamb, which was offered for us, and hath taken away the sin of the world; who by his death hath destroyed death, and by his rising to life again, hath restored to us everlasting life. Therefore with angels, &c.

¶ Upon Ascension-day, and seven days after.

THROUGH thy most dearly beloved Son, Jesus Christ our Lord; who, after his most glorious resurrection, manifestly appeared to all his apostles, and in their sight ascended up into heaven, to prepare a place for us; that where he is, thither might we also ascend, and reign with him in glory. Therefore with angels and archangels, &c.

¶ Upon Whitsunday, and six days after.

THROUGH Jesus Christ our Lord; according to whose most true promise the Holy Ghost came down * [as on this day] from heaven, with a sudden great sound, as it had been a mighty wind, in the likeness of fiery tongues, lighting upon the apostles, to teach them, and to lead them to all truth, giving them both the gift of divers languages, and also boldness with fervent zeal constantly to preach the gospel unto all nations, whereby we are brought out of darkness and error into the clear light and true knowledge of thee, and of thy Son Jesus Christ. Therefore with angels, &c.

* During the six days after Whitsunday, say, as at this time.

¶ Upon the feast of Trinity only.

WHO art one God, one Lord; not one only person, but three persons in one substance. For that which we believe of the glory of the Father, the same we believe of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, without any difference or inequality. Therefore with angels, &c.

¶ After which prefaces shall follow immediately this doxology.

THEREFORE with angels and archangels, and with all the company of heaven, we laud and magnify thy glorious name, evermore praising thee, and saying, Holy, holy, holy Lord God of hosts, heaven and earth are full of thy glory. Glory be to thee, O Lord most high. Amen.

¶ Then the Priest standing at such a part of the holy table as he may with the most ease and decency use both his hands, and shall say the prayer of consecration, as followeth.

ALL glory be to thee, Almighty God, our heavenly Father, for that thou of thy tender mercy didst give thy only Son Jesus Christ to suffer death upon the cross for our redemption; who made there (by his one oblation of himself once offered) a full, perfect, and sufficient sacrifice, oblation, and satisfaction, for the sins of the whole world; and did institute, and in his holy gospel command us to continue a perpetual memory of that his precious death and sacrifice until his coming again. For, in the night that he was betrayed (a) he took bread; and when he had given thanks, (b) he brake it, and gave to his disciples, saying, Take, eat, (c) THIS IS MY BODY, which is given for you: DO this in remembrance of me. Likewise after supper (d) he took the cup; and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of this, for (e) THIS IS MY BLOOD, of the new testament, which is shed for you, and for many, for the remission of sins: DO this as oft as ye shall drink it in remembrance of me.

(a) Here the Priest is to take the paten into his hands:

(b) And here to break the bread:

(c) And here to lay his hands upon all the bread.

(d) Here he is to take the cup into his hand:

(e) And here to lay his hand upon every vessel (be it chalice or flagon) in which there is any wine to be consecrated.

The Oblation.

WHEREFORE, O Lord, and heavenly Father, according to the institution of thy dearly beloved Son our Saviour Jesus Christ, we thy humble servants do celebrate and make here before thy divine majesty, with these thy holy gifts, WHICH

WE NOW OFFER UNTO THEE, the memorial thy Son hath commanded us to make; having in remembrance his blessed passion, and precious death, his mighty resurrection, and glorious ascension; rendering unto thee most hearty thanks for the innumerable benefits procured unto us

The Invocation. by the same. And we most humbly beseech thee, O merciful Father to hear us, and of thy almighty goodness vouchsafe to bless and sanctify, with thy word and Holy Spirit, these thy gifts and creatures of bread and wine, that they may become the body and blood of thy most dearly beloved Son. And we earnestly desire thy fatherly goodness, mercifully to accept this our sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving, most humbly beseeching thee to grant, that by the merits and death of thy Son Jesus Christ, and through faith in his blood, we (and all thy whole church) may obtain remission of our sins, and all other benefits of his passion. And here we offer and present unto thee, O Lord, ourselves, our souls and bodies, to be a reasonable, holy and lively sacrifice unto thee, humbly beseeching thee, that we and all others who shall be partakers of this holy Communion, may worthily receive the most precious body and blood of thy Son Jesus Christ, be filled with thy grace and heavenly benediction, and made one body with him, that he may dwell in them and they in him. And although we are unworthy, through our manifold sins, to offer unto thee any sacrifice; yet we beseech thee to accept this our bounden duty and service, not weighing our merits, but pardoning our offences, through Jesus Christ our Lord: by whom, and with whom, in the unity of the Holy Ghost, all honour and glory be unto thee, O Father Almighty, world without end. Amen.

¶ Let us pray for the whole state of Christ's Church.

ALMIGHTY and everliving God, who by thy holy Apostle hast taught us to make prayers and supplications, and to give thanks for all men; We humbly beseech thee most mercifully to accept our alms and oblations, and to receive these our prayers, which we offer unto thy divine majesty; beseeching thee to inspire continually the universal church with the spirit of truth, unity and concord; and grant that all they who do confess thy holy name, may agree in the truth of thy holy word and live in unity and godly love. We beseech thee also to save and defend all Christian Kings, Princes, and Governors; and grant that they, and all who are in authority, may truly and impartially minister justice to the punishment of wickedness and vice, and to the maintenance of thy true religion and virtue. Give grace, O heavenly Father, to all Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, that they may both by their life and doctrine set forth thy true and lively word, and rightly and duly administer thy holy sacraments: and to all thy people give thy heavenly grace, that with meek heart, and due reverence, they may hear and receive thy holy word, truly serving thee in holiness and righteousness all the days of their life. And we commend especially to thy merciful goodness the congregation here assembled in thy name, to celebrate the commemoration of the most precious death and sacrifice of thy Son and our Saviour Jesus Christ. And we most humbly beseech thee of thy goodness, O Lord, to comfort and succour all those who in this transitory life are in trouble, sorrow, need, sickness, or any other adversity. And we also bless thy holy name for all thy servants, who, having finished their course in faith, do now rest from their labours: yielding unto thee most high praise and hearty thanks, for the wonderful goodness and virtue declared in all thy saints, who have been the choice vessels of thy grace, and the lights of the world in their several generations: most humbly beseeching thee to give us grace to follow the example of their stedfastness in thy faith, and obedience to thy holy commandments, that at the day of the general resurrection, we, and all they who are of the mystical body of thy Son, may be set on his right hand, and hear that his most joyful voice, Come, ye blessed of my father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world Grant this, O Father, for Jesus Christ's sake, our only Mediator and Advocate. Amen.

As our Saviour Christ hath commanded and taught us, we are bold to say,

OUR Father who art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, and the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

¶ Then shall the priest say to them that come to receive the holy communion, this invitation.

YE that do truly and earnestly repent you of your sins, and are in love and charity with your neighbours, and intend to lead a new life, following the commandments of God, and walking from henceforth in his holy ways: Draw near with faith and take this holy sacrament to your comfort; and make your humble confession to Almighty God.

¶ Then shall this general confession be made, by the people, along with the priest; all humbly kneeling upon their knees.

ALMIGHTY God, Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, maker of all things, judge of all men; We acknowledge and bewail our manifold sins and wickedness, which we from time to time most grievously have committed, by thought, word, and deed, against thy divine Majesty; provoking most justly thy wrath and indignation against us. We do earnestly repent, and are heartily sorry for these our misdoings; the remembrance of them is grievous unto us; the burden of them is intolerable. Have mercy upon us, have mercy upon us, most merciful Father; for thy Son our Lord Jesus Christ's sake, forgive us all that is past; and grant, that we may ever hereafter serve and please thee, in newness of life, to the honour and glory of thy name, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest, or the Bishop, (being present,) stand up, and turning himself to the people, pronounce the absolution as followeth.

ALMIGHTY God our heavenly Father, who, of his great mercy, hath promised forgiveness of sins to all them that with hearty repentance and true faith turn unto him; Have mercy upon you; pardon and deliver you from all your sins; confirm and strengthen you in all goodness; and bring you to everlasting life, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Priest say,

Hear what comfortable words our Saviour Christ saith unto all that truly turn to him :

COME unto me, all ye that labour, and are heavy laden, and I will refresh you. Matth. ix. 28.

Private ejaculation.

Refresh, O Lord, thy servant wearied with the burden of sin.

God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him, should not perish, but have everlasting life. John iii. 16.

Private ejaculation.

Lord, I believe in thy Son Jesus Christ, and let this faith purify me from all iniquity.

Hear also what St. Paul saith.

This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners. 1 Tim. i. 15.

Private ejaculation.

I embrace with all thankfulness that salvation that Jesus has brought into the world.

Hear also what St. John saith.

If any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous : and he is the propitiation for our sins. 1 John ii. 1, 2.

Private ejaculation.

Intercede for me, O blessed Jesu ! that my sins may be pardoned, through the merits of thy death.

¶ Then shall the Priest, turning him to the altar, kneel down and say, in the name of all them that shall communicate, this collect of humble access to the holy communion, as followeth.

WE do not presume to come to this thy holy table, O merciful Lord, trusting in our own righteousness, but in thy manifold and great mercies. We are not worthy so much as to gather up the crumbs under thy table : But thou art the same Lord, whose property is always to have mercy. Grant us therefore, gracious Lord, so to eat the flesh of thy dear Son Jesus Christ, and to drink his blood, that our sinful bodies may be made clean by his most sacred body, and our souls washed through his most precious blood, and that we may evermore dwell in him, and he in us. Amen.

¶ Then shall the Bishop, if he be present, or else the Priest that celebrateth, first receive the communion in both kinds himself, and next deliver it to other Bishops, Presbyters, and Deacons, (if there be any present,) and after to the people in due order, all humbly kneeling. And when he receiveth himself, or delivereth the sacrament of the body of Christ to others, he shall say,

THE body of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was given for thee, preserve thy soul and body unto everlasting life.

¶ Here the person receiving shall say, Amen.

¶ And when the Priest receiveth the cup himself, or delivereth it to others, he shall say,

THE blood of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was shed for thee, preserve thy soul and body unto everlasting life.

¶ Here the person receiving shall say, Amen.

¶ If the consecrated bread or wine be all spent before all have communicated, the Priest is to consecrate more, according to the form before prescribed, beginning at the words, All glory be to thee, &c., and ending with the words, that they may become the body and blood of thy most dearly beloved Son.

¶ When all have communicated, he that celebrates shall go to the Lord's table, and cover with a fair linen cloth that which remaineth of the consecrated elements, and then say,

Having now received the precious body and blood of Christ, let us give thanks to our Lord God, who hath graciously vouchsafed to admit us to the participation of his holy mysteries; and let us beg of him grace to perform our vows, and to persevere in our good resolutions; that being made holy, we may obtain everlasting life, through the merits of the all sufficient sacrifice of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Private Devotions for the Altar.

BLESSED Jesus! Saviour of the world! who hast called me to the participation of these thy holy mysteries, accept my humble approach to thy sacred table, increase my faith, settle my devotion, fix my contemplation on thy powerful mercy; and while with my mouth I receive the sacred symbols of thy body and blood, may they be the means of heavenly nourishment to prepare my body and soul for that everlasting life which thou hast purchased by thy merits, and promised to bestow on all who believe in and depend on thee. Amen.

Prayer to God.

O GRACIOUS and merciful God, Thou supreme Being, Father, Word and Holy Ghost, look down from heaven, the throne of thy essential glory, upon me thy unworthy creature, with the eyes of thy covenanted mercy and compassion: O Lord my God, I disclaim all merit, I renounce all righteousness of my own, either inherent in my nature, or acquired by my own industry: And I fly for refuge, for pardon and sanctification, to the righteousness of thy Christ: For his sake, for the sake of the blessed Jesus, the Son of thy covenanted love, whom Thou hast set forth to be a propitiation for fallen man, and in whom alone Thou art well pleased, have mercy upon me, receive my prayers, pardon my infirmities, strengthen my weak resolutions, guide my steps to thy holy altar, and there feed me with the meat which perisheth not, but endureth to everlasting life. Amen.

After Receiving.

BLESSED Jesus! Thou hast now blest me with the food of thy own merciful institution and, in humble faith of thy gracious promise, I have bowed myself at thy table, to receive the precious pledges of thy dying love; O may thy presence go with me from this happy participation of thy goodness, that when I return to the necessary labours and employments of this miserable world, I may be enabled by thy grace to obey thy commandments, and conducted by thy watchful care through all trials, till, according to thy divine wisdom, I have finished my course here with joy, that so I may depart out of this world in peace, and in a stedfast dependence on thy merits, O blessed Jesus, in whose prevailing words I shut up all my imperfect wishes, saying,

Our Father, &c. Amen.

¶ Then the Priest shall say this collect of thanksgiving, as followeth.

ALMIGHTY and everliving God, we most heartily thank thee, for that thou dost vouchsafe to feed us, who have duly received these holy mysteries, with the spiritual food of the most precious body and blood of thy Son our Saviour Jesus Christ; and doth assure us thereby of thy favour and goodness towards us, and that we are very members incorporate in the mystical body of thy Son, which is the blessed company of all faithful people, and are also heirs through hope of thy everlasting kingdom, by the merits of his most precious death and passion. We now most humbly beseech thee, O heavenly Father, so to assist us with thy grace and Holy Spirit, that we may continue in that holy communion and fellowship, and do all such good works as thou hast commanded us to walk in, through Jesus Christ our Lord; to whom, with Thee and the Holy Ghost, be all honour and glory, world without end. Amen.

¶ Then shall be said or sung, Gloria in excelsis, as followeth.

GLORY be to God on high, and in earth peace, good will towards men. We praise thee, we bless thee, we worship thee, we glorify thee, we give thanks to thee, for thy great glory, O Lord God, heavenly King, God the Father Almighty; and to Thee, O God, the only begotten Son Jesu Christ; and to Thee, O God, the Holy Ghost.

O Lord, the only begotten Son Jesu Christ; O Lord God, Lamb of God, Son of the Father, who takest away the sins of the world, have mercy upon us. Thou that takest away the sins of the world, receive our prayer. Thou that sittest at the right hand of God the Father, have mercy upon us.

For thou only art holy, thou only art the Lord, thou only, O Christ, with the Holy Ghost, art most high in the glory of God the Father. Amen.

¶ Then the Priest, or Bishop, if he be present, shall let them depart, with this blessing.

THE peace of God, which passeth all understanding, keep your hearts and minds in the knowledge and love of God, and of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord: and the blessings of God Almighty, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost be amongst you, and remain with you always. Amen.

*THE END.*¹

at the instance of Bishop Hobart.*

The House of Bishops, deeply solicitous to preserve unimpaired the Liturgy of the Church, and yet desirous to remove the reasons alleged from the supposed length of the service, for the omission of some of its parts, and particularly for the omission of that part of the communion office, which is commonly called the Ante-Communion office, do unani- mously propose to the House of Clerical and Lay Deputies, the following resolutions, to be submitted to the several State Conventions, in order to be acted upon at the next General Convention, agreeably to the Eighth Art. of the Constitution.

1. Resolved,—That in “The Order how the Psalter is appointed to be read,” the following be added the fourth paragraph “or any other psalm or psalms, except in those days in which proper psalms are appointed:” so that the whole paragraph will read as follows: “The minister, instead of reading from the Psalter as divided for daily Morning and Evening Prayer may read one of the selections set out by this Church, or any other psalm or psalms, except in those days in which ‘proper psalms’ are appointed.”

2. Resolved,—That in “The order how the rest of the holy Scripture is appointed to be read,” the following be inserted after the fifth paragraph: “The minister may, at his discretion, instead of the entire lessons, read suitable portions thereof, not less than fifteen verses. And on other days than Sundays and holy days, in those places where morning and evening prayer is not daily used, he may read other portions of the Old and New Testaments, instead of the prescribed lessons; it being recommended that, unless circumstances render it inexpedient, on the stated prayer days of Wednesdays and Fridays, the lessons for those days, or for one of the intervening days be read.”

The Bishops in the use of the office of Confirmation, finding that the preface is frequently not suited to the age and character of those who are presented for this holy ordinance, unanimously propose the following resolution:

3. Resolved,—That after the present preface in the office of Confirmation, the following be inserted, to be used instead of the former, at the discretion of the Bishop: “It appears from holy Scripture, that the Apostles laid their hands on those who were baptized; and this ordinance, styled by the apostle Paul, the ‘laying on of hands,’ and ranked by him among the principles of the doctrine of Christ, has been retained in the Church, under the name of Confirmation; and is very convenient, and proper to be observed, to the end that persons being sufficiently instructed in what they promised, or what was promised for them in their baptism, and being in other respects, duly qualified, may themselves, with their own mouth and consent, openly before the Church, ratify and confirm the same, and also promise, that by the grace of God, they will evermore endeavour themselves faithfully to observe such things as they, by their own confession, have assented unto.”

And to correct the injurious misapprehension, as to the meaning of certain terms, in the first collect in the office of Confirmation, the Bishop unanimously propose the following resolution:

4. Resolved,—That after the first collect in the office of Confirmation, the following be inserted, to be used at the discretion of the Bishop, instead of the first collect, “Almighty and everliving God, who hast vouchsafed, in baptism, to regenerate these thy Servants, by water and the Holy Ghost; thus giving them a title to all the blessings of thy covenant of grace and mercy, in thy Son Jesus Christ, and now dost graciously confirm unto them, ratifying the promises then made, all their holy privileges; grant unto them, we beseech thee, O Lord, the renewing of the Holy Ghost; strengthen them with the power of this divine Comforter; and daily increase in them thy manifold gifts of grace, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and ghostly strength, the spirit of knowledge and true godliness, and fill them, O Lord, with the spirit of thy holy fear, now and forever.

Amen.

And whereas, in the opinion of the Bishops, there is no doubt as to the obligation of ministers to say, on all Sundays and other holy days, that part of the communion office which is commonly called the ante-communion, yet as the practice of some of the clergy is not conformable to this construction of the rubric on this point, the House of Bishops propose the following resolution:

5. Resolved,—That the following be adopted as a substitute for the first sentence in the rubric, immediately after the communion office:

“On all Sundays and other holy days, shall be said, all that is appointed at the Communion, unto the end of the Gospel, concluding divine Service, in all cases when there is a Sermon or Communion, and when there is not, with the blessing.”

Alterations proposed by the General Convention of 1880.

Resolved, That the ratification of the Book of Common Prayer be amended so as to read as follows, and that such proposed amendment be made known to the several Diocesan Conventions, in order that it may be adopted in the next General Convention according to Article 8 of the Constitution:

THE RATIFICATION OF THE BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER.

By the Bishops, the Clergy, and the Laity of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, in General Convention assembled.

The General Convention of this Church, having heretofore, to wit, on the sixteenth day of October, A. D. 1789, set forth and established a book of Common Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church, and thereby established the said book and declared it to be the Liturgy of this Church, and required that it be received as such by all the members of the same, and be in use from and after the first day of October, A. D. 1790; the same book is hereby ratified and confirmed, and ordered to be the use of this Church from this time forth.

But note, however, that on days other than Sunday, Christmas Day, the Epiphany, Ash-Wednesday, Good Friday, and Ascension Day, it shall suffice if the minister begin Morning or Evening Prayer at the General Confession, or the Lord's Prayer preceded by one or more of the sentences appointed at the beginning of Morning and Evening Prayer, and end after the Collect for Grace, or the Collect for Aid against Perils, with 2 Cor. xiii. 14, using so much of the Lessons appointed for the day, and so much of the Psalter, as he shall judge to be for edification.

And note also, that on any day when Morning and Evening Prayer have been duly said, or are to be said, and upon days other than those first afore mentioned, it shall suffice when need may require, if a Sermon or Lecture be preceded by at least the Lord's Prayer and one or more Collects found in this book, provided that no prayers not set forth in said book, or otherwise authorized by this Church, shall be used before or after such sermon or lecture.

And note further also, that on any day the Morning Prayer, the Litany, or the Order for the Administration of the Lord's Supper, may be used as a separate and independent service, provided that no one of these services shall be disused habitually.¹
